A Finland "Jack the Ripper" Captured.

HESINGFORS, Finland, Oct. 29.—For some time a series of atrocities similar to those committed by "Jack the Ripper" has startled society here. Several fallen women least clue to the murders, but the man has Bismarck Slighted.

BERLIN, Oct. 29.—Much comment has been caused by Prince Bismarck's absence from the Von Moltke festivities, but word from the Von Moltke festivities, but word comes from Varzin that the former Chancellor was very ill all last week, having been prostrated by nervous excitement, a condition that was not improved by his susplicion that the special bonors conferred on Count von Moltke were intended to make him feel uncomfortable. He is said to be greatly chagrined at the fact that the newspapers have ignored him of late, and is reported to have said to an attendant: "I might as well be buried as slighted."

period of distress, forred at length with them as to the best method of providing relief, which he admitted would be necessary. The priest said the system of affording relief adopted on former similar occasions had a demoralizing tendency, and suggested that the people be employed in the construction of light railways and other work, but not unless such works were likely to prove of benefit to the district. Mr. Balfour expressed his concurrence in this view. He expressed sorrow for the failure of their potatoes, which he knew would cause them much suffering. He was glad he had been able to sanction the construction of a railway within seven miles of the island, which, he said, would give them employment, and he hoped to be able to extend the line to the island. A number of peasants escorted Mr. Balfour to various fishing stations, and after dark escorted him over the mountains. Mr. Balfour promised to finish a bridge between two points on the island and to defray the expenses out of his own pocket.

CAUSED BY THE CAT.

Six Cases of Black Diphtheria in One Family—Three of the Children Die.

LEADVILLE, Wis, Oct. 29.—The family of Robert Paul, at Middleton, has been afflicted with diphtheria which was brought into the house in a singular manner. Four weeks ago a stray cat went to the house and one of the children played with it, although it was not allowed to remain. It discharged at the nose and mouth. Nothing was thought of it till soon afterwards, when the little boy was taken down with black diphtheria, which the doctor said he had caught from the cat. The boy died. Then a second son took the disease and died. The father, mother and daughter were also tricken down, but recovered. Allan, the only remaining son, and the support of his parents, cared for them all through their sickness, and prepared them for burial. When the others were recovering he was taken sick and died.

Seeds in a Pumpkin.

Defroit, Oct. 29.—Monday was the time set for determining the number of seeds in Mabley & Co.'s prize pumpkin, and the name of the winner in their guessing contest. After determining that every seed of any size or state of growth should be counted, the jumbo farm product was cut open. After removing all the seeds they were counted twice and the number both times was the same, 784. After looking over the guesses, of which there were 8,634, it was found that noone had guessed the exact number, but that there were several slips bearing guesses of 783 and 785. The first of these received was one made by Miss Irene Abbett of Green Bieby Miss him feel uncomfortable. He is said to be greatly chagrined at the fact that the newspapers have ignored him of late, and is reported to have said to an attendant: "I might as well be buried as slighted."

An Austrian Archduke Missing.

VIENNA, Oct. 29.—Great anxiety is felt here on account of the strange disappearance of the Archduke Johann Salvador, who relinquished his title and rank as a noble of the House of Hapsburg to marry a young actress, and afterward took the name of Johann Orth, and became the master of merchant ship. He left La Plata on July 11 for Montevideo, at which port he was to bring to Europe. He has not been heard of for fifteen weeks, and letters addressed to him from Vienna to La Plata and Valparaiso remain unanswered.

Bloodshed in Switzerland.
Berre, Oct. 29.—A report was received here from Lugano, one of the capitals of the Canton of Ticino, stating that fighting had occurred between the troops and the disaffected Librals, and that some blood had been shed.

The Federal Council has by a unanimous wote rejected the appeals made by the Ultramontanes of Ticino against the popular vote taken on Oct. 5 last, when a majority declared in favor of a revision of the constitution of the Canton.

While the Lugano Conservatives and Liberals were celebrating with fireworks over the result of the elections, the commander of the feudal troops ordered them to desist. The people resisting, they were attacked by the troops and several were blamed for excess of zeal.

KINCARDINE, Oct. 29.—The West Bruce Teachers' Association held a very successful two days' meeting in the Model School building here. The programme was varied, and the discussions which followed the several papers read were bright and entertaining. Prof. Panton, of the Agricultural College, Guelph, delivered an address on "The Formation of Soils." A very large public meeting in the evening listened to an address from the same gentleman on "A Trip Through the Yellowstone Park." It was perhaps one of the best lectures ever given here. On the following day an interesting event took place, when the teachers of West Bruce presented the public school inspector of the division, Mr. Alex. Campbell, with a complimentary address and a well-filled purse of gold. Mr. Campbell has been one of the inspectors of Bruce county for some fourteen years, and his popularity with the teachers of his inspectorate was very foroibly shown by the address and handsone present.

