STABILITY UNDER RULE OF MADERO

Montreal, Oct. 23—Lord Cowdray, head of the English contracting firm of S. Pearson & Son, which has been building public works in Mexico for nearly a quarter of a century, has just arrived from the City of Mexico and says that the clouds which somewhat covered the financial horizon of the republic and caused capital apprehension, have been dissipated.

Only eight weeks ago foreign capital looked with considerable alarm upon the future, but now confidence has been restored and the credit of the republic in foreign money markets is as good as ever.

Speaking of Francisco Madero, the newly elected president of the republic, Lord Cowdray said: "A man of the most lofty ideals, a man of character and one who possesses the absolute confidence of the Mexican people. Not long since we heard all sorts of forebodings concerning the fate of those who were the alleged friends of the old regime. Previous concessions were to be cancelled, and, in fact, there was to be a general repudiation all round. This, I may tell you, is all fiction. Vested rights will be respected, as well as all legitimate concessions, and I know that it is the desire of the new government not only to protect the foreign investments in Mexico, but to encourage outside capital to come into the country, and I need not tell you that the republic is a country of untold resources."

It is astonishing, says his lordship, "to find how quietly the country has settled down under the new regime, and although there are yet a few armed hands in the field in some of the remote districts, their complete pacification is only a question of a short time."

SMART GOWNS; LOVELY JEWELS FOR THE DURBAR

London Society are Busy Preparing For the Gorgeous Oriental Ceremony

QUEEN MARY'S DRESS

Magnificent Jewels in Royal Array at Delhi—Life There Will Be Luxurious In Tents—English Society Gossip of Interest to Canadians

(Times' Special Correspondence) London, Oct. 14—London is quite full again. Her "little season" has not really started as far as gaieties are concerned, but a large number of smart weddings are taking place this month and, more important still, the Durbar is drawing near. In a few weeks all those who intend to go will have to start, as it takes about three weeks to get to India and the ceremonies will begin on December 7. Consequently everybody is busy buying outfits, and the shops are doing a roaring trade.

Some people have a totally erroneous idea of the climate of India at this time of the year, as also of what their "camp" life will be. It is quite a mistake to suppose that it will be boiling hot day and night, and that visitors will sit on upturned boxes and eat sardines out of a tin. The climate is perfectly delightful, like a bright English summer, with cold nights, so quite a varied assortment of clothes has to be bought and "camp" life will be of the most luxurious description.

For official functions, instructions have been issued for the guidance of those who will attend them, both men and women. A friend of mine happened to be adjutant to a governor of one of our colonies during the visit of a member of the royal family. The governor issued invitations for a ball at which His Royal Highness was to be present, and in a few days came an anxious letter from a fair visitor, asking if she should come "in feathers."

"By all means," replied the governor, who was a bit of a wag, "but be sure there are plenty of them."

Plain or embroidered linens and tussore suits are being chosen by most people for morning wear, while the evening frocks are similar to what would be worn here, only of course, for this occasion, they are particularly gorgeous. An indispensable item in the outfit is what is known as the "agar topi," a wide shady hat in a mushroom shape made of thick cork to protect you from the sun. These used to be the most unsightly things, but it so happens that they are much the shape of the fashionable hat nowadays, and covered with linen and swathed with a pretty scarf they are quite attractive.

The Queen's Dress

Queen Mary decided long before the coronation that she would wear the same dress at the Durbar, so the Indian lotus flower was incorporated in the design together with the rose, shamrock and thistle. It is a wise choice from many points of view. She looks splendidly regal in it, and it is calculated to make a good impression on the natives, most of whom never have seen a queen of England before in their lives.

She has ordered several other dresses, many of them of a most coloring orange and flame color, emerald green and the blue of the lotus flower. Of course, Indian embroideries figure very largely in her frocks, many native workers having been kept busy on these for a long time. Special metal lined trunks have been made both for Her Majesty's frocks and the king's uniform; the dresses and suits can be hung in them, thus avoiding a good deal of crushing.

