SEMI-WEEKLY SUN, ST. JOHN, N B. AUGUST 18, 1900.

SHORT STORY OF THE DAY.

Mr. Chubb of Peckham.

Little

Aug. 14.am Little cemetery vice was ased by

also read

he grave

sons on the fu-

was for nt of the Railway

e engin.

Trusted

employ

man of host of

William

Monday)

a mani-

the re-

e family

he young

hood, beheld in ew him.

hat has number

es of the

eral cor-

osed in a mount-

loth. Im-

se was a eces and

ers, con-

Next fol-

hes and

ral public

gest line

a funeral

wn. The hurch of em high

the Rev.

the ar-

at the

as filled.

ling room

rs. The

on con-

ed to the Roman

commit-

the rev.

presence

wed the m O'Neill

oral char-

members

ssociates.

The con-

charge of furnish-

IGRATION.

was worm-tant states-

s everybody i began life

aan, "I be-d, squalling armor for

e German

TICE.

ET.

NE'S

without the relief

largest

Mr. Chubb of Peckham, London, S. E., lay on the ground all crumpled up with his leg twisted like a note of interrogation. He was wondering whether he was dead or alive. On the whole, Mr. Chubb rather believed himself to be dead. He had a vague recollection of a long, dreary march under a blistering sun, for an extraordinary feeling of emptiness; then of much loading and firing, and rushing forward and taking cover, and falling back and rushing forward again.

After that things became slightly mixed. Something hit him in the leg. It didn't hurt, you know, but it made him very angry, because he was very busy shooting Boers. So he had to sit down or lie down, and that's about all he remembered. Yes; Mr. Chubb felt tolerably confident that he was now a dead man, and was surprised at his own indifference. Somehow his thoughts turned to Peckham, and he remembered a Rye. Mr. Chubb chuckled at the mere certain bank holiday spent on the thought of it. He had been most surprisingly drunk that day. Not that being drunk was an unusual occurrence, but this was a swell affair. It was a kind of red-letter day, and had ended in a really delightful fight with a man from the country, whose wife had called Mrs. Chubb a "woman." It was too funny for words-so Mr. Chubb thought, as he lay there in a heap. A policeman arrived on the scene and requested the pleasure of his company as far as the station, and Mr. Chubb, being exuberantly happy, knocked him down and proceeded to jump on him. Finally it required four constables to persuade him to visit their official residence, and Mr. Chubb clearly recollected singing "It's a great big shame" the whole way, followed by an appreciative and admiring crowd. Lor'! what a day it was! And what glorious times he had had before this 'adjective" silly war broke out, and he was "odjective" silly fool enough to enlist for it! Just then Mr. Chubb felt a splash of rain on his face. Also he noticed that the atmosphere was cold, and he concluded from this that he was not dead, but very much alive.

He turned the notion over in his mind for some time. It was rather amusing, this being alive. There might still be time for some more fun. On the whole he might as well get up and find out where the other "hlokes" were

So Mr. Chubb proceeded to rise. Then he made a discovery. His right leg was, to use his own expresof the Horse Artillery being too weak to talk and Mr. Chubb of Peckham being very busy turning over an idea in his mind. "You'll excuse me," he said presently, "but ain't you the bloke that 'elped my missus and the kids when I was pinched?"

"Some friends of mine sent money to them," said the faint voice in a husky whisper.

"Lummy!" murmured Mr. Chubb, what a rum thing I should meet you here! So it was you sent 'em some money ever week? Well, I'm dashed!" Mr. Chubb was so taken up with this remarkable coincidence that, after careful thought, he added: "Well, I'm jiggered!"

Then another idea struck him, and, with much difficulty, he got out a small metal flask, in which he always carried a small supply of spirituous refreshment. "It ain"t likely "here's a drop left," he muttered. "I never do leave much he'ind." But on being shaken the flask gave up a slight gurgling sound; there was perhaps a tablespoonful of brandy in it. This was almost more surprising than meeting an unknown friend, and Mr. Chubb's remarks cannot with propriety be recorded.

