THE Nova Scotia Pilot contains Sailing Directions for the south-east coast of Nova Scotia from Mars Head to Cape Canso, and also a description of Sable island and the out-lying banks.

With the exception of that portion of the directions comprised between Sheet harbour and Indian bay, in Chapter III., the whole has been compiled by Rear-Admiral H. W. Bayfield, R.N., from the excellent surveys made by him and his assistant officers between the years 1853-1856. The directions between Sheet harbour and Indian bay are by Commander J. Orlebar, R.N., who surveyed that part of the coast in 1857.
