ommended it already to all my and relatives."—Mrs. ENGLEMANN, 2032 Palmetto St., Ridgewood, Brooklyn, N.Y.
For the woman suffering from nervous troubles causing sleeplessness, headache, hysteria, "the blues," Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will be found a splendid medicine. For the woman of middle age who is passing through the trials of that period, it can be depended upon to relieve the troubles semmon at that time. common at that time.

Remember, the Vegetable Compound has a record of nearly fifty years of service and thousands of women praise its merit, as does Mrs. Englemann.

You should give it a fair trial now.

LADY LAURA'S RELEASE

THE STORY OF A SPOILED BEAUTY.

CHAPTER XXVI.

Out of the fullness of her heart she told many little anecdotes of the father whom she had loved so much. Lady Laura listened with a smile on her face, and for once the captain was forgotten. Some of the lost peace and happiness came back to the fragile lady who had been once so dearly loved.

Lady Laura Wynyard and her daughter passed the next summer in Switzerland, and one beautiful morning in August they were in the grounds of their villa. The golden sun shone on the blue waters; the air was fresh and invigorating. An invalid-chair had been placed for Lady Laura under the drooping boughs of a tall tree, so that she might rest in the shade. The captain had gone to a picnic, leaving the mother and daughter together.

Just for that one hour they had both forgotten the captain and the weight of sorrow that oppressed them.

CHAPTER XXVII.

The month of September had drawn to a close, and the captain had begun to tire of Switzerland. The charm for him, and he would have found the time hang terribly heavy topping in the same place.