The arguments presented seemed to carry conviction, and were received with expression of approval. At the close of the meeting a vote of thanks was carried without a dissenting voice.

The Detroit boot and shoemakers met Monday night to take measures to better the condition of their craft. It was decided to organize one local union, under international rules. Fifty-two men were initiated. The business of the union will be conducted by an advisory board composed of delegates from all departments. In case of labor troubles in any one department, the firm will be waited on by a committee specially chosen from the ranks of the workers in the departments in question. W. H. Sayward, of Boston, secretary of the National Builders' Association, was interviewed on Monday by a Detroit reporter. "I am on my annual tour or visit to the 40 subordinate exchanges," said Mr. Sayward, "40 of the largest cities in the union now have builders' exchanges, and five or six more cities are coming in soon. They will tembody all the leading cities of the country. The National Exchange was organized four years ago with only ten exchanges represented. The other 30 have come in since. In Boston the pay of bricklayers is 40 to 50 cents an hour. In Detroit wages are about the same; the men receive $3.50 a day of nine hours work. Common labor is much cheaper in Detroit, I find, than in Boston. Here you pay $1.50 a day and there we pay $2. St. Louis is about the only western city where wages are higher than in Detroit. In the East all wages are higher, but I doubt if the workingmen net, after all their living expenses are paid, as much as yours do here."

Every steam-fitting establishment in Chicago is idle, all of the union and 35 per cent. of the non-union men being on strike. Michigan confederate started to-day by him and his Toronto publishers. The document in question is regarded as the clumsiest fabrication Birchall has yet put forth. It is terrible to think that a man so near death should still be busying himself in concocting falsehoods and forgeries.

The Sentinel-Review, after an examination of the handwriting and a comparison of it with samples of Birchall's, declares that there is very general resemblance between the two and in some cases a very striking likeness, and there is no doubt that this is the fact.

A friend of Birchall's said to-day: "I think the best defense at the trial would have been insanity—absence of all moral sense. The man is so given to lying that he lies even when he must be aware that he is cutting the ground from under the feet of those who are getting up the petition." In this town interest in the case is dead. Many say that the newspapers have paid too much attention to so worthless a seamp.

LONDON, Oct. 29.—Inquiries were made at Morley's Hotel in Trafalgar Square to ascertain what truth there is in the story that Reginald Birchall now under sentence, Mrs. Birchall and the Colonel, the alleged author of the letter received by Birchall, in which the writer acknowledges that he shot and killed Benwell, were at the hotel last January. An examination of the register shows that an American styling himself Colonel Lewis was a guest at the hotel, the entry showing that he remained there during December.

WOODSTOCK, Ont., Oct. 20.—Young Benwell has left for New York, where he will take the the state.

WOODSTOCK, Oat., Oct. 20.—Young Benwell has left for New York, where he will take the the steamer for England. Before he left he said: "I am not likely to come to Canada again, although this is a fine country. I have not allowed myself, through the death of my brother, to form a prejudicial opinion of the people here or of the Dominion."

"Are you taking with you the boots and clothes your brother wore when he was murdered?"

"No, indeed. I would not take the boots with me if I had them, because I don't believe they belong to my brother. But, as a matter of fact, these articles are in the possession of the Attorney-General at Toronto, and I do not care to see them again."

"Then you are certain the shoes were not the property of your brother?"

"Quite so. They were entirely worn out and totally unfit for such rough weather. Besides, the leather was cracked and had a reddish coat as if overstoes or rubbers had been worn with them. It is true the boots were about the right size, but they were put on his feet, I believe, by somebody after the murder. He would not start out on such a day as the 17th of last February with such a shabby pair of shoes, scarcely fit to wear aboard ship or in midsummer."

"Do you think Birchall had a confederate in the crime?"

"Yes; at least there has always been a doubt in my mind that I would like to have cleared up. If Birchall was with my brother in the swamp alone, what became of the boots and the revolver? But this I don't care to discuss with a reporter now. The case is over and the prisoner had a fair trial. If he was assisted in the crime by another, why did he not say so before this? If Birchall did not fire the shots he should tell who did, if he can. If he cannot, the Government should stay judgment until the mystery is cleared up."

"What did you think of Birchall's defense?"