His natural instinct was to unscrew the stopper and pour the contents down his ever thirsty throat, but something made him hesitate. "I say, matey," he said, gruffly, "I've found a drop of brandy in my flask. Could you manage to crawl over 'ere 'for it?"

There was no answer. Field of the Horse Artillery couldn't even murmur "No"

"Lor'," said Mr. Chubb indignantly, as if addressing a third person, "what's and that he had referred the committhe good of talking silly? The poor 'bloke can't move 'and or foot!" 'I reckon you'd better drink it your-'self, Mr. Chubb," he added, in a friendly voice. "You ain't looking quite the thing tonight." "Well, no 'thanks," he added regret fully, "I think I'll give it to that little sandy chap. You see, he's been a sort o' pal to me, unbeknown like." So, with much difficulty, and in spite of the most excruciating agony, Mr. Chubb of Peckham proceeded to drag But then word came to the effect that himself along the ground as best he could.

The pain was intense, and, although he was not a highly strung individual, the perspiration broke out on his face and head, and he clenched his teeth in a resolute determination not to cry out.

In the meantime, Field of the Horse sive phrase-"all over the shop." He Artillery had partly recovered con- liance, who maintained that the chief was no more able to stand, or even sit up, than he was able to fly; so he sciousness, and was vaguely aware that something was happening. fell back and "cussed" loud and deep. "What are you doing?" he groaned. Presently he heard a half-suppress-"I'm goin' to give you a nip o' braned groan. ISON. dy," said Mr. Chubb in a steady voice. 'Ullo!" said Mr. Chubb hoarsely. "Oh, I shall be glad of it!" murmur-'Oo's that singin'?" ed the other. "But don't you trouble "It's only me," said a faint voice. if it hurts you." "And oo's 'nly me when 'e's at 'Urts me?" said Mr. Chubb, in a oat Only. ome?" said Mr. Chubb. "I'm Field of the Horse Artillery," said anything about 'urting?" said the faint voice. Then he lay flat on his stomach, and "Never 'eard of you," said Mr. Chubb bit the sleeve of his jacket to stop dryly. 'Who are you?'' said Field of the himself from groaning. He was only a few yards from his comrade, but it Horse Artillery. YNE seemed like so many miles. "Me?" said Mr. Chubb. "Well, I'm Chubb of Peckham, at present serv-"It takes a long time when your NEWS, of ing with her glorious majesty's bloomman sympathetically. ing Rifle Brigade. Where are you medicine 1 "Well, I ain't exactly in racing conith me, a ful, to the should say dition," said Mr. Chubb. "But don't "In the stomach." you worry, I shall be there before Mr. Chubb was silent for a minute, Christmas." and then he said in a somewhat gens forms its Ten minutes later he could just mantler voice: age to reach Field of the Horse Ar-"Pretty bad, ain't it, matey?" "I reckon I'm about done for," said tillery with his outstretched arm. "'Ere you are, matey," he said. the voice, very faintly indeed. 