

Weak, Tired, Nervous

Women, who seem to be all worn out, will find in purified blood, made rich and healthy by Hood's Sarsaparilla, permanent relief and strength. The following is from a well known nurse:

"I have suffered for years with female complaints and kidney troubles and I have had a great deal of medical advice during that time, but have received little or no benefit. A friend advised me to take Hood's Sarsaparilla and I began to use it, together with Hood's Pills. I have realized more benefit from the medicine than from anything else I have ever taken. From my personal experience I believe Hood's Sarsaparilla to be a most complete blood purifier." Mrs. C. CROMBIE, 71 Cumberland St., Toronto, Ontario.

GALT GOT THERE.
Galt, Oct. 14.—The final game for the championship of the Waterloo County League was played Saturday between Preston and the Alphas, of Galt. During the game Geo. Ross, bookkeeper for Ferguson & Patterson, while in the box for Preston during the third inning, broke his right arm at the elbow by simply delivering a ball to the batter. Galt won the game and the championship of the county, together with the pennant donated by the Spaulding Co., of Chicago. Score as follows:

Preston.....001010230—7 R 15
Galt.....00113104—10 R 8
Batteries—Preston, Ross and Ewald; Galt, Ross and Ewald.

The standing of the clubs in the Waterloo County League at the close of the season is: Alphas, won 13, lost 3; Preston, won 11, lost 5; Hespeler, won 9, lost 7; Waterloo, won 4, lost 12; Berlin, won 2, lost 13.

The Alphas play the Browns at St. Thomas today. The Browns will be strengthened by the addition of Sam Marrocco, the second baseman of the old London International team, and the Browns will have Joe Knicker, and probably Snyder and Bradford, the Maple Leaf battery, to help them out. Bob Emble will umpire.

On Wednesday afternoon a benefit game to Manager W. A. Reid, of the Alphas, will be played between the Alphas and a picked team from the City League. Mr. Reid has been an energetic manager, and has the confidence of his team. Lovers of the game should recognize the fact by attending in large numbers.

ATHLETICS.

Corpus Christi, Texas, Oct. 14.—Fitzsimmons' quarters present a lively appearance. Parties who have seen Corbett train in San Antonio say that Fitzsimmons' physical condition is far superior, and Trainer Charley White says Fitzsimmons is in better condition than ever before in his life.

San Antonio, Texas, Oct. 14.—Corbett has received the following telegram from W. A. Brady at Hot Springs: "Come at once. Everything fixed all right; protection guaranteed." Corbett will leave for Hot Springs tonight.

Little Rock, Ark., Oct. 14.—"There may be a fight at Hot Springs, but it won't be a prize fight," said Governor Clark to an Associated Press representative. "I certainly hope that extreme measures will not be necessary. I know those people, every one of them, and they are my friends, and I should very much regret to be compelled to adopt harsh methods, but the law gives me the authority and supplies the means, and if the necessity arises, I shall certainly bring the fight at any cost."

KICKS.
At Ottawa on Saturday Ottawa College vs. Montreal furnished one of the closest and most exciting games of Rugby football ever witnessed there. The result was a draw, each side making five points, and the entire score was made during the first ten minutes' play.

The Hamilton and Toronto football clubs played a second game in the senior championship series Saturday. Hamilton won by 15 to 0. This gives Hamilton a majority of 14 points for two games.

On Saturday last, for the first time in a number of years, the London Asylum Football Club played a game on their own grounds, the other contestants being the Pottersburg club. The Association rules governed, and at the close the game stood 2 to 0 in favor of the Asylum team. There was good play on both sides.

The Asylum team is now open to receive challenges. Address: George Thurling.

MUSIC AND THE DRAMA.
Walker Whitehead's Methods—"My Wife's Friend" at the Grand—Franklin McLeay in England.

Walker Whitehead, the tragedian, confesses that he has seen the performances of very few actors who have won fame in the field of tragedy. During my early years of study and preparation for the stage, he remarked recently, "I persistently denied myself the pleasure of seeing the great actors of the day, for fear I should unconsciously absorb some of their personality and methods and become a mere mimic. I wanted to be original or nothing to be myself. If my work suggests that of another player it is a coincidence for which I am sure I am not responsible."

THEY ALL LAUGHED.
As a laugh producer, "My Wife's Friend" met with instantaneous success at the Grand on Saturday night, and the play bids fair to establish a niche for itself alongside of the several phenomenal successes of a similar nature already on the road. The action is lively, the dialogue is bright and free from vulgarity and suggestion, and the situations are both ludicrous and mirth-provoking, affording ample scope for the display of talent so necessary for the success of light comedy.

