

FOR LITTLE BABIES AND BIG CHILDREN

Baby's Own Tablets is good for all children, from the feeblest baby, whose life seems to hang by a thread to the sturdy boy who occasionally gets his stomach organs out of order. Baby's Own Tablets promptly cure all stomach and bowel troubles and make sickly or ailing children well and strong. And this medicine is absolutely safe—the mother has the guarantee of a government analyst that this is true. Mrs. Alfred Ward, Haldimand, Que., says:—“I used Baby's Own Tablets for constipation, stomach troubles and restlessness and find them a splendid medicine. They have made my little one a healthy, fat and rosy child. I always keep a box of Tablets in my home.” Sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

EASY WAY TO REMEMBER DATES.

All you require is to Commit These Lines to Memory.

The following lines committed to memory, give an easy method of stating off-hand the day of the week of any date in 1908—

Just a mother's arms, my Juncod Jean; spell o'er Nature's dream.

The number of letters in each word represents the date of the first Saturday in the particular month to which it corresponds; thus, “Just,” for January, has four letters, because the first Saturday in January is the fourth of that month; “a,” representing February, has one letter, as the first Saturday in February is the first day of that month; and so on through all the twelve months.

Each word of the twelve, excepting the first “a,” begins with the same letter as the month it represents. Thus, “Just” begins with “J” because January begins with “J”; “mother” begins with “M” because March begins with “M”; and so on all through, with the exception of “a” for February.

Having obtained the dates of the first Saturdays, the date of every other Saturday in the month is got by the addition of the necessary number of sevens, from which it is a step to any intermediate day. For example, to know the day on which Christmas Day falls this year, “dream,” standing for December, has five letters, so the first Saturday in December is the fifth of that month; the second Saturday is the 12th; the third the 19th; the 26th, being six days more, gives Friday, six days from Saturday.

SPACE NEEDED.

“Laura,” growled the husband, “what have you faken all my clothes out of the closet for?”

“Now, there's no use in making any fuss about it, George,” said his wife, “with a note of defiance in her voice. ‘I just had to have some place where I could hang my new hat.’”

WAY OUT.

Wedderley—“You look worried, old man. What's the cause thereof?”

Sirleton (with a sigh)—“Oh, several things.”

Wedderley—“Well, take my advice and marry one of them and let the others go. I've had the same experience.”

A DEFICIT.

Teacher—“Wait a moment, Johnny. What do you understand by that word ‘deficit’?”

“It's what you've got when you haven't got as much as if you just hadn't nothing.”

EMPEROR OF GERMANY

HAS FORTY-NINE HOMES, BUT PAYS NO TAXES.

Would Have Showiest Village in the World if He Could Bring All His Houses Together.

The Kaiser is trying to have his pay raised. He finds it utterly impossible to play the role of the great and only William on a mere $4,000,000 a year. The Prussian Diet will be asked to make a substantial addition to this tax on the ralepayers, and it is expected that there will be a lively protest. For it will be remembered that Prussia assumes the whole burden of the civil list, Emperor William taking on the job of Kaiser of the German Empire without pay, writes a Berlin, Germany, correspondent.

The reason given for this request for higher wages is the fact that the cost of living has increased materially in Germany and that his majesty's chamberlains are no longer able to run his “49 castles” as cheaply as heretofore.

What the Kaiser does with all his castles is a subject for speculation with all but the initiated. If they could all be hunched they would form a good-sized village—and a village more pretentious than any other in the whole world. Some of his places are of enormous size and most of them are showy in their construction and style. As a matter of fact, though, they are all in German parlance called kaiserliches schloss (imperial castle), very few of them, such as the widely known palaces at Berlin and at Potsdam, are really castles in the strict sense of the word. Many of them, formerly built as strongholds, perched upon peaks, or situated in the middle of marshes in order to make them impregnable against attack, have given way to ambitious modern palaces. But the word schloss is now applied to any house of considerable size which a nobleman owns and occupies.

Among the Kaiser's Berlin palaces the royal castle on the Spree is one of the largest and probably to tourists. Originally it was of very modest proportions but from time to time additions have been made, keeping pace with the growth of influence and power of the Hohenzollerns. The castle is gaudy, raw and pretentious in construction. The walls outside are of stucco instead of stone masonry. The pretentious columns of the eadings indoors are of imitation marble while the same keynote of show and pretense governs the whole structure and all its details.

One more interest is the Charlottenburg Castle, a structure much plainer and of later construction. It is situated in a charming park and is extraordinary for its great length. Five hundred metres, I believe, are the correct figures. At any rate I know that it is only beaten in this respect by Schonburg, near Vienna, and Nymphenburg in Bavaria. This place was the home of the late Emperor Frederick III. during his last short stay in Berlin. The mausoleum in the park is the burial-place of Queen Louisa of Prussia and of her grandson, William, the first German Emperor.

One of the most interesting of Kaiser William's places, historically, is Schloss Koenigsberg, in the province of East Prussia. This castle, which was finished in 1301, was a famous stronghold of the order of the Teutonic Knights, one of the three great military and religious orders to which the Crusaders gave birth, the other two being the Templars and the KNIGHTS OF SAINT JOHN.

