CRIMINAL ASSIZES.

A Conspiracy Case—The Grand Jury's Present The trial of Harlow D. Johnston and John Leaper occupied nearly the whole of Saturday. The charge was the somewhat Saturday. The charge was the somewhat peculiar one of conspiring to raise a disturbance in the house of Edith Bronson, on Victoria street, to the end that she might be convicted of keeping a disorderly house. Johnston is a next door neighbor of Mrs. Bronson's, and some time ago became convinced that she kept a house of ill-fame. He applied to the police but to evidence could when the doctor entered and surveyed the applied to the police, but no evidence could be obtained to warrant them in taking any action. At length Johnston decided upon a very questionable means of attaining what he doubtless thought was a good end. According to the evidence of Heighington, he induced the latter, with Leaper and three men named Nicol, Read and McNeil to go into the house and "kick up a row." At all events the row was kicked up. Johnston in the meantime had gone for the police and on the way up asked P. C. Hall to wait at the corner of Shuter street, which he failed to complete. The devils they were possessed of were demons, not departed spirits. Christ gave them all the corner of Shuter street, which he failed to complete. The devils they were possessed of were demons, not departed spirits. Christ gave them all the latter refused to do. However when the police got up they found the row in full progress and arrested everybody in the house except McNeil who escaped. The parties were tried at the police court and

ROYAL OPERA HOUSE.

Mr. Alex. Caufman and company open to-night in Lazarre. The Hamilton Spectator give both the play and the players a flattering notice. The drama, the plot of which turns on a mistake which makes fightering notice. The drama, the plot of which turns on a mistake which makes every person concerned miserable, is one of the emotional order, and is a remarkably good one of the kind. It is more chaste than East Lynne, and affords Mr. Caufman an epportunity for the display of great dramatic talent. The role of Eugene Lazare is a most difficult one, exhibiting as it does so many distinctive phases of life and the excellent reputation he has acquired both in America and Europe, and his performance was entirely satisfactory. Miss Pell played vigorously and effectively; Miss Pell played vigorously and effectively; sits von Leer was pleasing; Mr. Burrows played quietly and to excellent purpose; and the support in general was sufficiently satisfactory. The audience was sympathetic and enthusiastic. Applause was generously bestowed, and recalls were the rule at the close of each set.

The synod opens at St. George's church to-morrow.

Rev. Mr. Rainsford's temperance resolution will probably begin, continue, and end in talk.

It is thought not unlikely that the question of Ritualism may be forced on the synod by the extreme men of each side.

It is not improbable that some questions may be asked the bishop as to the course he intends to take in the matter of the text-books used at the Protestant Episcopal divinity school.

Mr. W. P. Atkinson, may not unlikely be opposed by the Low church party, who objected to Mr. Atkinson's views. It is claimed that as he is now bursar of Trinity college, he cannot hold the other office, which, they claim, should demand all his time. The office is salaried.

A high church caucus, for the members of synod only will be held in the school room of the Holy Trinity church to-night, the close of each set.

UNIVERSITY RIFLE MATCH.

The annual match of K company (University rifles), Q. O. R., took place Saturday at the butts. The day, although threatening, turned out beautiful, and the scores made were fair. The challenge trophy presented to the company by Major Cherriman on his departure, to be won three times before becoming the absolute property, was taken by Pte. Mickle, with a score of 70. The following past winners of the trophy have their names engraved on it: 1876, Pte. Robertson; 1877, Col.-Sergt. Manley; 1878, Lieut. Langton; 1879, Pte. Dolsen; 1880, Sergt. MeDougall; 1881, Lieut. That is another of the works of Christ which he failed to complete. The devils they were possessed of were demons, not departed spirits. Christ gave them all their place, and I don't think that they can now visit the earth and euter into bodies. I know some that are a little devilish, but I wouldn't attribute it simply to being inhabited by these beings.

The next enginer was told that he would

However, the doctor seemed struck by the suggestion, as he specially mentioned the mayor in his prayer afterwards.

"A mother in Israel" thought it unjust in him to preach the sermon he did last Sunday. I am always the second man at that kind of thing, but I hold that when men publicly announce their ideas they have submitted them to the public, and are liable to be criticized. When I was in the United States, every Sunday after Saint Patrick's day they abused England, and I defended my country, and I will not be less ready to do so in Canada, my own land (applause.)
