Extracts From Ottawa
Letter.

The Revenue returns for August show that Mr. Fielding collected in customs taxes a million dollars more than he did in August last year. It is the boast of the Government organs that a million dollars increase has been recorded in each of five months of this fiscal year and that the customs department is now $5,000,000 ahead of the record. This is a queer boast from ministers who came into power pledged to reduce taxation, and who even last year took in taxes just twice as much per head out of the people of Canada as the Conservative Government took in 1896. The Minister of Customs says it is all right because the people are paying voluntarily since they would not pay so much if they bought less. But any householder knows that his weekly expenses are larger than formerly, not because he buys more goods but because the price is higher. The higher the price the more duty he pays.
It takes a Minister at the head of the taxing Department to see where the voluntary principle comes in. The people buy goods because they need them, they pay a high price because they cannot get them cheap, they pay more duty because the duty is based on the price, and the larger duty they pay makes the price still higher.
But it makes revenue and gives Ministers occasion for vain boasting.

Mr. Borden has reached Ottawa after a remarkably successful series of meetings in Quebec, and begins at once his Ontario tour. The most exacting Conservative could not fail to be satisfied with the attendance at these meetings and their enthusiasm. Everywhere the leader has been heard with profound attention by immense audiences, and has discussed frankly the principles laid down in the Halifax platform. While the Nova Scotia and New Brunswick meetings endorsed these doctrines by strong manifestations of approval, the French Canadians have not been less cordial. There is no doubt that the Government is losing its hold in the Province where it has the strongest, and that Sir Wilfrid's personality is no longer sufficient to atone for the errors and offences of his Administration and of his colleagues.

Mr. Bourassa's movement, and the exposures made by a number of independent Liberals, have greatly discredited the Provincial Government, which has been since the fall of the Ross Administration at Ottawa. During the last few days Senator Legris, a prominent Liberal politician, and Mr. Laflamme one of the leading Liberal jurists of the Province, have joined in the platform campaign that Mr. Bourassa is carrying on. These dissensions among the Provincial Liberals encourage the people of the Province to give careful attention to political questions on their merits. This is what Mr.
Borden asks from them. Among powerful speakers who occupied the platform with Mr. Borden in Quebec were Mr. Monk, Mr. Bergeron, Mr. Marechal, Mr. Pope, and Mr. Ames, and several other effective orators and debaters.

One clause in the Conservative platform demands the speedy trial of election petitions. A comment on this is the Halifax election trial, which began in December 1904 and is again postponed at the request of the sitting members Mr. Borden said in Halifax that he believed he was fairly elected by the people. It is the business of the Court to determine whether this claim is just. Yet for three sessions the two respondents, said to be illegally elected, have occupied seats in the House, and this postponement will give them a fourth session, which will probably complete the Parliamentary term. For the third time the case is coming to the Supreme Court of Canada on appeal, arriving as before just in time for the proceedings to delay trial to the beginning of the Session and therefore to the end of it, since trials cannot take place while the house is sitting. On the last occasion the Supreme Court sent the petition back to Halifax without even hearing what the petitioner's counsel had to say, so little reason did the sitting members give for escaping trial.

The sitting members have secured postponements during recess and enjoyed immunities during the session. They have evaded service and failed to respond to summonses, they have taken appeals that were dismissed at sight and secured one dismissal of the petition which the Supreme Court on an appeal reversed after hearing counsel for sitting members only. They wound up at Halifax with a grand flourish by summoning an array of bankers, railway presidents, capitalists and notable people from all over Canada to appear as witnesses against Mr. Borden, and then without allowing them to testify had the trial postponed and sent out stories of what these witnesses were expected to tell. Mr. Borden and his friends did all they could to get the whole story told years ago, and to have the Halifax seat awarded to the men honestly elected. Yet two alleged usurpers have been occupying the seats and have headed off all enquiry as to their right to be there. It has cost them many thousands of dollars to do this, but they are rich. There is sufficient reason in this crime against the people for Mr. Borden's demand for the prompt trial of petitions.

Death of Rev. Dr. Doyle.

We deeply regret to be obliged to record the demise of Rev. Dr.
Patrick Doyle, pastor of St. Joach-im's Church, Vernon River. The sad event occurred about 7 o'clock last Thursday morning. Deceased had been in failing health for over a year, and gradually grew worse despite the best of medical skill and the most tender nursing.

