MAKES PLEA FOR ORIGINALITY

F. Maclure Sclanders Addresses "Y's Men's" Club at Luncheon

More Broad Thinking and Larger Vision Urged on Young Men.

F. Maclure Sclanders, secretary of the Board of Trade addressed the "Y's Men's Club" in the Y. M. C. A. dining rooms at the lunch hour today and made a strong plea for originality in thought and action along progressive lines in the Maritime Provinces. He stressed in a logical and scholarly discussion the development of personality, escape from the commonplace and an abandonment of superficial thinking.

FOR LARGER VISION

Mr. Sclanders made the point fo his address the need of more broad thinking amongst Saint John young men and the advantages of a larger and more hopeful vision. He said it was a common fact that people were not thinking today in the old-fashioned meaning of the word, that they were not being governed by their own better intellectual processes but on the contrary a majority were parrot-like repeating the views of others or copying their not always useful actions.

DANGEROUS LINE

The philosophy of least resistance was dangerous to the age and must be shaken off. Superficiality seemed to be one of the reasons for the slow dispelling of war's aftermath. This attitude of mind was making the world, or parts of it that they knew best sadly commonplace. So long as men and women were content to be poured from the same mould human progress could only mark time, Mr. Sclanders said.

In his peroration the Board of Trade secretary urged upon the members of the club a strengthening of their better personalities, development of original thinking combined with a justifiable boldness to put their conclusions into action.

The Y's Men's Club luncheon was attended very largely today taxing the capacity of the tables. Fred Girvan presided and Fred Myles was Fines Master. The song book was given a strenuous time by the jolly lunchers. Mr. Sclanders was introduced to the party and heartily welcomed.

As Hiram Sees It

"I met an optimist in the street today," said The Times reporter to Mr. Hiram Hornbeam.

"Made you feel good—didn't it?" asked Hiram.

"It did have that effect," confessed the reporter.

"Yes, sir," said Hiram, "there aint nothin' that makes me so plaguey mad as to run acrost one o' them weepin' fellers that can't see no hope nowheres. We hev some of 'em out to The Settlement—an' if I hed my way they'd git a coat o' tar an' feathers an' a ride on a fence rail some dark night. I'm glad you seen one feller that wasn't hollerin' about all of us starvin' to death. What was he talkin' about?"

"We didn't talk," said the reporter.

"How did you find out he was an optimist?" demanded Hiram.

"He was wearing a straw hat," said the reporter.

"Good Lord!" said Hiram.

"Amen," said the reporter.

BRIDGES HOUSE IS FIRE VICTIM

Colonial Landmark on Saint John River Is Destroyed

Built Many Years Ago at Sheffield—Barns and Contents are Saved.

One of the old landmarks of the early settlement on the Saint John river in 1850 was destroyed by fire last evening, when the Bridges homestead at Sheffield was burned a little after 6 o'clock. It was in charge of a caretaker and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. Allan Hudlin, who were absent at a neighbor's house, assisting in some work. Their young son was at home, and kindled the fire for supper, and it is thought that the fire caught from a spark on the roof, which was very dry, as there has been little rain recently. The grass was also extremely dry and the fire ran with great rapidity, burning three buildings adjacent to the house. The barns, filled with the abundant hay crop that is gathered every year on this large farm, were saved. The carriage house was also saved.

NEIGHBORS HELP

Mr. Hudlin saw the blaze and ran to the house. Help was summoned from the community; from Burton, across the river, and from Upper Gagetown. The fight was a hard one and much credit was accorded the men who saved the big barns from destruction. The house was a total loss with all the belongings of the caretaker included. H. B. Bridges, of Gagetown, the owner, was thought to be in Saint John, but could not be located today, so that no report as to the estimated loss, which it was thought might be partly covered by insurance

BUILT 75 YEARS AGO.

The house was a handsome colonial structure, built 75 years ago, when such an accomplishment in such a situation was somewhat of a Herculean undertaking. The lumber for its erection was hauled during the on the ice from Saint John—the only means of traffic up the river at that time. The trees around the house, which were handsome and gave it the appearance of a southern dwelling in the early eighties, were partially destroyed by the flames.

The family frequented the house in the summer for picnics and during the haying season, when the large crop of good hay was harvested by a large crew of men.