At one time the order was undisputed master of a population of 3,000,000 people and played a leading role in the political history of Northern Europe. In the chapter of this famous castle Frederick III, Elector of Brandenburg, crowned himself as Frederick I, King of Prussia, in 1701. One hundred and fifty years later, William, who was afterwards to be the first German emperor, put upon his head the same crown in the same chapel.

Perhaps the most widely known royal home outside of Berlin is Wilhelmshohe, near Cassel, the summer resort of Jerome Bonaparte while he was king of Westphalia. The Versailles of Germany, as it has been called, was begun by Frederick II. and furnished by his successor, William, and it is said that 2,000 workmen were employed for fourteen years in its construction. Its chief boast is the great fountain, which throws up a jet of water twelve feet in diameter to the remarkable height of 190 feet. Napoleon III., who was made prisoner at Sedan with 30,000 of his troops and afterwards was sent by his captors to Wilhelmshohe Castle, was a great admirer of the place and used to spend hours watching the stream of water shooting up into the air.

ALMOST SHABBY COTTAGE

situated at half an hour's distance by rail from Berlin. This place is called Koenigs-Wusterhausen and once it was a famous hunting-ground, situated in the heart, as it is, of a very large forest. To this day the woods are still frequently secured by royal sportsmen. The castle is a plain, solid building resembling an appearance a respectable farmhouse of the second best.

Koenigs-Wusterhausen was the favorite summer resort of Frederick William I., the second king of Prussia, one of the most remarkable monarchs that ever sat on a throne, and the father of Frederick the Great. Here he spent a few months every year and here he gave full, unrestrained vent to the cruel, savage, brutal aspects of his nature, rendering the lives of his queen and his children a very hell upon earth. Here at 5 o'clock every afternoon of his stay was convened the tobacco parliament, that queer assembly which is as famous in the pages of history as the same ruler's giant guard at Potsdam. The sessions were held in a large room in the castle which to this day has been religiously preserved.

If men and women really understood each other there would be fewer love matches.

A SPLENDID PRESCRIPTION.

For Rheumatism and all Kidney, Liver, Bladder and Urinary Affections.

An eminent physician informs us that he has used the following prescription in his practice for a number of years, and found it very successful in the treatment of Kidney, Liver, Bladder, and all Urinary affections. He claims that a very few doses will relieve the most severe pains in the back, arising from disordered kidneys and impure blood. One ounce of sweet spirits of nitre, one ounce of Vinosa Compound, and four ounces of syrup of rhuabarb. These ingredients can be obtained at any reliable drug store. It should be taken in desertsportful doses after meals, in a little water. It is unsurpassed for the cure of rheumatism, driving the uric acid entirely from the system. The ingredients are inexpensive and harmless, and can be given to children with safety.

MANY KINDS OF SMOKE.

Substitutes for Tobacco Often Have Harmful Effects.

The American Indians who smoke dried holly leaves, the bark of the willow tree and leaves of the stag's horn sumac use the least harmful of the substitutes for tobacco. Many of the other substitutes have the most harmful effects. Indians along the Alaska coast injure their eyesight smoking wood shavings saturated with a strong solution of pepper, excessive smoking by farmers of the leaves of the tomato and potato plant causes insanity and suicide; a variety of Indian hemp which is smoked by all classes in Jamaica has terrible results, and a weed known as mountain tobacco, which is smoked in great quantities in Sweden, causes its users to become mental and physical wrecks.

A Successful Medicine. — Everyone wishes to be successful in any undertaking in which he may engage. It is therefore, extremely gratifying to the proprietors of Parmelee's Vegetable Pills to know that their efforts to compound a medicine which would prove a blessing to mankind have been successful beyond their expectations. The endorsement of these Pills by the public is a guarantee that a pill has been produced which will fulfil everything claimed for it.

HOPELESS.

AN UGLY FAMILY of skin diseases is the one generally described by the word Eczema. In all its forms it resists ordinary treatment, but is completely cured by Weaver's Cerate used in connection with Weaver's Syrup.

“What is the most aggravating thing in married life?” asked a dowdy “Sceptic,” said the bachelor friend, “it's the husband, and sometimes it's the wife.”

The transition from winter's cold to summer's heat frequently puts a strain upon the system that produces internal complications, always painful and often serious. A common form of disorder is dysentery, to which many are prone in the spring and summer. The very best medicine to use in subduing this painful ailment is Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Dysentery Cordial. It is a standard remedy, sold everywhere.

TO THE SUN.

Sir David Gill, formerly astronomer at Cape Town, South Africa, had an interview with Cezelwayo, the great Zulu chief. The dusky potentate asked him how long it would take to go to the sun in a “Cape” wagon. Making a rough calculation on his cuff, Sir David told the amazed chief that it would take 13,000 years.

“I bought this walking-stick off you last week,” said a fussy old gentleman.

“Yes,” agreed the dealer, “that is so. I recognize it.”

“You assured me that the handle was real ivory, and I find it is only imitation.”