Rev. Patrick Doyle, D. D., was born at St. Mark's, Lot Seven, on the 9th of March, 1839, so that he was 68 years of age at his death.
He was the youngest of a family of ten children, and brothers and sisters, all of whom have predeceased him except one brother, Peter, aged 78 years, who was at the deceased priest's bedside at the time of his death. He was baptized at Tignish, and went to school there.
The youthful Patrick attracted the attention of the late Bishop Mc-Intyre, then Parish Priest at Tignish, who often visited the home of the boy's parents.

In due time, on Father Mc-Intyre's advice, the future priest was sent to St. Dunstan's College.
After a brilliant course at that institution, he entered the Grand Seminary, Quebec, and after a three year's course in Theology, was ordained on July 24, 1864.
After his return home he was attached to the teaching staff of St.
Dunstan's College for two years, and then entered on the active missionary work of the priesthood. He had been pastor at Kelly's Cross, Lot 65, Seven Mile Bay, Kinkora and Summerside.
Before moving to Vernon River he resided for several years at Summerside, and had at the same time pastoral charge of Kinkora and Seven Mile Bay. While residing at Summerside he celebrated, in 1889, the silver jubilee of his priestly ordination. The occasion was a remarkable one, and the late Bishop McIntyre, a large number of the diocesan clergy and many lay friends were in attendance to honor and congratulate the Rev. jubilarian. On that occasion he had the title of D. D. conferred upon him by the University of Laval.

In 1890 he was transferred to the flourishing parish of Vernon River, where he continued to labor till the time of his death. In consequence of his failing health he had an assistant for the past few years.
The deceased priest was a man of fine presence, and was of a warmhearted, kindly disposition and in his home dispensed a generous hospitality. He was a man of ability, an excellent preacher, and a good administrator. He sang the Mass and other offices of the Church most beautifully.

The funeral took place on Saturday last and was very largely attended. The special train from Charlottetown and Tignish brought a large number. It is estimated that about two thousand people attended the funeral. The casket containing the mortal remains of the deceased priest had been solemnly borne from the presbytery to the sanctuary of the Church on the previous afternoon where the body was viewed by the people until the funeral. Members of the C. M. B. A. formed a guard of honor, and took turns in watching by the casket. The church and sanctuary were appropriately draped.

The funeral services were most solemn and impressive. Solemn Pontifical Mass of Requiem was celebrated by his Grace, the Archbishop of Halifax, with the Rev.
Dr. Chaisson as archpriest; Revs.
D. M. McDonald and S. Boudreau deacons of honor; Revs. A.
E. Burke and A. P. McLellan, deacon and sub-deacon of office; Rev. Dr. Monaghan, Master of Ceremonies, and Rev.
Father O'Neill, assistant Master of Ceremonies; organ bearer, Rev. K. J.
McPherson, and acolytes, Revs. P. D.
McGuigan and Dr. G. J. McLellan. The chaplains to Archbishop McDonald were Revs. Wm. Phelan and D. J. G. McDonald, and the chaplain to Bishop Mc-Donald was Rev. A. J. McIntyre. The other clergy in attendance included Very Rev. Mgr. Daly, Very Rev. Dr. Morrison, Revs. A. J. Donald, Dr. Walker, J. C.
McLellan, J. C. McMillan, D. D. J. A.
McDonald, S. T. Phelan, Dr. Curran, J. J. McDonald, I. R. A. McDonald, T.
Campbell, Theodore Gallant, M. J.
Smith, Father Connolly, F. X. Gallant, R. J. Gillis, P. O. Gaultier, D. B. P. E.
Arsenault, P. McGuigan and M. J. Reardon.

The funeral oration was delivered by Most Rev. Ronald McDonald, titular Archbishop of Gortyna, an old friend of the deceased. His text was from Jeremiah III: "Return to me ye rebellious children, saith the Lord, and I will send you priests according to my own heart, who will feed you in truth and doctrine." His Grace said he had come to ask the prayers of those present for the eternal repose of the good priest who had labored so long and faithfully among them. In the course of his sermon, the Most Rev. preacher, in very feeling terms, paid a noble tribute to the dead pastor. He considered him a priest according to God's own heart; his life work was on the lines of the Divine exemplar. To his friends his life had been singularly beautiful and harmonious, marked by the great purpose and desire of following Christ in attitude toward men, by moving among them, sharing their joys and sorrows, and exhibiting towards them a wide and embracing sympathy. He pointed out that though Father Doyle's life to the world might seem not very eventful; to God it was life of purpose. He sketched the early life of the future priest; the solitary influences of his youthful days in a good old-fashioned family, surrounded by piety and better traditions. Here the keen sympathetic eyes of the late Bishop McIntyre discerned the promise of the future man and priest, and took the boy to his home and sent him to the parish school at Tignish. The preacher next dwell on the missionary career of the deceased, pointing out the great work he had done in different places in which he had labored. "If," said the Archbishop, "we look back on that life in the mellow light that death has already thrown around it, and if we ask the cause of Father Doyle's influence, his power to do good among you, you have it all in the words, 'he was a priest according to God's own heart.' If you search for the reason of his personal magnetism, that divine indefinable something, that subtle power by which good men impress themselves on others, you have it in the same answer." The Most Rev. preacher pointed out the quiet and gentle manner of working followed by the deceased. Not studying how to capture the eye or admiration of the world; but quietly and humbly laboring in his appointed sphere.
He was, he said, the good shepherd of his flock. His flock knew him and he knew them. He was, in truth, the preacher, the "Saghar Aaron," the dear priest among his people. His Grace's discourse was a most beautiful and affectionate tribute of a friend and brother priest of the departed pastor.
His concluding remarks were most feeling and deeply impressed the immense congregation.