'Garn!" said Mr. Chubb promptly. "Finish it up!" "Have you had some yourself?" "You ain't done for-not by a long way! Cheer up!" murmured the other doubtfully. "What do you think?" said Mr. Chubb grimly. "Did you ever know 'Where are you hit?" said the voice. "Right leg!" said Mr. Chubb, in a one of deep disgust. "Still, I s'pose me lose a chance?" I ought not to grumble. It don't 'urt So Field of the Horse Artillery swalwhen I keep still-at least, nothing to lowed the tablespoonful of brandy, and Rev. J. W. McConnell in the chair. Mr. Chubb smacked his lips at the speak of." There was silence for a few minutes, thought of the drink which he had and then Field of the Horse Artillery not had. "That's better," said Field. whispered: "I'm "Did you say you come from Peckawfully grateful to you!" "Don't mention it!" said Mr. Chubb. ham?' "Yus. No. 14 Angel Terrace, Queen's "Seems queer you should give me brandy when I've so often warned you road." "I know Peckham," said the faint against it. doesn't it?" said Field. "I feel another man already. Voice. "Glad of that," said Mr. "Lovely place, ain't it?" murmured Chubb Mr. Chubb sarcastically. "Wonderful, briefly. sea breeze you git all the way up from He was beginning to feel curiously the Elephant. And the view you gits drowsy, and although a moment ago from the giddy 'ights of Camberwell he had been perspiring from exertion he was now trembling with cold. is enough to turn your 'ead!' "I believe I know you," said the "I wonder when the ambulance will oice huskily. come?" said Field of the Horse Artil-"Know me?" echoed Mr. Chubb lery, almost cheerfully, for he felt so oubtfully. "That don't say much for much better. the company you keep. What are you "Don't know, I'm sure," muttered -a copper?" Mr. Chubb. "Bet I shall go straight "Before I joined I used to hold a 'ome to the missus in the mornin'." mperance service every Sunday on Mr. Chubb was wandering in his the Rye." said the faint voice, very head. faintly indeed. "I'm afraid I'm too "I'm always in trouble," he continubad to talk." ed thickly. "But it can't be 'elped. It "Don't trouble to talk, matey, if it was a bad day for the old woman when urts you," said Mr. Chubb affably. she married me. If your worship'll You leave it to me. Besides, I recgive me another chance I know the kon you've done your share of jawmissus'll forgive me-she always does -and I'll have another try. It ain't grant for want of trying, your worship. But, п. there, what's the good of talkin'? I There was a moment's silenc. for Mr ain't fit to wipe 'er boots!" "I'm afraid you're very ill, old man," Chubb was in some pain, and he alsaid Field, anxiously, noticing the luded to it in an undertone, with a change in his voice. wealth and variety of adjectives which "I never felt better in my life!" would have delighted the angels of snapped Mr. Chubb. "My leg's quite Angel terrace. well now. It don't hurt at all. Only 'Lor', fancy you being a temperance "pouter!" he said genially. "Wonder I feel sleepy." "Are there—are there any mesou hadn't more sense. I remembers by many sages?" said his comrade huskily, re-You. You're a little chap-sandy 'air and big mouth. I suppose you chuckalizing what was happening. which are "Nothin' in particular," muttered ed the temperance dodge when you Joined the army?" Mr. Chubb-"nothin' in particular. Mfrs. Still, if you should come across my old "No," said the weak voice, evidently woman, you might just tell 'er thatspeaking with a great effort. "But that I shall come straight home did give anything for a drink of branrectly I knock off work, and 'er and "Well, since yon mention it." said me'll go for a quiet walk together. I 'Taint 'cause I'm never hungry, I'm as chipdrop myself-or even a pot of four- Good night, matey. Wake me up at mother nourset the training of the trainin