Her finest jewels also are included in Her Majesty's outfit for the occasion. They will cause no little anxiety to her attendants. On the day of the coronation their Majesties will wear the crowns they wore at the coronation. It has not yet been decided in which crown the celebrated Indian diamond, the Koh-i-noor, will be set. There is an Indian saying, "Who holds the Koh-i-noor holds India" which indicates that it should appear on His Majesty's head.

On the other hand, there is also the superstition that when worn by a man it brings him disaster, so the queen's crown seems a better place for it. So great is this superstition that when King Edward wanted his intention of having it put in his own crown, several Indian princes petitioned him to give up the idea, which he did.

Wonderful Jewels

A beautiful jewel is being prepared for the queen's wear, especially for the Durbar. This is a lotus of diamonds which Her Majesty will wear at the coronation, as well as the splendid necklace which was presented to her on the occasion of her visit to India as Princess of Wales. It is formed of pearls of different colors and graduated in size. The necklace is an immense grey pearl of matchless beauty.

As Her Majesty's retinue of ladies has followed her example and chosen dresses of gorgeous coloring, the scene on the day of the Durbar will be a most brilliant one. The Indian ladies waiting are young and of imposing presence, and include the Duchess of Devonshire, as mistress of the house, Lady Shaftesbury, Lady Amplethill, Lady Eva Dugdale, the queen's great friend,

A STEP AT A TIME

Have you ever noticed how unreasonably the man at the bottom of the ladder envies the man at the top? Not until success has been actually attained does the man appear at the top, and the consequence is that he gets scant credit for the step at a time climbing which has brought him there.

This, at any rate, is the experience of the Midland Vinegar Company, of England, the manufacturers of the famous "Pears" brand of vinegar.

They are now at the top of the ladder—H. P. is an assured success everybody who tastes it likes it, and recommends his friends to make a trial of it.

And the general buzz of success no one has less cause to regret than a long time was given over to the Midland Vinegar Company to carefully experimenting with different combinations of rich vinegars, fruits and spices before a perfectly delicious, rich, thick fruitiness like H. P. was arrived at and christened, and sent forth to win its way with the people. H. P. has been a success from the very first—but that is because its manufacturers climbed up to it a step at a time, and did not want themselves as sauce manufacturers until they had a perfect name to talk about. You try H. P. you will like it—everybody does.

IMPORTANT POINT IN McNAMARA CASE

Juror Accepted by Judge Though he Believes Times Building Was Dynamited

Los Angeles, Cal., Oct. 24—Legal machinery in the McNamara murder trial revolved to such an extent yesterday that at the close of the court a problem which had bothered everybody since the first day of the trial was solved in the opinion of counsel, and five talesmen were excused for various reasons. The half empty jury box was filled again and only ten men of the original venire of 125 were left.

By denying a challenge of the defense against talesman George W. McKee, based on the ground that while McKee had no prejudice against James R. McNamara, the defendant, he believed the Los Angeles Times was blown up by dynamite, Judge Burdwell upset a cherished contention of the defense. The ruling was based upon the court's belief that, in spite of McKee's opinion, he could and would be a fair, impartial juror. Of this the court is the sole judge.

Talesman E. O. Robinson and A. E. McTorch were excused because of their assertions that they would not render a verdict of guilty in a murder case on circumstantial evidence. Willis F. Oliver and P. C. Thompson were excused because each was opposed to the death penalty under any conditions.

That the ruling of McKee's case will expedite the task of obtaining a jury, was the expressed belief of opposing counsel.

The line separating right from wrong seems to be irrefragable to a lot of people.

Back talk seldom helps a man to get to the five.

NEW STEAMERS FOR C. P. R. ON PACIFIC

Montreal, Que., Oct. 24—"Princess Alice" arrived at Montevideo Sunday, October 22, was the message flashed over the wires to the steamship department of the C. P. R. on Sunday. This is the new boat which the C. P. R. is sending around to Vancouver for its Pacific coast service.

The turbine steamer Queen Alexandra with a speed of 21½ knots, has been purchased from the Clyde Passenger Service by the C. P. R. for the Vancouver-Nanaimo run, and will be placed in service next spring.

The Queen Alexandra is now being fitted out and alterations made at the yards of her builders, Denny Bros. of Dumbarton, and will leave on her voyage to Victoria in about four weeks.
