Haldane.

Rain at Port Stanley Wednesday afternoon failed to dampen the spirits of St. Andrew's Society members of this city, who staged their annual picnic at the lakeside. The sports were well under way before Jupiter Pluvius let lose, and undaunted the merrymakers continued until a veritable downpour called for an interruption. However, it was of short duration, and in a few moments the sun shone brightly, the new platform was sanded and the dancing contests were continued. The sports committee—Thomas McDondald (Chairman), J. Ferguson, W. Sangster, J. Rodgers, G. W. Stark, R. Mercer, W. Gibson, J. McIntosh, R. Munro, I. B. Ballantyne, A. Spiers, J. Hair, J. Haldane. and the dancing contests were continued.

The skirl of the bagpipes reigned supreme on Invererie Heights all afternoon, and far into the evening, while descendants of St. Andrew of all ages and both sexes danced merrily for the cups and medals awarded in the various chasses. Natives of old Scotia may be a bit backward at times, but once a year they throw discretion to the winds and provide a real old-fashioned good time, namely, at the annual outing of St. Andrew's Society.

Juvenile Dancers. To view the juvenile dancers in native Scottish costume performing the Highland Fling and other steps dear Highland Fling and otheer steps dear to all persons with Scotch blood flowing through their veins, was the treat in store for those who journeyed to Port Stanley. The tiny tots who not many months ago first walked, danced on the platform to the delight of every one present, while youthful musiclans dispensed tunes on the pipes. It was precessory for the judges to order sheet.

Treat Them To Big Picnic At Ray Lawson's Summer Residence.

Children from "the various orphans' nomes of the city had the treat of their lives yesterday afternoon, when, as guests of the Rotary Club, they were motored out to Ray Lawson's beautiful summer home at Hyde Park, there to spend the afternoon in games, eats, prizes and an uproariously happy time generally.

time generally.

From Mount St. Joseph came sisters and children to the number of 98; from the Children's Aid Shelter, 32; fourteen children came from the Ronald Gray Memorial Home, and 40 from the Protestant Orphans' Home. Those in charge and helpers brought the total number of those who enjoyed the hospitality of Woodholme up to 200.

After loading up with their little guests the Rotarians proceeded from the Tecumseh House by a roundabout route through the central part of the city to the Sarnia road. Horns and flags were distributed to the children before leaving. By joyous blasts and frantic flag-waving the small passengers of the procession informed the passing throngs of their complete bliss and joyous anticipations.

On Their Way.

On through the beautiful rolling country they sped, past one farm where goats and "sheeps" and spotted ponies greeted their enraptured gaze, until finally, after entering at Woodholme gate, they corkscrewed down a shady avenue of trees to the lovely valley of the Medway where the picnic was to be held.

At first the skies seemed to threaten rain, but George Wenige had stated that arrangements had been made that no rain was to fall until 7:30 at the earliest, and so perfect weather conditions prevailed.

The first item on the program after arrival was the distribution of ice cream.

arrival was the distribution of ice cream.

One little lad came confidently up to Tom McFarland. "Haven't you had one, my little man?" he said.
"Yes, sir, 'n I want 'nother," said the small boy.

And he got it, too; in fact, three more.

After every child had been satisfied with cones the races began.
Of these, perhaps the most interesting to the onlookers and the committee were the "throwing baseball" of the girls, and the boys' obstacle race.
