

The ADVERTISER'S PICTORIAL PAGE

The Lion College steeplechases were run in a drenching rain. The photo shows some of the soaking competitors at the water jump.

A typical Saskatchewan sheep ranch in the Prince Albert district.

Miss Elizabeth Zolnay, debutante daughter of Julio Zolnay, the famous sculptor, is following in her father's footsteps and her work has already caused comment at the Corcoran Art Gallery in Washington.

A view of the Luxor Temple, built by King Tutankhamen to celebrate his return to Thebes.

Sir Paul Dukes, whose work as head of the British secret service in soviet Russia has made him world famous. It is reported that Trotzky placed a price of $100,000 on his head. He and his wife are touring America at the present time.

Justine Johnston, who, according to the claims of American artists, has the most beautiful type of face in the world. The French artists dispute the claim.

Captain H. A. Cunningham, who, it is rumored, will take command of the huge liner Leviathan when she is ready for sea. She is now nearly completed and a gang of 2,500 men is working on her day and night.

French troops at Werden loading transports on their way to "somewhere deeper in the Ruhr."

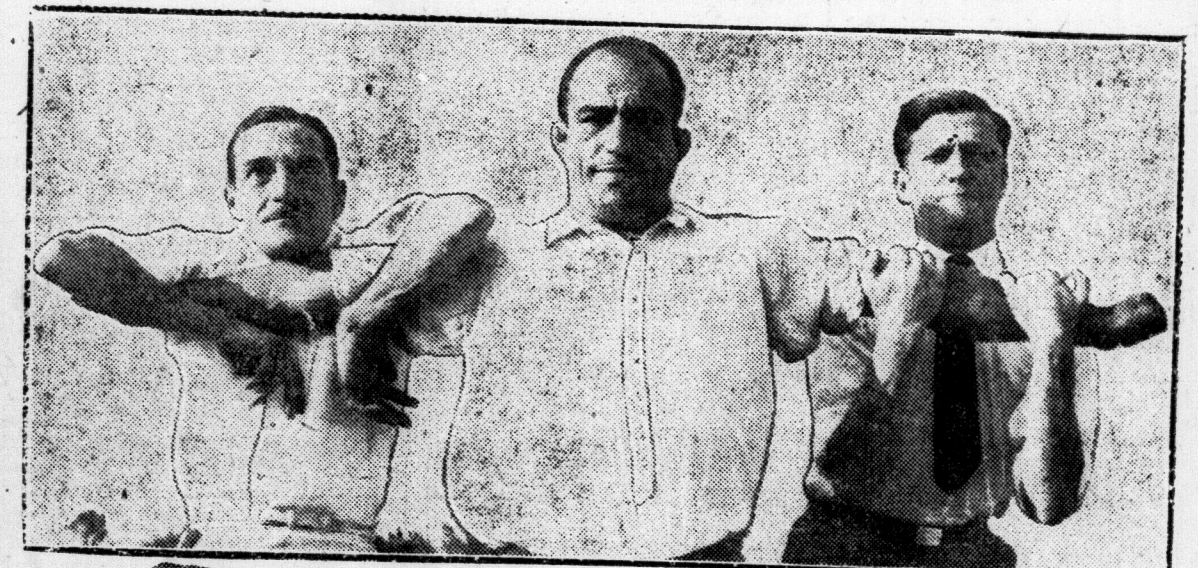

Mrs. Stella Kidd and Mrs. Roma Roberts, a pair of Indianapolis twins, and a car equipped with four wheel brakes to take them safely down grades. It is expected they will be quite large when they have acquired their full growth.