Wm. C. Andrews, in the title role of Jack Luster, had a part eminently suited to him, and filled it well. The work of H. Rees Davies, as Jack Luster, the stony-faced and fussy old man, was exceptionally good. Wm. Fairbanks, as Judge Shaw, also somewhat of an eccentric, took his part with a refreshing originality of conception. Albert Walker, as the villain, found opportunity to display to advantage a fairly good voice. Marion Giraux took the role of Mrs. Ponsby very cleverly. She has a good voice and displays some choice dresses. The part of a spoiled child and enfant terrible in a sprightly and vivacious manner. Minnie Monk, as the cold, austere and proud Mrs. Ponsby, also played capital and contributed not a little to the prosperity of "My Wife's Friend."

FRANKLIN MCLEAY IN ENGLAND.
A copy of the Yorkshirerian, a paper devoted to the doings of that English county, has been received by the "Advertiser." The front page contained a picture of the clever young Canadian in the character of Nero, and the following sketch with admiring comments on the characterization of the part: "With this number we present our readers with portraits of Mr. Franklin McLeay, one in his habit as he is, and his 24th year. He is a young man of the two parts in which he has most impressed himself upon the public, namely as the part in 'Pharaoh' and as Nero in 'The Christ of the Cross.' The former we need not remind our readers, his creation, the Bat, was pronounced one of the most wonderful characters of the stage on the strength of a mere critic declared that no other actor could so well play the part. Mr. McLeay's Nero is scarcely less startling; it is essentially English, different, unexpected, but it grips and thrills, and each stroke in his delineation of the actor-emperor, the valiant monarch who alienated the sympathies of his people as much by his lack of dignity as by his cruelty, is based on history."

Mr. McLeay is a Canadian, and few have had so thorough an equipment in dramatic work as he. Before meeting Mr. Barrett he was one of the best authorities on English literature in Canada, and had lectured for a season in Boston on Shakespeare. Since joining Mr. Barrett he has played about 40 parts, conspicuous among them are Iago, the Bishop and the Doomed in "Ben-my-Chree," the Tetrarch in "Cleopatra," the Ghost in "Hamlet," Don Quixote and Amleus in "The Silver King," the Bat in "Pharaoh," and Nero in "The Sign of the Cross." During the past season Mr. McLeay signed a contract to star in America in "A Modern Mephisto," under one of the most excellent New York managers, but was permitted to withdraw in order to play Nero and remain yet longer with Mr. Barrett, whom he considers one of the greatest figures of the stage. Indeed, Mr. McLeay's admiration for his chief is almost unbounded. He believes that no one has done more for the English drama than Mr. Barrett, and no one upon whom it has ever combined to so eminent a degree so many talents. Mr. Barrett's company he thinks one of the strongest, resident or traveling, from whom Mr. Barrett seeks always to draw out the best possible work.

London Scotchmen Getting Ready for Winter Action.

The St. Andrew's Society Will Not Join with the Charity Organization Society.

The quarterly meeting of the London St. Andrew's Benevolent Society was held at the rooms of the treasurer, Ald. J. W. Jones, on Saturday evening. Mr. R. K. Cowan, president, was in the chair, and the attendance of members was good.

It was arranged that the annual meeting for the election of officers should be held during the last week of October—the date to be duly advertised. Not only those who have hitherto been members, but every citizen of Scottish birth and extraction will be invited to participate in this meeting, as well as in the anniversary dinner a month later.

Mr. John G. Jones, treasurer of the demonstration at Port Stanley, reported that the affair was a great success and that a substantial sum was added to the benevolent fund after all expenses had been met.

The president limited the proposed constitution of "The Charity Organization Society of London," which had been forwarded to him. He also reported that he had attended a meeting of the Scottish birth and extraction of which he explained.

An interesting discussion followed. The general opinion was that, while there might be a need for the new organization in London, the work of St. Andrew's Society, in lending a helping hand, as occasion arose, to needy citizens of Scottish birth and origin, does not call for outside aid further than is now open to the society. A motion to this effect was moved by Mr. Robert Reid and seconded by Col. John Macbeth. The St. Andrew's Society will not, therefore, affiliate in any way with the Charity Organization Society.

DOING A GRAND WORK.
The Annual Meeting of the Y. W. C. A.—Increasing Membership—Encouraging Reports—Officers Elected.

The annual meeting of the Y. W. C. A. U. was held Thursday evening in their rooms, Spencer Block. The meeting was opened by singing "He Leadeth Me," and prayer by Rev. Mr. Rigby. The president, Miss M. Trebilcock, occupied the chair, and in a few well chosen remarks explained the object of the meeting, which was to interest the ladies of London in the work done by the Young Woman's Christian Association of the city, the Y. W. C. A. U. being the managing board of that association. Not long ago it had been asked "Why London had no Y. W. C. A.?" so it was deemed time to let all know that this much-needed work has been carried on for several years, and now has a membership of over 200. The president then called for the reports of the different departments of work, which would furnish a glimpse of the need of what has been done by the association.

The recording secretary, Miss Rigby, reported sixteen business meetings held during the year, all of which were well attended, and at each of which a Bible reading was given by one of the members.