Queen's Road, Peckham, 'cause I'm QUEBEC AND ITS ENVIRONS

So Field of the Horse Artillery was picked up by the ambulance party, great Champlain, and sent to Netley, but Mr. Chubb of Here vigorous Frontenac with iron Peckham had "knocked off work" for ruled. Here fell two heroes, one in victory Here fell two heroes, one in victory So Field of the Horse Artillery was, "Here sailed Jacques Cartier, bold and

Scarce realized, his rival in defeat." SABBATH OBSERVANCE. | Quebec, the Gibralter of America, is a favorite spot for tourists during the ale," he added thoughtfully, smacking his lips at the notion. Promises that the Law Will State of the artist, the historian, and the lover. Henry Ward Beecher says that every street of this small bit of mediaeval Europe perched upon a rock and dried for keeping is like the leaf of a picture book. Time has wrought few changes in the old city and no Chinese This Means the Closing of Cigar Stores wall was ever more jealously guarded and the Prevention of the Sale of Soda than the walls of Quebec, which are truly covered with historic ivy. There is no city in America intersected by such tortuous legend loving streets as this "Athens of Canada."

tee of the St. John Lord's Day Alliance every nook and square; even the rocks and stones have a story to tell, a tale to whisper of savage or civilized war-ascertain why the Sunday law was still |. The beauty of the scenery has been apparently a dead letter, seeing that the theme of general eulogy, the mait had been sustained by the supreme jestic appearance of Cape Diamond, the fortifications, the loveliness of the It was found that the responsibility St. Lawrence, and the lofty range of rested wholly with the city authorities, the Laurentian Mountains form a picand upon laying the matter before the ture that can scarcely be surpassed in chairman of the safety board, the re- any part of the world. The views from corder and the chief of police, promise Cape Diamond are compared by European travellers with those of Edinburgh. Dickens, in writing of the city, The Rev. J. G. Shearer, field secre- which he visited in 1842, says that it tary of the Dominion L. D. Alliance, is a place never to be forgotten or mixwho is now in Nova Scotia, s expected ed up in the mind with other places in to occupy pulpits in St. John on Sun- the crowd of scenes a traveller can rethe Monday evening following for the stranger are: Rue St. Louis, where can purpose of organizing a Provincial Al- still be seen the house cnce owned by liance. The arrangements will be the wicked Madame Pean, the chere made public as soon as the use of the amie of the villain Bigot, who caused required buildings has been secured. the downfall of New France, the place where Montcalm died, and also where Montgomery's dead body was carried after he had been killed, while attempting to scale the heights on December 31st, 1775; and the former home of the Duke of Kent, which he occupied while commanding the forces here from 1791.

> Little Champlain Street, Sous le Fort Sault au Matelot, and Sous le Cap are all wonderfully interesting as they are relics of past ages. The houses are built into the side of the rocks and the streets are so narrow that one cart cannot pass another. Buade street is famous for the Chien D'or which is now placed in the northern facade of the Bureau de Poste and concerning which William Kirby has written such an interesting romance. Beneath this building reposes the remains of Samuel Champlain, the founder of Quebec.

A square away is the ancient church, founded in 1624 and raised to the dignity of a basilique in 1884. Here may be seen many rare and beautiful paintings which were brought to Quebec from Paris by Abbe des Jardins during the French Revolution in 1793, when the churches and cathedrals were pillaged representatives of the Lord's Day Aland the famous works of art sold for a mere song. There are paintings by was not doing his duty. He assured Vandyck, Fleuret, Blanchard, LeBruin, these gentlemen that the chief was not day, "I'll like to see it. I mean one Vignon, and many other noted artists. that knows more than a smart horse, The historic little edifice of Notre for there are fool horses as well as Dame Des Victoires (the oldest church fool people, and once in a while we in America), also contains a number get one of these fool horses in the fire of famous works of art. as does the department. But I will say that our convent of the Ursilines, the Hotel horses as a rule are pretty smart and Dieu, Quebec Seminary, and Laval knowing. University. "I remember one we had in this

ONE YEAR FOR ONLY $1.20.

This great combination offer is only open to new subscribers or to old subscribers who pay all arrearages at the regular rate, and one year in advance

THE CO-OPERATIVE FARMER is a Semi-Monthly Journal, exclus-ively devoted to the interests of the farmers of the Maritime Provinces. It is the official organ of the Farmers' and Dairymen's Association of New Brunswick; the Nova Scotia Farmers' Association, and the Maritime Stock Breeders' Association.

THE ST. JOHN SEMI-WEEKLY SUN is the best newspaper a Maritime farmer can take. It is published on Wednesdays and Saturdays, eight large pages every issue, containing all the provincial as well as foreign news.

THE MOST COMPLETE WAR SERVICE

of any paper in Eastern Canada, and its frequency of issue makes it of especial interest during the strife in South Africa.

REMEMBER THIS OFFER IS GOOD ONLY ON ABOVE CONDITIONS.

Address, with Cash_____

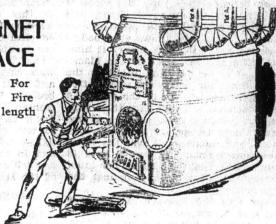

USE A

Sun Printing Company, St. John, N. B.

WHEN HEATING WITH WOOD

FAMOUS MAGNET WOOD FURNACE SIXTEEN styles and sizes. For brick or galvanized casings. Fire travels THREE TIMES the length of furnace before entering smoke pipe. Direct or Indirect Draft. STEEL radiator gives quick heat. Cup Joints throughout. Smoke cannot escape. Sectional Grates. Large Ashpit.

The most easily cleaned furnace made. All operations from the front.

PAMPHLETS AND ESTIMATES FREE from our local agent or our nearest house.

THE McCLARY MFG. CO.