At the conclusion of the Mass the Liberator sang the Mass of the dead, given by his Lordship Bishop McDonald.
The casket was then borne out to the cemetery, the clergy and choir chanting the proper canticles. The order of the procession was as follows: Cross bearer. Acolytes, Clergy, Archbishops and Bishop, hier, mourners, B.I.S., A.O.H., C.M.B.A. friends. The hearse moved from the church to the main road in front; along the road to the cemetery, then to the grave. The absolutio at the grave was given by Bishop McDonald. The pall was borne by the following named priests: Rev. Jas. Eneas Mc-Donald, S. T. Phelan, Dr. Mc-Millan, Dr. Morrison, Dr. Curran and P. D. McGuigan. The lay pall bearers, who carried the casket were: Charles Kelly, Augustus McAnzie, Michael Reid, Patrick Ryan, Summerside; John Bradley, Kelly's Cross; John T.
Murphy, Kinkora. Rev. F. X.
Gallant, Rev. Dr. Gauthier and other priests sang in the choir and the solemn music was rendered exceptionally well. The services throughout were of the most solemn and impressive character.

The trouble between the Whites and Asiatics in British Columbia is not yet adjusted, although matters are in a quiet state. It is reported from the coast that the combined Chinese and Japanese organization of Vancouver made overtures to the Hudson's Bay Company to strike all along the British Columbia coast.
The Hudsons refused. Another item of news is that the Vancouver police made a seizure of fifty Winchester rifles, together with thousands of rounds of ammunition which had been purchased at New Westminster by Chinese and consigned to a wealthy Chinese merchant at Vancouver who is also a large property owner, whose buildings had been damaged by the mob. While there is no doubt the rough element did the work of disturbance in the recent outbreak, it is also a fact that every labor unionist in Vancouver is pledged to resist the entrance of any more yellow laborers, and to resist to force if necessary. The same course has been agreed upon by the labor men at Victoria, messages of sympathy with labor men have come from every corner of the Canada. It has also been suggested that a New Westminster by Chinese and consigned to a wealthy Chinese merchant at

that a huge strike all over Canada should be called in order to show this was a national affair. Whether or not all this will end in talk, it will be seen that the case has reached a somewhat critical stage.

At Halifax on Monday, Judge Longley delivered judgment in the case between the Steel company and the Coal Company, recently tried. His judgment is in favor of the Steel Company, holding that the Coal company violated their contract by not supplying a sufficient quantity of coal free from stone and shale. The judgment was a lengthy one.

Two hundred and fifty-three thousand tons of coal exclusive of that to be shipped in Government stores, will be required to get the United States Atlantic battleship fleet to the Pacific coast and properly coal at Mare Island, according to the estimates made by the equipment bureau of the navy department, which has called for proposals for supplying the necessary fuel. Of this aggregate 133,000 tons are now being mined and the remainder Welsh coal.

On Sunday after Pentecost, (Matt. X.
XII. 48-49). "Thou shalt love the Lord thy God with thy whole heart, and with thy whole mind, and with thy whole strength. This is the greatest and the first commandment. And the second is like to this:
'Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself.' His times sermon was an eloquent and useful discourse on the virtues of charity. In admirable language he portrayed the over-whelming love of God for us and pointed out what our love should be in return. Turning to the second part of the commandment, love of our neighbor, he plainly and forcibly showed what the character of this love should be. The love of our neighbor should be universal and sincere and should be of the same nature as our love of God; because it is for God's sake. Our love of our neighbor should be as strong as the love of ourselves. This was what the Gospel required.
His Grace's sermon was in every way admirable and edifying.
