CONTENTS

|   |            |        |             |        | E            | AGE       |
|---|------------|--------|-------------|--------|--------------|-----------|
| Introduction                              | •          | •      |             | •      | •            | ix        |
| Chronology of Goldsmith's Life and Poen   | ns         | ٠      | •           | ٠      | . 3          | xxii      |
|   |            |        |             |        |              |           |
| POEMS                                     |            |        |             |        |              |           |
| The Traveller; or, A Prospect of Society  |            |        |             |        |              | 3         |
| The Deserted Village                      |            |        | ٠           |        |              | 21        |
| Prologue of Laberius                      |            |        |             |        |              | 41        |
| On a Beautiful Youth struck Blind with    | Light      | tning  |             |        |              | 42        |
| The Gift. To Iris, in Bow Street .        |            |        |             |        |              | 43        |
| The Logicians Refuted                     |            |        |             |        |              | 44        |
| A Sonnet                                  |            |        |             |        |              | 46        |
| Stanzas on the Taking of Quebec .         |            |        |             |        |              | 46        |
| An Elegy on Mrs. Mary Blaize              |            |        |             |        |              | 47        |
| Description of an Author's Bedchamber     |            |        |             |        |              | 48        |
| On seeing Mrs.  perform in the Chara   | cter       | of  | F $ |        |              | 49        |
| On the Death of the Right Hon.         |            |        |             |        |              | 50        |
| An Epigram. Addressed to the Gentler      | men ı      | eflec  | ted o       | n in 2 | The          |           |
| Rosciad, a Poem, by the Author            |            |        |             |        |              | 51        |
| To G. C. and R. L                         |            |        |             |        |              | 51        |
| Translation of a South American Ode       |            |        |             |        |              | 51        |
| The Double Transformation. A Tale         |            |        |             |        |              | 52        |
| A New Simile, in the Manner of Swift      |            |        | ·           |        | Ī            | 56        |
| Edwin and Angelina                        | i          |        | į           |        | į            | 59        |
| Elegy on the Death of a Mad Dog .         | •          | :      | •           | •      | ·            | 65        |
| Song ('When Lovely Woman,' &c.) .         | •          | •      | •           | ·      | ·            | 67        |
| Epilogue to The Good Natur'd Man .        | •          | •      | •           | •      | •            | 68        |
| Epilogue to The Sister                    | •          | •      | •           | •      | •            | 70        |
|   |            | •      | •           | •      | •            | 72        |
| Threnodia Augustalis: Sacred to the Me    |            | of H   | er I.a.     | te Ro  | val          |           |
| Highness the Princess Dowager of V        |            |        |             | 10 110 | y 421 | 74        |
| Song ('Let School-masters,' &c.)          | T de l'Oc  | •      | •           | •      | •            | 84        |
| Epilogue to She Stoops to Conquer .       | •          | •      | •           | •      | •            | 85        |
| Retariation                               |            | •      | •           | •      |              | 87        |
| Song ('Ah, me! when shall I marry me      | 9 11       | •      | •           | •      | •            | 94        |
| Translation ('Chaste are their instincts' |            | •      | •           | •      | •            | 94        |
| Translation ( Chaste are their illatinets | ) - | •      | •           | •      | •            | 54 |