CHARACTER IN FEET.

What One's Pedal Extremities Tell Character displayed in the feet is the subject of an article in The Ladies' Magazine. It is curious, says the writer, how much individuality is expressed by the feet, which are in many ways as clear an index to character as the hand. Are there not cruel feet, vulgar feet, artistic feet, honest feet and feet of every nature, varying according to the dis-position of their owner?

For instance, there is a broad, square toed, squat foot which always goes with a phlegmatic temperament, and there is a long, narrow, pointed foot which accompanies an artistic soul and a "sensible" foot which stamps the vegetarian. We have all met and felt sorry for the woman who wears large sixes and will cycle in a short white pique skirt and white shoes. Gouty feet accompany the gouty temper and generally "cussed" dispositions of cruel fathers-in-law, while a ponderous, white stockinged, elastic sided, cloth covered foot can only belong to a certain type of charwoman. Why do policemen always have such large feet? Why does a particularly aggressive person who generally wears side whiskers and a prosperous look always go about in creaking soles? Why always associate genius with shabby boots? One of the most charming little bits of word painting imaginable, too, conjured up by Sir John Suckling's bride, whose Feet beneath her petticoats, Like little mice, stole in and out.

A large footed heroine is impossible, but out of books she is probably more common than the other kind, and the atmosphere of romance which wraps the nursing profession is cruelly dispelled by the knowledge that most of the vo-taries are flat footed. More honor to them that they have become so in consequence of their arduous duties, but it is a sad fact, nevertheless, that hospital nurses seldom or never have pretty feet. One advantage we women possess over men is that we can conceal our elltale feet under our skirts, for, alas, we cannot all be Cinderellas, and the age of the little glass slipper is overpast.

The Man She Should Marry.

A wise woman should not only consider whether the man suits her, but whether she is going to suit the environments in which she will be placed. She should not marry a clubman if she is going to shed tears over his sarcastic remarks on her housekeeping.
She must not marry a clergyman unless she has spiritual grace enough to wear last year's bonnet, because the congre-gation disapproves of frivolity in other people. She should never marry a vain man unless her flattery is of such an intoxicat-ing brand it will make every other woman's seem like stale beer beside champagne frappe.

She should not marry an adored only son unless she is prepared to battle with selfishness, or a brother with many sis-ters unless she has made up her mind to wait on him hand and foot. She should not marry a lawyer if she has an insatiable curiosity about other people's secrets, or an author if she is going to go through the harrowing process of measuring herself up against her husband's feminine creations. The remedy for domestic unhappiness is very simple. It merely consists in finding out what you want before you get something else. Love should wear spectacles before marriage and blinders

The Rainy Wedding Day.

The adage "Happy is the bride that the sun shines on" is one that is un-known in many lands. A British bride takes it unhappily when the day of her wedding dawns bright and sunny. Rain on her marriage morn is held to signify that all the tears are shed and that she will, therefore, lead a happy married It is said that Ezra of Simsbrisk called the day before the wedding day the weeping day, and the bride and her girl friends weep as much as possible, with the idea of getting the mourning of life over, so that only what is joyful may re main. In some countries this result is attained by sprinkling the bride with water. The Greeks think that a thorough drenching of a bride will bring her asting happiness.

King of Italy's Governess. The king of Italy's great regard for England and English customs is due, no loubt, to the fact that he was brought up by an English governess, Mrs. Lee, who had almost entire charge of his education during his early boyhood. Mrs. Lee was always extremely well received at the Quirinal, the late King Humbert and Queen Margherita having the great-est regard for her. What was still more wonderful, she managed to secure the good will of the Italians about the court without in any way incurring their jeal-

When Mrs. Lee died, the Italian royal family took her death quite as a per-sonal loss and showed every possible mark of affection and esteem for her Aids to Conversation.

It was said by a clever Frenchman that an amusing conversation could nev-er begin in a room where the furniture was symmetrically in order. The moment your guests are gone from any so-cial assembly study the natural disorder in which they have left the room and take this as a hit for future combinations of sofas, chairs and table. Many men cannot get on in conversa tion without something to touch, and a table covered with attractive knick knacks will give them the occupation which will prove the inspiration. Any pretty trifle will do, but on peril of a dull hour do not leave a clever man without anything to handle and obliged to meet the expectant eyes of his would be listoner.

Manners.