LONDON, TORONTO, MONTREAL, WINNIPEG AND VANCOUVER.

THE HORSE COULD COUNT. Inderstood the Meaning of the Fire-

Alarm Strokes as Well as the Firemen. (Christian World.)

"If there is any animal that knows more than a horse," remarked a memper of the fire department the other as he gazed on the stark forms of his gallant men, the tears rolled unchecked down that stern face. Black was the day that saw the Stormburg disaster, and black must have been the thoughts of the general who led the troops that day. Some one who saw Gen. Gatacre at the close of the day says that he sat with Water Next Sunday. A meeting of the executive commit- History meets you at every turn, in was held in the parlor of the Y. M. C.

A. on Monday afternoon. The secretary reported that since the fare, death, famine, fierce riots, earthlast meeting efforts had been roade to quakes, land and snow slides. court of the province.

be Enforced.

had been obtained that the act would be put in force next Sunday.

goin' straight 'ome tonight."

day, Sept. 9th, and to speak at a pub- call. lic convention which is to be held on The streets of most interest to the

Interviewed by the Sun last evening with reference to the action of the Lord's Day Alliance toward the more rigid enforcement of the Sunday law, Alderman Seaton, chairman of the safety board, stated that officially he had no jurisdiction in the matter, tee from the alliance which had waited upon him to the recorder and the chief of police, in whose hands the matter now rests. A Sun reporter saw Recorder Skinner last night with reference to the matter. Mr. Skinner said the supreme court of New Brunswick sustained the law. Last spring Chief of Police Clark consulted him as to what course he should pursue, and he advised the chief that the law should be enforced. an appeal had been carried to Ottawa.

It was intimated about the same time that it would be well to await the decision of the supreme court of Canada. He told Chief Clark that if these appeals were bona fide it would be just as well to wait till the court gave their decision. He was then waited upon by to blame, as he was always ready and willing to do all he could for the enforcement of all laws. The recorder advised this delegation to see the attorney general. On Tuesday Revs. Dr. Wilson and T. F. Fotheringham waited upon him with a letter from Attortone of deep disgust. "'Urt me? Oo ney General Emmerson, which set forth that the local government were not doing anything to prevent the enforcement of the law. The letter stated that the matter of enforcing the law lay with the civic authorities in St. John. The recorder then advised the chief of police to see that the law is leg's bad, doesn't it?" said the other enforced. The Sun man was unable to get any further information from the recorder, except that the chief things complained of were the desecration of the Sabbath by the sale of soda water and cigars.

Chief of Police Clark was not willing to talk to the Sun. He said he was always ready to do what he considered his duty. In this matter he acted upon the advice of the recorder, and as they were at present in consultation he had no statements to make for publication.

(Charlottetown Guardian, 14th.) The meeting held in Grace church last night commenced at 8 o'clock with There were on the platform beside the chairman Rev. G. P. Raymond, Rev. D. B. McLeod, Rev. G. M. Young. The chairman in a few short remarks introduced the speaker, Rev. J. G. Shearer, who spoke for fully half an hour in reference to the observance of the Lord's Day. After his stirring and eloquent address the different clergymen on the platform spoke at some length, favoring the organization of a Lord's Day Alliance in Charlottetown. Several of the gentlemen present in the audience also took part in the discussion, after which, on motion, a branch of the Lord's Day Alliance was organized, with the following officers: President, J. K. Ross: secretary, W. C. Turner; treasurer, J. T. McKenzie. The clergymen of the city were nominated vice-presidents of the society. The new society has a bright future before it, and the choice of officers is an excellent one.

WHEN MOTHER MADE THE TEA.

