Mrs. Samuel Fogler, Colborne street, who for the past two months has been ill, had a slight stroke yesterday, but good hopes are held out for her speedy recovery.

Pedestrians along St. Clair street are annoyed by a small black dog, near Forest street, which barks at passers-by. Something should be done to stop this, as it is very annoying.

Chatham is bristling up industrially. Western Ontario towns and cities everywhere are awakening. This favored part must remain the bee-hive of Canada.—London Free Press.

Essex County farmers are greatly discouraged over the outlook for the corn crop. Hundreds of acres planted in corn will be a loss. Planting will have to be done over again. This will make the crop so late that there will be serious danger of its being caught by the early fall frosts.—Blenheim News-Tribune.

A meeting to organize a baseball league was held on Wednesday night in the Rankin House. A good attendance was present and the league was formed with Mayor Stone as its president. The Chatham Motor Car Works, the Canada Flour Mills, Tammany Hoedlers and the Wagon Works entered the league. Manager Cottingham, of the Automobile Works, expects to have a good team this season. A meeting to arrange the schedule of games will be held next week.

In the summer of 1905, under the instruction of the City Engineer, a pavement was laid on Murray street. The crossings and approaches to the crossings were torn up at the time of paving. The approaches were then filled in with plank as a substitute until they would lay cement. The cement, as yet, has not been laid, and residents in that locality are complaining of the same. It not only is a detriment to the appearance of the street, but is at times very slippery and unsafe. The ratepayers of that section would like to see the paving completed.

IT WAS A WILD RUMOR

Busybody Starts Untruthful Tale About Messrs. Johns and Greene

Said Planet Had an Article About Them Putting Up Job

An instance of how quickly a wild rumor will spread, was in evidence this morning. Somebody with a love for trouble, carried the story abroad that County Councillors George Johns, of Bothwell, and A. W. Greene, of Zone, were going to bring in sensational charges against certain county officials. The busy-body who circulated this report gave it out that he had exclusive information to the effect that The Planet editorial department had got in possession of the story, which would be published in this evening's issue of the Great Home Journal.

Messrs. Johns and Greene were naturally anxious about the matter, and when a Planet reporter appeared on the scene during a committee meeting this morning, Mr. Johns immediately button-holed him.

"I have been told," said the wide-awake member from Bothwell, "that you have an article about Mr. Greene and me going to put up a job on County Crown Attorney Herb Smith and Auditor Fritz Falls. Now, I want to say that there is nothing to it, and whoever started such a story had little to do. For myself, I may say that I have nothing but the greatest regard and respect for our Crown Attorney, and as for Mr. Falls, you will remember that I said during the committee meeting yesterday afternoon, that I believed his report to this Council was a great source of education to the members and, while I did not agree with him in every particular, I thought it was a very clever and concise report."

"What I have to say about any county officer I will say open and above board. I never go behind any man's back to knife him," concluded Mr. Johns.

OIL PRODUCTION 1,300 BARRELS PER DAY

The production of the Tilbury East oil field has for the past few weeks hovered around the 1,300 barrels a day mark, and more often going above than below it. This is higher than ever before, and the figures are steadily creeping. New wells, of course, tend to keep up a high standard, but the immaterial boost that they give does not unduly stimulate the field's production, for the reason that the steady gain shows that the old wells are still doing a fair share toward keeping the figures high.—Tilbury Times.

ORCHARD MADE BOMBS: STARTLING MURDER CASE

Boise, June 7.—Harry Orchard, the man who says his true name is Albert Horsley, and who assassinated former Governor Frank Steunenberg at Caldwell, on the night of Dec. 30, 1906, resumed his gruesome story as a witness against William D. Haywood, secretary and treasurer of the Western Federation of Miners, in the District Court yesterday morning. The fearsome relation of five years of crime has not been finished. The climax is yet to come, if indeed there can be a climax more terrible than the one already reached in the narrative told by the witness.

First Orchard gave the names of several persons he met in San Francisco when he went there to kill Fred Bradley, formerly manager of the Bunker Hill and Sullivan mines, in the Coeur d'Alenes. Orchard part of the time was known as Barry. On returning to Denver, wearing a soldier's uniform, he called up Pettibone by telephone and told him Bradley was alive, but had lost his sight and probably would be deaf the remainder of his life.

A Living Example.
"Pettibone said that was better than if I had killed him outright—that Bradley would now be a living example," continued the witness. Orchard said he asked for money and received $125 from Pettibone.

Orchard said Haywood next asked him "to go to work on Judge Gabbert of the Supreme Court of Colorado."

"He said Judge Gabbert," Orchard went on, "had been rendering decisions against Moyer, whom we were trying to get out of Telluride on habeas corpus. I went to Judge Gabbert's house with Steve Adams and a shotgun, but we did not see the judge."

"Haywood also wanted us to try again at Governor Peabody, who was about to be re-elected, and to shoot Frank Hearne of the Colorado Fuel and Iron Co., and Dave Moffatt, president of the First National Bank, who were behind the first against the federation."

He and Adams had no chance to kill these men.

Another Judge Named.
"We were also to get after Judge Goddard, who, Haywood said, was instrumental in defeating the eight-hour bill, which had been declared unconstitutional," Orchard continued.

Orchard said he prepared a bomb in Pettibone's cellar, to place beneath Peabody's bedroom window at Canon City.

Orchard declared that Pettibone gave him $100 before he went to Canon City with the bomb, but that an explanation he had jokingly made in response to a question from a traveling companion, who had heard a clock ticking in the grip with the bomb, caused Pettibone to suggest that the attempt be deferred.

Something to Show.
As Pettibone wanted something pulled off before the convention, to show for the money spent, he and Orchard made a bomb for Judge Gabbert, and placed it in a vacant lot which the judge daily crossed. A wire was left outside of the bomb, to which a pocket book was to be attached, so that anyone picking up the purse would upset the sulphuric acid inside the bomb.

"Pettibone had to go next day to Salt Lake City to attend the convention of the federation. I was afraid to touch the old bomb, so I prepared a new one. As Judge Gabbert started out the next morning I rode ahead of him on a bicycle and fastened the pocket book to the wire. I rode away, heard an explosion an hour afterward. A man named Wally was killed. Judge Gabbert had passed without noticing the pocket book."

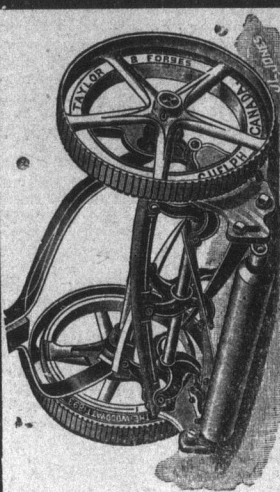

He said former Adjutant-General Sherman Bell, who had helped break up a strike, next was selected.

Wanted Too Much Money.

Orchard said Moyer told him they should get rid of Johnny Neville, "who knew too much about the independence Depot affair and was demanding money." Haywood, Orchard continued, "said we ought to get ex-Governor Steunenberg. He thought that if we got him after letting him go seven or eight years, and then went back to Paterson, N. J., and wrote letters to Judge Gabbert, Judge Goddard, Peabody, Bell and the others, telling them they were not forgotten either, that would have a good effect. Moyer said it would better than killing them."
