

FOR PUBLIC CONSIDERATION.

IN no instance has prevalent infatuation been productive of more deplorable consequences, than the blind confession that the members of the medical profession alone are competent to administer remedies for disease. The general constancy which is given to this preposterous pretension of an interested class, is one of the most prolific sources of disease, suffering, and early death. How many thousands of persons there are, at the moment contemplating their continuation to the tedious torments of almost every variety of human malady, from their reluctance to incur the expense of consulting a physician, and from their silly prejudice against the most simple medicines, unless sanctioned by the mysterious authority of a pretentiously learned prescription? If they could see that prescription in plain English, they would find, in a vast majority of cases, that it ordered nothing in the world but a little rhubarb or senna or jalap, or aloes, mixed with sugar and water, and sweetened with a little peppermint, or some other scented drug; and a simple cathartic like this is generally efficacious. But the druggist keeps the prescription, and when the patient returns, he is obliged to consult the physician, instead of procuring for himself, at a mere fraction of the original expense, the wonderful remedy which had relieved him. It is that majority of the population of every civilized country under whose dark and oppressive yoke their system, because the relief they derive from medical aid is so once expensive, timorous, and without access; and this is exemplified in the miserable condition of an ignorant physician, that "Prescriptions in the Roman language have indirectly killed more than all the Roman armies."

A medicine so compounded that it will cleanse the alimentary canal of all its feculent accumulations and invigorates the nerve and increasing action to all the viscera that contribute their agency to the digestive functions, and by promoting the immediate perspiration, relieve the whole system of febrile and inflammatory symptoms, must necessarily prove a great blessing to mankind, if rendered at a price which places it within the reach of all classes. If it have an extensive sale, it cannot fail to work more cures, and to do far more general good, than all the numbers of the medical profession combined can possibly accomplish within the comparatively narrow limits of their private practice. Such a medicine the public has in MOFFAT'S LIFE PILLS and PHEENIX BITTERS, the efficacy of which are established throughout the United States, and voluntarily certified by thousands of individuals who have been relieved and cured. It is to be seen that the interested denunciations of ignorant physicians, although to exclude these in their invidious and unchristianlike attacks bear testimony and are more abundant even than prophecies. Could the most eminent and successful physicians that ever lived collect so many testimonials of remarkable cures, and of so extensive an alleviation of suffering under an almost endless variety of human diseases as have been spontaneously presented to the proprietor of the LIFE PILLS and PHEENIX BITTERS during the last two years? He believes not, and would be happy to put the question to the test.

The permanent reputation of these medicines being firmly established upon the basis of unimpeachable facts, it only remains to assist the numerous persons who are unacquainted with them of some among the multitude of maladies in which they have repeatedly proved successful, and in which, therefore, it may confidently be presumed they will succeed hereafter: 1. Typhoid fever, both chronic and casual, under the worst symptoms of restlessness and pain, flatulency head-ache, nausea, loss of appetite, heart-burn, costiveness, bilious salivary secretion, general debility and wasting away of the body. 2. Diarrhoea, whether febrile, urgent, serous, hæmorrhagic, bilious, or tubular. 3. Jaundice, both bilious and spasmodic, hepatic, infantine, and of the dark green variety. 4. Helminthia, or worms, both alive and dead, of every variety, from the large tape and joint worms to the insect larvae of the stomach and rectum. 5. Piles, of the blind, the bleeding, the white and the caruncular varieties. 6. Costiveness, whether arising from constipation or obstruction, and of however long standing. 7. Colic, the bilious, the painters', the constipated, the constructive, and flatulent. 8. Coughs, the common or humid cough, and the dry and the whooping cough. 9. Asthma, the nervous or dry and common or humid. 10. The Breast pain, acute and chronic; and also Pleuritis, or chronic pain in the side. 11. The Daily Fever, whether of the mind, the acute, or the sweating variety. 12. Fever and Ague. 13. Influenza, in any stage. 14. Dysentery, acute and chronic. 15. Rheumatism, acute and chronic, together with podagra, or gout. 16. Marasmus, whether as general atrophy or loss of flesh, or pulmonary decline and consumption, if taken before cavities have been formed in the lungs. 17. Scrofula—singularly and rapidly efficacious even in the worst cases. 18. Scary. 19. Hypochondriasis, and all other nervous affections. 20. Spasmodic Palpitation, of the heart and of the arteries. 21. Head-ache.

It is evident, therefore, that these medicines are compounded of ingredients which act upon the system universally, and not mere aloptic preparations. They act without causing pain, or producing any prostration of nervous energy, but on the contrary, strengthen, invigorate and enliven, from the first day's experience of their operation, into the period of convalescence. Directions for their use accompany them.

All post paid letters will receive immediate attention.

THE HUMAN HAIR.

WHERE the hair is observed to be growing thin, nothing can be more pernicious than the use of oils, grease or any fatty matter. Their application can only be recommended through the grossest ignorance, as they hasten the fall of the hair, by increasing the relaxation of the skin. When there is a harsh, dry, or contracted skin, and where the small blood vessels which carry nourishment to the bulb are obstructed, then the oils, &c. may be good, as they tend to relax the skin; but where they are of no avail. There must be a stimulus to rouse the vessels from their torpor, and quicken the current of the blood.—Extract from Chirburgh's Treatise on the Hair.
The HAIR OF COLUMBIA is the only preparation that can have that effect, being entirely free from any oily substance.

A CASE IN POINT.
I had unfortunately lost nearly all the hair from the top of my head, when I remembered the use of the Hair of Columbia, and have, by the use of two bottles had my head covered with a fine growth of Hair.—There can be no mistake in the matter, as 20 of my friends can see by calling on me.—I had also become quite gray, but had the gray hairs plucked out, and it has grown in as the Hairs of the natural colour. If any lady doubts these facts, let them call upon me and see. I bought the Hair of Constock & Co., 7, Fitcher Street.