(New York Sun.) Thar's English cooks an' German cooks an' French cooks now-a-days, A.-fixin' funny dishes in a thousand modern ways, But jest somehow or other things don't taste the same to me As in the older, golden days, when mother poured the tea. Her snowy rolls all steamin', toast an' waffles rich an' brown Are far ahead o' all this trash ye git today in town. An' life was sweet as honey, an' full o' joy an' glee, In boyhood's sweetest, fleetest days, when mother poured the tea. see her now, the household queen, in her accustomed place, Presidin' o'er the merry board with all a

But mother's gone long years ago, up to a

An' things don't taste exactly like they did in childhood's time,

All tourists to Quebec make it a point company some years ago that actuto visit the citadel, which comprises 40 ally could count. George was his acres of ground and which was built name, if I remember rightly, and at a cost of $25,000,000 from plans sub-George was one of those horses that mitted to and approved by the Duke never did any more work than he of Wellington. Here is a cannon capwas obliged to. Not that he couldn't, tured by the English at Bunker Hill, but just because, like some people the prison where the soldiers are punyou run across, he was opposed to lookished, the officers quarters, and from ing for work. Well, every company the King's Bastion, whose lofty height in the fire department has a certain flies the emblem of England, may be district to cover on first alarms. That seen the far famed Dufferin Terrace is every company responds to certain stretching for 1500 feet on the edge of a boxes on the first alarm, and doesn't cliff 200 feet above the St. Lawrence go to others except on special or genand also the beautiful Chateau Froneral alarms. Well, sir, we didn't tenac, built in the architectural style have George many months before that of the time of Champlain, seven sided. horse came to know our district just with a court 170 feet by 100 feet, and as well as any of the men. He knew overlooking a panorama of river, mounthe boxes we went out on the first tain, and forest scenery. Standing on alarm, and it is a fact that that horse the broad terrace a matchless landgot so that he'd wait and count the scape bursts upon the view of the defirst round before he'd budge out of lighted beholder, the frowning gradite his stall. If the box was not in our cape above, on the left the brenze district, George would walk leisurely statue of Champlain, on the south to his place, but if it was one we were side the ruins of the house destroyed due at on the first alarm he would by a landslide a few years ago, when rush down to his place. In those days 60 persons were hurled into eternity we had to hitch up on every alarm without a moment's warning. Back of that came in, whether it was in our the terrace is the governor's garden, district or not, and stand hitched for in which stands the dual monument of fifteen or twenty minutes. George Wolfe and Montcalm with the inscripknew this, of course, and that was tion "Mortem, virtus communem why he'd always take his time going famam, historia, monumentum posterto his place when the box wasn't in itas dedit" (Valor gave them a common our district. And it's a faot that if he death, history a common fame, and was eating when an outside box came posterity a common monument.) in, he'd just keep on eating until the Although the gates (relics of bygone foreman yelled out to bring him down times), Break-Neck Steps, the parks o his place. and the little historical villages near "Of course, now and then George by, such as the Indian village of Lorvould miscount the box, and rush to ette, were the remnants of the once is place on a box not in our district. powerful Hurons, now dwell in savage But when he did make a mistake like simplicity, Beauport, which was bomthat, which was precious seldom, that barded by Wolfe, the Falls of Monthorse would get so mad and feel so morency, 100 feet higher than Niagaria bad about it that he wouldn't get over the shrine of Ste. Anne of Beaupre, it for a day or so." where miracles are said to be performed, and Chateau Bigot, where the In-

SOLDIERS WHO WEEP. Kitchener and Buller Contrasted With the Stern Corsican. In a recent lecture by Bishop Brindle, better known to Tommy Atkins as Father Brindle, the Roman Catholic chaplain, he referred to Lord Kitchener in a way which would surprise those who look upon the hero of Khartoum as above all human weaknesses. Speaking of the famous memorial service at Khartoum, the bishen said: 'At the conclusion I saw the Sirdar with his head bowed in his hands, and tears trickling through his fingers. For many moments he was so overcome that he could not even say a word of thanks to those who had assisted at the service." The popular idea, carefully fostered by clever correspondents, of the conqueror of Omdurman as a "man of ice and iron," is thus somewhat discounted.

It is said that when Sir Redvers Buller rode over the scene of his first great check, ere yet the fate of Lady-smith was decided, and when, indeed, the whole of Natal seemed almost to be at the mercy of the exultant Boers. be at the mercy of the exultant Boers, than eat the mouse his face buried in his hands in a perfect abandonment of grief, sobbing at intervals, "Oh, my poor boys ! my poor boys !"

