TUDY PLANT LIFE
AND GET THE CLUE

Why Some Human Beings Are Born Boys and Others Girls—Sir Oliver Lodge's Theory

Birmingham, Sept. 18—Among the most interesting statements made at today's meeting of the British Association for the Advancement of Science was one by Sir Oliver Lodge, the president of the society, that the secret of the determination of sex may be found in plant life. Sir Oliver goes from section to section of the congress, interested in the question of the determination of sex in speaking on sex determination referring to the fact that some plants produce both male and female flowers, expressed the opinion that this must be the result of some great change in the plant at the junction in the stems, where differently sexed flowers branch out from each other.

Sir Oliver added: "I do not know this is, and the microscope tells nothing. Perhaps if physiologists could find out what happens in this junction they might get a clue the reason why some human beings are born boys and others girls."

Tough Wrestling
Fort Williams, Ont., Sept. 18—Walter, world's welter-weight wrestling champion, and George Walker, Canadian middle-weight champion, went through two hours of the toughest wrestling and grappling before the final decision was called last night without securing a fall. During the final ten minutes, Miller tried rough tactics and was able to throw Walker to the stage, but the latter landed on feet.

Up to the end of July 202,650 emigrants left the United Kingdom for the overseas dominions.

HON. J. D. HAZEN AT FREDERICTON

Problem of Judgments to be Settled—Fredericton Junction Bungalow Caught—Teacher's Institute Opens

(Special To Times)

Fredericton, N. B., Sept. 18.—Hon. J. D. Hazen, accompanied by his private secretary, arrived from Ottawa at noon today. He was met and welcomed by O. S. Crockett, M. P., and a few of the faithful, who accompanied him to the Barker House. It is expected that the judgment problem will soon be settled.

Organizer Dickson is here to meet the minister.

An American, who refused to give his name, was arrested at Fredericton Junction yesterday afternoon by Constable Heenan, charged with burglarizing the stores of S. D. Alexander and Thomas Hart. Eighty dollars and some goods which he admitted were stolen were found on him. He said he had three accomplices who were in hiding nearby. The prisoner was taken to Burton Jail. The York-Summary and Queen's Bench institutes opened here this morning with a large attendance. Addresses were delivered by Dr. Carter, Inspector Hanson and Al. Farrell.

Although the weather today is cloudy and wet there are many visitors in the city and the attendance at the exhibition promises to be large. Yesterday was the biggest day yet, the turnstiles registering 8,978 paid admissions.

The horse races scheduled for this afternoon have been postponed until tomorrow.

Case of Garson vs. Brown is engaging attention of supreme court today.

According to a London specialist if white clothing for babies could be obtained in a generation there would be a 20 per cent decrease in the number of persons with defective eyes.

SCAT!! P-S-S-ST!!

CHANGED BUSINESS METHODS ARE FOR THE BETTER

Those of us who can look back twenty or thirty years see great changes in the world of machine building and selling, and while there has been almost a revolution in the cutting speeds, the kind of machines used and the general methods of building, there have also been as great changes in the methods of securing business, observes the editor of the American Machinist.

Slowly but surely the old horse-trading methods are disappearing, and more and more sales are being made on the merit of the article and its value to the man who is to use it. More and more we are coming to realize and to practise the principle that it is not necessary for one party of a transaction to be the loser, that, unless both parties benefit, the transaction is a failure.

Perhaps one of the most flagrant examples of unfair competition, of personal influence and substantial subsidies in the field of railway supplies, and it is particularly gratifying to note the open disavowal of such methods at the last railway convention.

Personality in selling goods, as in other lines of business, counts in the long run and not the personality of being a "dead-game sport" or a "jolly good fellow" with all that they have implied in the days gone by. The personality that counts is that which serves its customers by being honest and straightforward in all its dealings.

The one great truth that seems to stand out in all the changes is that the only safe course is the one which has enough of improvement over the past to make it up to the right of the future.

And no matter how much we may see of business has shown that competition may, after all, be decent and friendly and that there is nothing to be gained by the old idea of secrecy or attempted deceit as to machines, methods or prices.

London, Sept. 18.—Peter Lobengula, eldest son of King Lobengula of Matabeleland, who twenty years ago was fighting against the British forces in Africa and was the most notable figure after Cecil Rhodes, at the great peace conference at the foot of the Mopopo Hills has just received the right of vote in England.

He expects to die very soon beneath the Union Jack, for the doctor have given only twelve months to live to this strange man, who was once an African prince, later an actor in the Hippodrome exhibition and then a coal miner in the Midlands. Now he is slowly dying from tuberculosis.

A constable called his name at the Pavilion, Town Hall, Salford, last Thursday, and he came forward to defend his right to have his name kept on a voting list. Lobengula had been naturalized in England, but the objection was thrown out because the reviving barrier held that naturalization was unnecessary, as Lobengula became a British subject on the conquest of his country.

When he was seventeen years old, a year or two before the end of 1894, he was one of the chief participants in the annihilation of Major Wilson and thirty troops who were on the track of the old King Lobengula. Lobengula told the Tribune correspondent that he remembered well hearing "Ri-on" and the troopers sing the British national anthem as their death hymn shortly before they were shot down the dogs.

Lobengula came to this country as an exile with the "Savage South Africa" expedition, and then worked in pantomime, but drifted from that to the English climate broke down his rugged physique and now the man who was once a conqueror is a weakling.

He has been King from Zambesi to a little cottage, supporting himself and his family on two small pensions, one of £250 weekly from the insurance act and the other a like sum given him by the government on condition that he does not go farther into Africa than Capetown.