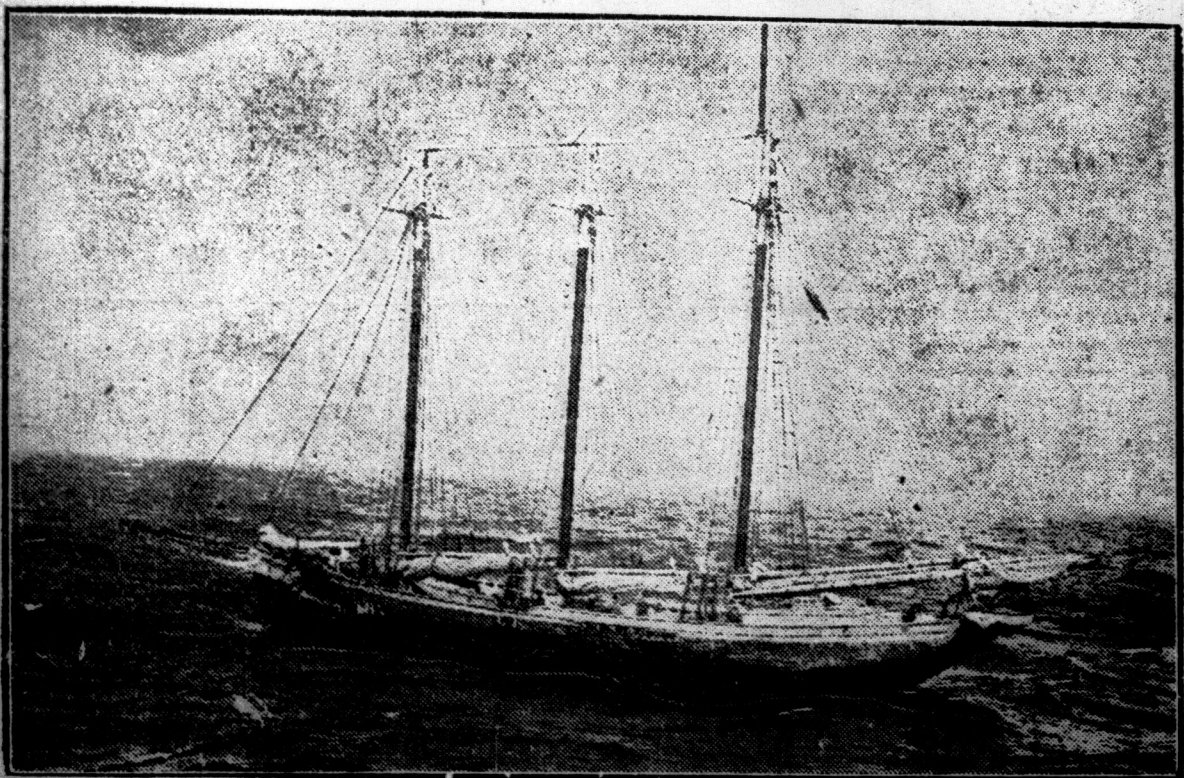

The ultra fashionable in spring wraps. A jeune-fille wrap-around coat of silk crepe with highly decorated top sleeves.

Dr. M. T. MacEachran of Vancouver General hospital, who is president-elect of the American Hospital Association, embracing all Canadian and American hospitals. Though still on the sunny side of forty, he is considered a genius as an organizer.

Bull Montana, who has turned from the ring to the movies, is a veritable walking gymnasium. His outstretched arms make excellent chinning bars for his friends.

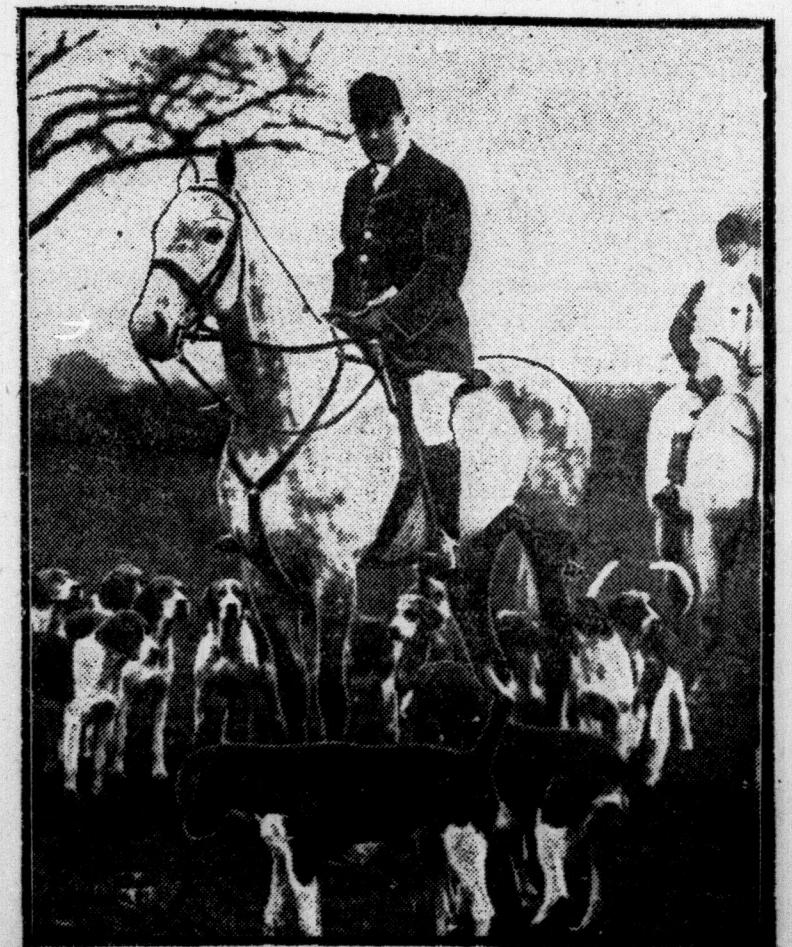

Scores of steamers and schooners are reported to be lying off the American coast waiting for the spring opening in the bootlegging trade. This is one of the vessels which is waiting with that end in view.

Major Margaret Duffy of the Salvation Army, who will henceforth take charge of all relief work among women prisoners in eastern United States.

Tom Jenkins, ex-slave, half Indian and half negro, who lives at Bayou Teche. He is now starting out as a movie actor at 103 years old.

At the meet of Major Smith-Bosanquet's hounds which was held at Old Southgate within seven miles of the heart of London.