

No. 3.—The Pistols of General Wolfe. These weapons were given by General Wolfe, after he was wounded on the Plains, to Surgeon Tudor. For many years they were held in trust for the Tudor family by Dr. Fisher. Last year they were purchased by Ernest Bigelow, Esq., of New-York, who has kindly lent them to the Community for this exhibition. In the case containing the pistols there is a portion of a silk sash given by General Wolfe to Surgeon Tudor.

No. 4.—General John Hale. Lieutenant-Colonel of the 47th Regiment at the Battle of the Plains, and bearer of the Dispatches to England announcing the victory. Painting by Sir Joshua Reynolds., P. R. A. Kindly lent for this exhibition by the owner, E. J. Hale, Esq., Quebec.

No. 5.—Plan of the Siege of Quebec. Engraved on copper from the drawings of the Engineers of the British Army, with a second plate overlying the first, showing the progress of the Siege. A very scarce plan, not found in the British Museum. A small Journal accompanies the plan, containing 75 references to French and British works.

No. 6.—Barrel of the Musket owned by the Marquis de Montcalm. Kindly lent for this exhibition by Madame Theo. Hamel, Québec.

No. 7.—The Taking of Quebec. Curious engraving published in London 29 days after the Capitulation of Quebec, and two days after the arrival of dispatches. This engraving at one time formed a part of the famous collection of Dr. Emmett, now in Lenox Library, New York. Kindly
