A Chauffeur and a Dummy.

After the victim of the accident was carried to the sidewalk, the automobile driver turned his machine and came back and explained how it happened with considerable warmth.

"This woman," he volubly remarked to the policeman, "was entirely to blame. She ran around from ahead of the street car and deliberately put herself in my way. After she had dodged the coal cart

CARLAW-AVE. YOUNG PEOPLE.

Miss Florence and Master Cyril Thillville posing for the camera man.

It was too late for me to stop. I couldn't tell which way she was going, and when I saw that she was dazed and foolish I jammed on the brakes and tried to pass to the left, but of course she had to run the same way, and the consequence was that in endeavoring to avoid a baby carriage with twins in it and an old man who was walking with a crutch, I suppose I must have hit her. But I wasn't going more than two miles an hour, and any woman who would dodge around in that foolish way and lose her head shouldn't be permitted to go on the streets without a bunch of guardians.

The policeman nodded.

"Come over to the sidewalk," he said, "and take a look at her."

So the driver went to the curb with the officer and looked at the unfortunate creature who had so actively contributed to her own disaster.

And lo! It was only a dressmaker's dummy that had fallen off the rear of a delivery wagon!—Cleveland Plain Dealer.
