

improvements to travel and immigration documentation; the examination of measures to ensure that no funding is provided to terrorists; the establishment of new avenues of information sharing; and international legal co-operation.

Canada participated in international meetings in the Philippines (February 1996), Washington (February 1996), and Lima (April 1996) to pursue the objectives set by the Ottawa ministerial meeting. Terrorism experts met again in May 1996 to prepare for the Lyon Summit. Experts will review the progress made since the Ottawa meeting, and will discuss further measures to counter terrorism internationally.