The general secretary, Miss Trebilcock, reported the total attendance at the rooms during the year has been 14,500, of which 8,232 attended during the day, 5,677 in the evening and 4,189 were present at the lunch hour. The increased attendance at the latter is most encouraging, the total attendance being 1,000 in excess of that of last year. The need and change of season, with the privilege of a cup of hot tea or other beverage, and the use of the piano, library and magazine table, cannot but prove beneficial, and many grateful remarks attest that this branch of the work is greatly appreciated.

The treasurer reported $537 raised, with an expense of $330 23, leaving a balance of $207 77 on hand. The report of the press department stated that a report of the meetings had been sent to the "Advertiser," Free Press, Echo and Home Journal, which have all very kindly aided in bringing the cause before the public.

The evangelistic department gave an outline of the subjects taken up by Bible study and the great benefit derived therefrom.

The most important report of the evening was then given by Miss Kirkpatrick, that of the Y. W. C. A. To attract around the young women of the city influences which will develop a higher and nobler womanhood has been the object of this department, and the bright homelike rooms, the evening classes, literary evenings, helpful talks, King's Daughter meetings and devotional exercises have done much to attain that object. New members are being constantly added, 80 in all during the year. The Bible class held its meetings on Tuesday evening throughout the year, and has been very successful. Educational classes in reading, grammar, arithmetic and bookkeeping were held during the first part of the season. In May, through the kindness of Mr. Colt, of the London Shortland school, who generously offered tuition free to members, a class in shorthand was formed and has continued up to the present time.

Thursday evening a class in club swinging and drill met for physical exercise and recreation, after which the art class assembled who have, under the supervision of Mr. Jas. Davidson, of the London, England, Art School, executed some creditable work. A choral class conducted by Miss Walker (date of the Toronto Conservatory of Music) was formed in April and its meetings were a source of much pleasure to the members. Cooking lessons were given by ladies proficient in the culinary art at several Friday evenings during the winter. They were of a very practical nature and were much enjoyed. Literary evenings have been held regularly, giving the members a taste for good reading and to bring them in contact with the lives and works of the great writers. Beside this the members have been privileged to listen to interesting and helpful talks by ladies prominent in educational and philanthropic work. A temperance evening and a reception have been held monthly. The King's Daughter Circle in connection with the association has done good work, both to the spiritual lives of the members and in helping the needy. Summerholm, the outing home of the association at Port Stanley, has had a season of marked success. During July and August 83 young women enjoyed a delightful outing under sheltered and homelike conditions and returned to their duties physically benefited by the rest and change. The reports were then adopted and the president requested those present to give their aid by telling to others the work that is being done, that the people of London may know that their support and sympathy is needed, for the field of usefulness is rapidly increasing and the laborers are few. At the regular meeting held in the afternoon the following officers were elected for the ensuing year: President, Miss Jarvis; vice-presidents, Miss M. Trebilcock, G. Smith, Peel and Dempsey; recording secretary, Miss Rigby; corresponding secretary, Miss Trebilcock; treasurer, Miss G. Smith; general secretary, Miss Kirkpatrick; finance committee, Misses Peel, Trebilcock, Essex, Fleming and Dempsey; evangelistic department, Miss Paton; reading department, Miss Essex; press department, Miss Dempsey; representatives to Y. W. C. A. A. Misses Ware and Trebilcock.

CORBET.
Corbet, Oct. 11.—The annual harvest home supper in connection with the Presbyterian Church in this village was held this evening, and was well attended. After ample justice had been done to the good things provided by the ladies of the congregation, the assemblage repaired to the church, where an interesting programme was presented, under the presidency of the pastor of the church, the Rev. S. A. Carriere. Interesting addresses were delivered by Revs. Robert Aylward and George Thompson, and by Messrs. A. A. Macatavish and W. W. Sutherland. Three excellent readings were given by Mr. E. M. Bigg, B.A., while the music was supplied by the Parkhill Quartet and the Boston String Band. The life and work of the Rev. Mr. Carriere in this neighborhood are in many respects quite unique. Of French-Canadian extraction, he was born at Beloit, River, Que., about 38 years ago. In 1882 he was graduated from the Presbyterian College, Montreal, and in the same year he received and accepted a call to the Presbyterian Church, Grand, Quebec. Within this church two distinct congregations are accustomed to meet regularly—one French and the other English—and for thirteen years Mr. Carriere has broken to these people the "Bread of Life" in both languages. Seven years ago he started work at Corbet, and his ministrations here have been eminently successful. A good congregation has been gathered, a neat and commodious church has been erected, and about 100 persons have been received into Christian fellowship. Grand Bend is rapidly growing in popularity as a beautiful summer resort, and Mr. Carriere's personality there is quite an institution. In fact, many of the visitors remember him kindly, not only for the fervor of his pulpit ministrations, but also for the hospitality of his home. He has had several tempting calls to other fields—three of them to Montreal—but so far, much to the delight of his attached people, he prefers to stay in his first charge.