Gail Hamilton was once asked the question, "What shall be the education of a young woman?" and her reply is worth quoting: "First good manners, and last and all the way between—good involved. manners. Good manners imply every saving grace known under heaven among saving grace known under heaven among men and women. Good manners are the absolutely transparent medium of conveying to the world the benevolence of a good heart; good manners involve and include every department of the human being—body and soul and spirit, heart and mind, imagination and conscience, discrimination and judgment. The whole duty of man to man," she concludes, "is embraced in good manners."

By far the most important part of digestion takes place in the intes-tines, as has been repeatedly shown in cases where the stomach has been re-moved and the patient has lived and digested food without the aid of the

It frequently happens that people who continually dose the stomach for indigestion and use pepsin and various kinds of digestive tablets and powders can obtain no relief from such treatment, because the real trouble is in the intestines, the iver, and the kidneys.

There is fullness and pains after indigestion and dyspepsia.

It is not unusual for persons who have been suffering from iousness and constipation be thoroughly cured by Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, which have by far the largest sale of any similar remedy. You may be skeptic al, as others have been before you, but a single trial of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills will convince you of their unusual medicinal value.

Mr. Joseph Blackwell, Holmes ville, Ont.; says:-"I derived more benefit from the use of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills than from any other medicine I ever took, and can highly recommend them for stomach troubles. I was in a terrible state and could hardly work at my trade. A SOUR STOMACH

Is Often the Real Cause of a Sour Temper.

That the condition of the digestive rgans has a marked effect upon the character or disposition is a truism as old as the hills. Old Ben wisely said, "the pleasure of living depends upon the liver" and it is a fact which none may dispute that a sunny dispo-sition more often results from a sunny disposition more often results healthy digestion than from any other cause.

Acid dyspepsia, commonly called sour stomach or heartburn, is caused by slow digestion of food; instead of being promptly digested and converted into blood, bone and muscle, it lies in the stomach for hours, fermenting and decaying, creating gases which cause pressure on the lungs and heart short breath and general discomfort and irritation.
Such half digested food is indeed poor nourishment for the body, brain and nerves and the result is shown in irritable tempers. unaccountable headaches and that depressing condition usually called the "blues" but how quickly all these disappear when appetite and digestion are restored. Laxitive medicines only irritate the already irritated stomach and bowels and have no effect upon actual diges

The sensible course to follow is to make use of simple natural digestives like Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets after meals until the stomach has a chance to recuperate.

The natural digestives which every healthy stomach contains are peptones diastase and hydrochloric and lactic acids and when any of them are lack-ing, the trouble begins. The reason Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are so valuable and successful in curing stomach troubles, is because they contain, in a pleasant concentrated tablet form all these absolutely necessary essentials for perfect food.

Henry Kirkpatrick, of Lawrence, Mass., says: "Men and women whose tice to use Stuart's Dyspepsia Tab-lets after meals. I have done so my-

"From the time I was 22, when I dness graduated from school with broken health from overwork, until I was 34 I scarcely knew what it was to be free from stomach weakness. I had no appetite whatever for breakfast and very little for any other meal.

"I had acidity and heartburn nearly every day and sometimes was alarmed by irregularity and palpitation of the heart, but all this gradually disappeared after I began using Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets and I can eat my meals with relish and satisfaction which I had not known since I was growing boy."

The success and popularity of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets is enormous, but it is deserved, and every druggist United States, Canada Great Britain has a good word for this meritorious preparation

Books are good, but it is to be remembered that people are the original source of books. Therefore our interest in books should never rise above our interest in life.

A puny child is always an anxiety to the parents. There seems generally no reason why the little one should be weak when it is so well fed. But the fact is that it does not matter how much food the child takes if the stomach cannot extract the nourishment from it. No benefit can be derived from just eating. That is the condition of many a sickly child. The stomach and organs of digestion and nutrition are not doing their work, and the body is really starving. It is little use to give fish foods, like cod liver oil or emulsions, in such a case, because these also have to be digested; they may lighten the stomach's labor but they don't strengthen it Strength is what the stomach needs Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery strengthens the stomach, nourishes the nerves and increases the action of the blood making glands. It is su-perior to every other preparation for children's use, on account of its body building qualities, and also because it is pleasant to the taste and contains no alcohol, whiskey or other intoxicant. Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets are a valuable aid when the bowels are irregular. They are small. Children take them readily.