Grim Arthur of Wellington was overcome with intense emotion after the battle of Waterloo. He was talking to a friend, and even as he uttered the proud boast that he had never lost a battle, he burst into tears, and in a choking voice added that it was hard to win one at such a price.

Blucher wept when gazing on the white cliffs of Dover. "That's a fine country !" he exclaimed, as the tears coursed down his cheeks.

On the other hand, the great opponent of the English and Prussian marshals-Napoleon-was never seen to shed a tear.-London Express.

RAILROAD Y. M. C. A. CONVEN-TION.

The fourteenth annual Maritime Railroad Young Men's Christian Association convention is to be held at Kentville, N. S., Aug. 30th to Sept. 2nd, to which the railroad men of the maritime provinces are cordially invited. Rev. Geo. A. Hall, state secretary, Y. M. C. A., and Mr. Pearsall, assistant secretary R. R. Association. New York: Pastor W. F. Parker, Yarmouth, N. S.; A. F. Bell, secretary Y. M. C. A., Halifax, N. S.; A. W. Robb, assistant maritime secretary, of the same place, and A. Wilson, G. T. R., Montreal, have already been secured as speakers, with John Britton, secretary Y. M. C. A., North Sydney, C. B., to lead the singing.

Those employed on other roads than the D. A. R. will secure transportation in the usual way upon their own roads. Return tickets for one way, secondclass fare, will be issued by the D. A. R. to all delegates attending, from the station where they take passage on their train. The Kentville Railroad Association will provide entertainment for all who attend. Names should be sent to F. W. Cochrane, D. A. R., Kentville, N. S., or to C. Upham, travelling R. R. Y. M. C. A. secretary, not later than one week before the convention opens.

STEAMBOATS ON THE DEAD SEA.

(Washington Evening Star.) "The Dead Sea, which for thousands of years has been a forsakea solitude in the midst of a desert, on whose waves no rud-der has been seen for centuries," says Uni-ted States Consul Winter at Annaberg in a recent despatch to the state department. "is ted States Consul Winter at Annaberg in a recent despatch to the state department, "is to have a line of motor boats in the future. Owing to the continued increase in traffic and the influx of tourists, a shorter route is to be found between Jerusalem and Kerak, the amcient capital of the land of Moab. "The first little steamer, built at one of the Hamburg docks, is about 100 feet long, and has already begun the voyage to Pal-estine. An order has been already given for the building of a second steamer. The one already built and on the way is named Prodromos (that is, 'forerunner'), and will carry thirty-four persons, together with freight of all kinds. The promoters of this new enterprise are the inmates of a Greek cloister in Jerusalem. The management of the line is entirely in German hands. "The trade of Kerak with the desert is to-day of considerable importance. It is the main town of any commercial standing east of the Jordan and the Dead Sea. Its popu-lation consists of about 1,800 Christians and 6,000 Moslems. The merchants of Hebron are among the chief frequenters of the mar-ter of the chief frequenters of the mar-

are among the chief frequenters of the mar-ett Although 7

dian sweetheart of the monster Bigot was murdered, are all of great interest to the lover of history; still there is no spot within or without the old city looked upon with such reverence as the Plains of Abraham, on which was fought the great battle between Wolfe and Montcalm, and where a beautiful monument is erected on the spot where

Wolfe died happy, and victorious. O give me a home on that bold classic height. Where in sweet contemplation in ages' dark night may tread o'er the plain where, as history tells. Britain's stout hearted Wolfe in his victory fell.

-Winifred D'Estcourte Sackville-Stoner, Quebec, Canada.

TROUBLE IN THE SANCTUM.

(Syracuse Herald.) Editor-Mr. Bluepencill, did you compose that headline with "suicided" in it?

Mr. Bluepencill-Yes, sir. Editor-Well, you may go down stairs and tell the cashier to "salary' you. You are "resignationed."

hlorodyne FOR CHOLERA

> ne. Every remedy for RONCHITIS, the Govern inventor-OWNE.

1/2d., 2s. 9d., PORT m, W. C.

wn

troubles.

monarch's grace, An' good old Dad an' little Nan, an' Fred an' Sue an' me Wuz feelin' prime at eatin' time, when mother poured the tea.

fairer cli

Contraction 20.