urning over one-third of the proceeds to the fund. They then called upon large firms for subscriptions to the disabled firemen's fund, and among the checks received were: From the Bank of Montreal, $500; Merchants' Bank, $200; Sir Donald Smith, $100; Grand Trunk Railway, $100, or nearly $2,000 in all. They then handed these checks to Chief Benoit, alleging that they were in payment for advertisements in the mythical book, and as the same time presented a fictitious account for work claimed to be done by the Burland Lithograph Company, amounting to $1,000. The craimed to be done by the Burland Lithe-graph Company, amounting to $1,400. The chief indorsed the checks in payment for the supposed work, which were then cashed and with the proceeds of which the clever young man disappeared.

Niagara Falls, Ont., Aug. 11.—Yesterday morning Mr. J. C. Hayden, chief of the detective force in Rochester, N. Y., accompanied by Detective Furtherer, of the same force, and having in charge a Mrs.
Quigley, wife of Chas. H. Quigley, of Rochester, N. Y., arrived here and notified Ontario Policeman McMicking, of this place, that they were in search of the body of Mrs. Arthur Day, of Rochester, N. Y., who was murdered two weeks ago. Mrs. Quigley, the woman accompanying the detectives, was the sister of Arthur Day. On reaching a point below the whirlpool rapids elevator photograph gallery on the Canadian side the body of the unfortunate woman was found lying frightfully mangled on the rugged rocks and much decomposed. It being late in the evening, no attempt was made to bring the body to the top of the bank, but steps was taken to secure it. Mrs. Quigley related the following blood-curding story to the police magistrate:

MRS. QUIGLEY.

Mrs. Quigley is a very hard-looking woman, and gives her age as 48 years. She has been married four times. She says that to her mother, Mrs. Cornelia Day, she had confessed the whole thing. Her mother told her she was glad she was gone. Mrs. Quigley said the reason for denying any knowledge of Mrs. Day No. I's whereabouts was that she did not wish to betray her brother in his crime.

The Police Magistrate had Mrs. Quigley arrested as an accessory to the murder.

The VICTIM.

The dead woman was a tall, slim figure with dark hair, fair complexion, dark eyes and rather good-looking. She was peevish, would take fits of anger. She had two children, one of them dying last winter. She was about 26 years of age. She and her husband had fights when they were living on Monroe street, and parted for a few weeks. The children were put in the Industrial school at the time. She was the daughter of Daniel Chatterton, of Saratoga. Wife No. 2 was the daughter of Mr. Breen, of Plymouth street, Rochester. The Breens had come to Rochester from Canada.

Mrs. Quigley was locked up in the jail. Application will be made to extradite Day, and he will be tried for murder here.

The place where the body of the unfortunate woman lies is about 60 feet from the top of tire bank.

For the past week the canton has been attending the triennial cantonment of Patriarchs Militant at Chicago, in which they were successful enough to carry off the second prize in class B, drill competition. As the air brakes were applied and the train brought to a standstill the victorious patriarchs were accorded three hearty cheers. The other members of the order then formed a square on the platform, into which Capt. Brown marched, after forming the canton into order. The men were all in the pink of condition and spoke highly of their treatment in Chicago. On the Captain's right hand was Major Stenberg, and associated with him were Adjt. Herald, Lieut. McRoberts, Ensign Darch and Surgeon Abbott. The canton was drawn up in line, after which Mayor Taylor came forward and in a tew words welcomed them back to the city. He was more than pleased, he said, to hear that they had been so very successful in the competition drill in that they carried off the second award. In their success they had brought not only honor to themselves and to their order but to the city at large. Major Stenberg replied on behalf of the canton, and at the conclusion of it the Seventh Band struck up "For They Are Jolly Good Fellows." The band then moved off and the canton, marching in threes, fell in, followed by the other members of the order. On arriving at their hall the canton was dismissed, a great many repairing to the lodge room, where a general hand-shaking took place, followed with hearty congratulations. Canton Paymaster Patriarch Ed. Beltz afterwards called the members to order. He paid a compliment to the canton, and expressed the conviction that their success would have a beneficent influence over the whole order in Ontario.

Labor Notes.

An attempt to settle the miners' strike at Springhill, N. J., has failed
Some of the men employed on the Dublin, Wicklow and Wexford Railroad have struck in consequence of the discharge of a number of workmen who belonged to the employes' union.

The railway strikers in Wales are as determined as ever. They handed in the company uniforms and received the wages due them. There are no signs of yielding, and but few of the men have gone back to work. Expressions of sympathy have been received from all parts of the kingdom; the sailors' union has resolved to prevent Cardiff ship-owners from getting men at British ports, and notices have been sent everywhere giving warning that the strike isstill on, and that people in search of workshould go elsewhere.

The situation at Cardiff remains unchanged. The mails are still carried by wagons on the public roads. The strike has seriously affected the London shipping trade.

VOICES OF THE PEOPLE.

A Pienicker's Plaint.

To the Editor of the Advervisure:
Port Stanley seems destined to be the summer resort for London, St. Thomas and the surrounding villages. This season it has been more extensively patronized than ever in the past, and it is desirable that it should be made as pleasant a place as possible and have every facility that will make it easy of access at reasonable hours, more especially for those who may sojourn there; also that there should not be any drawbacks in the way of nuisances. We go there also that there should not be any drawbacks in the way of nuisances. We go there for fresh, pure air, but on Fraser heights west of the pienic grounds the stench from the stables of the Fraser House is so great that pienickers have to hold their noses whilst passing. I am sure that if your valuable journal calls attention to it the obliging proprietor will have it removed.
The absence of this nuisance would add much to the value of his property and render the present vacant lots salable.

P. C. P. Bro, James W. Burrows, of Chatham, and a member of Adelphian Encampment and Canton No. 1, who had come to the city to assist in the reception, was then called on for a few words. He had been on the ground, he said, when the drill was taking place, and had heard all of the comments made in his vicinity, and was it not that the London Canton was placed at the great disadvantage of having to drill two days ahead of the others, and on totally strange ground, he was convinced that they would have secured the first prize. He was pleased and considered it a privilege to greet the boys on their return.

P. S. H. P. Bro. John Hunter and P. C. P. Bro. J. Hanson also complimented the canton on their achievements, and said that they would prove a source of strength to the rest of the order.

Major Brown, captain of the canton, was then called on and received an ovation as he rose to his feet. He first expressed his thanks for the hearty reception which had been tendered to the canton and to himself on their arrival in the city. When he left a week ago he had hopes that the canton would win some prize, but had not set his hopes on second one. In the matter of drill the London Canton was first in merit, but it was the uniform that lost them the contest, all of the members not having uniform swords. This detracted six points from their total and so together with the fact that they were compelled to drill on strange ground the canton had every reason to feel proud with the result of the drill competition, they having received the full percentage for drill movements. The reception then ended with cheers for Capt.