“Very sorry, sir, but I got my ivory direct from Ceylon, and the only explanation seems to me that the elephants must wear false tusks.”

The Guest (at front door)—“It's awfully good of you to show me the way out!”

The Host—“Not at all! It's a pleasure, I assure you!”

A TONIC FOR THE STOMACH

Wonderful Success of the Modern Method of Treating Even Obstinate Cases of Indigestion.

The old-fashioned methods of treating stomach diseases are being discarded. The trouble with the old-fashioned methods was that when the treatment was stopped the trouble returned in an aggravated form.

The modern method of treating indigestion, catarrh of the stomach or chronic gastritis, is to tone up the stomach and glands to do their normal work. Every step toward recovery is a step gained, not to be lost again. The recovery of the appetite, the disappearance of pain, the absence of gas—all are steps on the road to health that those who have tried the tonic treatment remember distinctly.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are a tonic every constituent of which is helpful in building up the digestive organs and therefore are the very best remedy for chronic cases of stomach trouble. The success of the treatment is shown by hundreds of cures like the following:—

Mrs. Wm. E. Dunn, Prince Dale, N. S., says:—“For upwards of seven years I was an almost continuous sufferer from stomach trouble, which was aggravated by obstinate constipation. Food was not only distasteful, but every mouthful I ate was painful. The trouble affected my heart that at times I thought I could not live. I was constantly doctoring, but did not get the least relief. Indeed I was growing worse, and in the summer of 1907 had got so bad that I went to the City of Boston, where I spent some time under the care of a specialist. I returned home, however, no better than when I started. The pains I endured were almost intolerable, and would sometimes cause me to drop. I got getting weaker and weaker and had practically given up hope of even being well again when my mother urged me to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. How thankful I now am that I took her advice. My case was a severe one and did not yield readily, but once an improvement was noticed the cure progressed steadily and satisfactorily, and after the use of ten boxes of the Pills I was again a well woman. Every symptom of the trouble disappeared, and it is years since I enjoyed as good health as I am doing now. All who know me look upon my cure as almost a miracle, and I strongly urge all suffering from stomach trouble to give this medicine a fair trial.”

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are sold by all medicine dealers or you can get them by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Bride—“Yes. Three hundred dollars worth of furniture to match it.”

A MAN OF MARK.

Bacon—“And does your son show any signs of his college training?”

Egbert—“Oh, yes; he's quite lame from an injury he received on the football team.”

SWISS RIFLE CLUBS.

Every Man in Switzerland Learns to Use the Rifle.

At a time when the question of military training for civilians is being much discussed, a short account of the Swiss system, from the Manchester Guardian, may be of interest. Every man in the peaceful and democratic country of Switzerland is a soldier in a modest way, by fitting a small nation.

The able-bodied Swiss enters the army at twenty years of age, and serves sixty-five days in his first year. For the next twelve years he trains for three weeks every alternate year. At thirty-two he enters the Landwehr, and has eight to ten days under arms every fourth year until, at fifty, he retires, and is required to furnish no further service except in case of war.

What the Swiss militiaman lacks in military orthodox he far more than makes up by skill a nation of marksmen. The training periods are occupied only with drill and tactics; the all-important matter of shooting is left to the individual soldier to carry out at other times, and he does it under the auspices of the shooting societies which are such a feature of Swiss life.

These societies, under government control, are called Schuetzenvereine in the German, and Societes de Tir in the French cantons. They are voluntary associations, varying in size and importance with the town or village they serve. Those in the larger towns possess completely fitted ranges and club-houses, the small villages do their shooting in any field backed by a suitable hill. Every peasant and townsman has easy facilities for shooting, and each man has his service rifle always in his possession.

Every man between the ages of twenty and thirty-two must fire thirty-two shots in four compulsory exercises every year, and the societies receive a grant of two francs for every soldier shooting his course on their ranges. The income derived from the grants generally suffices for the current expenses of the society, supply of targets and pay of marker. There is no entrance fee nor subscription as a rule, and heavy expenditure, such as that incurred by the construction of new ranges, is met by a special grant from the government.

Rules as to spectators, methods of loading and conduct on the ranges are stringent. Loss of grant is incurred by any breach or neglect of regulations.

In addition to these exercises, many competitions are held between different villages, towns and cantons. In summer the trains and streams are crowded with the jovial bands of marksmen going to and from their shooting festivals. The whole of Swiss shooting is a good example of co-operation between government and individual. Every Switzer has his army rifle; he can use it when and where he will, provided he does not endanger other lives; he is insured by government against accidents on the range, and through his society he can secure the services of qualified military officers to organize and control his shooting.

By treating rifle shooting as a sport, and it is as popular as football is with us, and far more generally practised, the Swiss have removed it from its usual warlike associations; but should occasion arise, that which has been learned in sport would be used in earnest.

A Liniment for the Logger—Loggers lead a life which exposes them to many perils. Wounds, cuts and bruises cannot be altogether avoided in preparing timber for the drive and in river work, where wet and cold combined are of daily experience, coughs and colds and muscular pains cannot but ensue. Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil, when applied to the injured or administered to the ailing, works wonders.
