The Westinghouse system, fathered by the Consumers Gas Company, was then taken up. Ald, Tait rubbed it into the Gas Company, taking for list text the utterunces of the President, James Austin, who at a recent meeting stated that his company was so wealthy that it would "squeeze" out its rivals in the course of a couple of years. If the C.G.'s application was granted it should be given weighted down with conditions which prevent any chance of securing a monopoly of electric lighting as well as of gas.

Manager Pearson confessed that Ald. Tait's objection on the face of it seemed a strong one. First the gas company will not go into a tusiness which does not pay and will not allow it to interfere with the profits of the company. It proposed to furnish a light cheaper than incandescent. It would be just as easy to buy out rivals now, perhaps cheaper, than to 'freeze' them out.

Mr. Ketr, Q. C: "I want Mr. Pearson to understand that he cannot buy out the Incandescent Company."

Mr. Pearson: "I simply made these statements in reply to Ald. Tait. We have no intention of buying out other companies."

Ald Carlyle: "And we will see that you defeat ments in reply to Ald. Tait. We have no intention of buying out other companies."

Ald Carlyle: "And we will see that you defeat."

Mr. Pearson then explained the advantages of the Westinghouse system, which would furnish a better light and a cheaper one than any in the market. He could not believe that it was the intention of refusing the privilege of lighting to his company. It was a common thing in the States for gas companies to go in for electric lighting, and he did not see why it could not be done here.

Ald Fleming was opposed to the gas company being allowed to go into the electric light business. He took this stand on account of the utterances of President Austin at that memorable meeting when he let himself

Ald Tait. "That is all noneans. You are simply playing with us, Mr. Nellson. I think, Mr. Chairmian, from our past experience with the Telephone Company, it will do nothing until it is compelled to. I cannot understand his kind of business. In Philadelphia a telephone sornpany is paying for leave to place it rires under ground, and the corporation rest unless it gets its telephone service free.

Mr. Nellson: "You must consider that in Philadelphia there are 28,000 subscribers, who pay three times as much as is naid in Toronto, where there are only 2800. Dr. Canniff brought to the notice of the meeting the smoke misance arising from Curney's foundry and the G. T. R. roundhouse. It was not detrimental to health but affected the value of property in the vicinity. Two years at ago Gurney used to have smoke consumers but to day this had been altered. Mr. H. L. Hime explained that it would cost but very it little to raise the flue at Gurney's foundry to a proper height. He took particular exception to the offensive oder arising from the inpaning furnaces in the same works. He spoke strongly in favor of a by law to regulate such musances. It was resulved, after a lengthy discussion, to held another meeting, whom Messra Gurney, O'Keefe and other, alleged offenders will be asked to attend, when same method of abating the nuisance will be considered.
