EXPERTS IN MUNICIPAL GOVERNMENT.

Guelph has made a success of its municipally-owned and operated utilities, as the reduction of its former tax rate by ten mills, because of the revenue received from them plainly shows.

The success met in operating public services, by means of small commissions has led to the proposal that the city adopt the commission principle throughout, as Galveston, Texas, was the first to do, and many other American cities have since done.

Des Moines, Iowa, in its charter, provides for the recall of any commissioner, who, during the period of his holding office, may act contrary to the wish of the community.

The commissioners are paid for their services. The Mayor devotes all his time to the work, and his fellow commissioners as much as is necessary to properly discharge their duties. The new system is well wherever tried. Therefore it would not be surprising, were Guelph, seeing the success she has had in the management of her public utilities, to go a step farther.

She enjoys a 12 1/2 mill tax rate now and would have had a ten mill rate but for the fact that former city councils had foolishly expended over $30,000 of the debt sinking fund to meet current expenditures.

The striking contrast between the management exhibited by its various commissions, and the tangles in which its common council falls from time to time, is marked.

The city of Hamilton recently decided by popular vote, to adopt the plan of having a Board of Control, as has Toronto. This, in its essence, signifies a desire on the part of large centres to retain for the people a full voice in the conduct of municipal affairs, but to have the execution of their business placed in the hands of capable men, who shall devote their time to the work and be paid for their services.

Berlin has been well served, on the whole, by its volunteer brigade of public servants. As it increases in size and importance it, too, will feel the need of a better system than the Municipal Act provides for.

Professor Lowell of Harvard University, who has made a close study of municipal government for years, recently delivered an address before the National Municipal League of the United States, in which he said:

"The administration of a great city cannot be conducted efficiently and at the same time be kept in touch with public needs without a combination of the expert and the representative of outside opinion, and the relation that ought to exist between these two is plain. The current management and the initiative in the main ought to lie with the expert, but he ought to work under the constant oversight and control of non-professional men."

"Such a relation has grown up spontaneously in our great commercial and educational bodies, in the president and directors of a railroad or a bank, in the president and trustees of a university or college, for example, and it could be introduced in almost any form of city government, for it is not inconsistent either with the plan of boards of commissioners or with that of a mayor's cabinet."

"In order to set up the proper relation between the expert and the non-professional representative of the public, it is not necessary to prescribe their duties by law, but to make the distinction between them perfectly clear, and that distinction must be based upon the essential difference in the functions to be performed."

"The expert is expected to make his public work his career. He should devote his whole time to it, receive a liberal salary, and be protected from removal except for cause. The non-professional is not to manage his department but to see that it is properly managed. He ought not to be expected to give a great deal of time to it, ought to be paid nothing, or a much lower salary than the expert and ought to give an account of his stewardship by coming up for reappointment or election at fixed intervals."

Mr. Lowell's idea is not on all fours with city government by a single commission, yet it is not antagonistic to it.

CANADIANS HONORED

AND FIVE OTHERS GET PH.D. AT HARVARD.

Cambridge, Mass., July 2.—Six Canadians, a record number, received the cap and gown of doctor of philosophy at Harvard on Wednesday. They were, Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King, W. A. Kirkwood, W. E. McNeill, and Cyrus Macmillan, of Prince Edward Island, and W. D. Tait and L. L. Burgess, of Nova Scotia. The double honor of the degree of doctor of laws and doctor of medicine were bestowed on the retiring President, Dr. Eliot.

A great reception was given Dr. Grenfell, who received the honorary degree of master of arts. Mr. King, in acknowledging the honor done him, observed that in four years the hundredth anniversary of the Treaty of 1763 would be reached. In all that time a shot had never been fired across the boundary between Canada and the United States. He suggested that an international monument be built near Niagara to commemorate the hundred years of peace.

NOT WEATHER HELPS.

The easiest and most economical way to obtain comfort, during the summer months, is to have your porch or lawn some of the comfortable chairs, rockers and settees which we are showing at our store. We vouch for the fact that there is nothing more easy and comfortable than the line of verandah furniture which we are showing. We have priced them very reasonable for quick selling.

MADE WELL AND STRONG

By Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Dorval, Sask.—"I was a sufferer from female weakness—monthly periods irregular and painful and a bad discharge, backache and wretched headache, and had felt weak ever since the birth of my twins. I tried doctors but got no relief. I began to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and after three weeks I was feeling much better, and now I am well again."

Mrs. Bessie Brax, Dorval, Sask., Canada.

Another Woman Cured. Christiansburg, Tenn.—"I suffered from the worst form of female trouble so long as I lived. I thought I could not live, and my nerves were in a dreadful condition. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound cured me and made me feel like a different woman. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is worth its weight in gold to suffering women."

Mrs. Mary Wood, R.F.D. 3, Christiansburg, Tenn.

If you belong to the countless army of women who suffer from some form of female ills, don't hesitate to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs.

For thirty years this famous remedy has been the standard for all forms of female ills, and has cured thousands of women who have been troubled with such ailments as displacements, fibroids, tumors, ulceration, irregularities, backache, and nervous prostration.
