At a largely attended business meeting of the members of the Ontario racing club, it was unanimously decided to hold an entertainment in the Grand opera house on Monday, March 31. It is impossible at this early date to say anything definite regarding the program, but from what can be ascertained it promises to afford one of the most novel and unique exhibitions ever given in this city.

Mr. Edward Corrigan is reported as trying to make a match between his two-year-old colt Harry White, by Virgil, and Mr. J. B. Haggins' two-year-old colt Tyrant, by Great Tom. It is also said that the colt Harry White has shown phenomenal speed. If a match is made it will probably be a hot mile dash at the Louisville spring meeting.

Racing at Saratoga Springs began in 1864, when the met lasted four days and $80,000 were given in premiums. In 1870 there were twelve days' racing, and $36,725 were divided among winners in thirty-six races. In 1880 142 races came off in five days and the stakes were $91,600. The village had its greatest racing summer in 1882, when there were forty days of racing, 142 events, and the purses amounted to $113,000. In twenty years there have been 338 days' racing, 1236 races and $1,033,468 in stakes.

The Last Day at Woodbine. Yesterday, the last day of the Woodbine park trotting meeting was noticeable for miserable weather, small attendance, bad track and a lamentable accident which cost the energetic promoter and manager a valuable mare. The program at the best was to have been a short one, comprising the finish of the free-for-all trot commenced on Saturday, and a sweepstake race between Mr. James Lennox's brown mare Rhea, H. Donnelly's ch. g. Lambert, and a mare owned by Mr. L. P. Walsh.

Mr. Lennox's mare had one heat in and was scoring for the second when she began to act badly. Letting fly her heels she first managed to detour her driver, who fortunately escaped unhurt. Becoming frightened she then dashed up the track and collided with Mr. Walsh's mare and cutter, which she tried to run over. She failed to accomplish the feat, but succeeded in her wild way in impaling herself on one of the shafts, inflicting a terrible wound out of which her bowels dashed around and finally ran into a shed, where a couple of humane spectators cried her career as a steeple at the scene. While the loss to Mr. Lennox is not a very grievous one as yet, but what a good horse he shows an unkind temper—so unkind as to be called by her owner his kicking mare—she was yet of considerable value, being a good looker and having been a tolerably fair-bred of speed. Mr. Lennox, however, did not desire to have a turn for it, and his wife's health was such that he was unable to run her. It was upon him that all the hard work of management had devolved. Up to this point the race had been both successful and enjoyable, and that the day had been instrumental in making them such should be the only success seems really too hard. But all that can be done is to wish him better luck next time and to trust that it will not dampen his ardor for the sport. The overcrowded led to the abandonment of the race by mutual consent.

When darkness closed in on Saturday night Russian Spy had won one heat of the free-for-all, with Look Out second. St. Patrick and Hunter fourth. Yesterday the Spy had no trouble in putting in two more heats and winning the race without ever being called on for an effort. The old horse is in fact in great shape this winter.

His owner, who is a gentleman of enterprise and a genial sportsman, intends to send him to Montreal next week to take part in the carnival races there, where it is to be hoped he will be equally as successful as here. Following is the summary:

Woodbine Park, Jan. 28.—Purse $200; $100, $50, $25.

Walter Grant's Russian Spy, 1:11; W. Scott's Hunter, 1:12; G. O. Nowlan's St. Patrick, 1:13.

The Championship Skating Race at Brooklyn.

The ice at Washington park, Brooklyn, N.Y., was in splendid condition on Friday evening, Jan. 25, when the following eighteen competitors were called out to start for the great ten-mile amateur championship skating race: R. A. Elliot, Montreal; Axel Paulsen, Norway; Geo. D. Phillips, New York; H. B. Goetschius, Hoboken; C. Pfaff, Jr., New York; C. M. Cornick, St. John, N.B.; C. A. J. Quekborner, M. O'Brien, W. G. Brokaw and S. J. Montgomery, New York; F. Frommel, Hoboken; A. Chambers, London, Ont.; Miles Olmsted, Tarrytown; S. D. See, New York; E. Farrell, Brooklyn; C. Hemminger, London, Eng.; C. York, Brooklyn; A. S. Franklin, Norway.

When the starting signal was given a regular scramble ensued, but speedily came out of the chaos, and Phillips, with a long, graceful stroke darted away from the rest. His back was bent so to make almost a right angle with his legs, and his left hand was held on the small of his back, the hand clutching a pocket-handkerchief, with which he wiped the moisture from his face. The right hand was clenched and swung backwards and forwards with the regularity of a pendulum. Outside of these movements his body was almost motionless. Phillips also got well down to his work, but he swung both hands and appeared to labor harder than the Norwegian, Elliot, the Canadian, was the most erect skater of the party, but his style was not nearly so long as that of the other two. Shortly after passing the half-mile mark, and being then well in the lead, Paulsen got into a fine swing and the records began to suffer, and from the half-mile up he wiped out every known amateur in the history of the sport in America. At five and a half miles he had lapped both Phillips and Elliot, who were having a great fight between themselves, and on the next lap he stumbled and fell, but recovering himself instantly went on as though nothing had happened, and finally almost very easily by nearly half a mile. His times for each half-mile were:

When the starting signal was given a regular scramble ensued, but speedily came out of the chaos, and Phillips, with a long, graceful stroke darted away from the rest. His back was bent so to make almost a right angle with his legs, and his left hand was held on the small of his back, the hand clutching a pocket-handkerchief, with which he wiped the moisture from his face. The right hand was clenched and swung backwards and forwards with the regularity of a pendulum. Outside of these movements his body was almost motionless. Phillips also got well down to his work, but he swung both hands and appeared to labor harder than the Norwegian, Elliot, the Canadian, was the most erect skater of the party, but his style was not nearly so long as that of the other two. Shortly after passing the half-mile mark, and being then well in the lead, Paulsen got into a fine swing and the records began to suffer, and from the half-mile up he wiped out every known amateur in the history of the sport in America. At five and a half miles he had lapped both Phillips and Elliot, who were having a great fight between themselves, and on the next lap he stumbled and fell, but recovering himself instantly went on as though nothing had happened, and finally almost very easily by nearly half a mile. His times for each half-mile were:
