

"Cash"

and your money back if you wish"

Some people pay their bills, some pay them after many months, and some never pay at all. Note the loss through bad debts. It takes both time and money to make slow collections—time wasted looking after them, and a loss of interest on payments.

See the needless expense. This needless expense then has to be made upon the goods that are paid for. In plain language what other people don't pay becomes part of what you pay.

Are you willing to pay other person's bills? We avoid this needless expense. We do not give credit. We found we could buy cheaper and sell cheaper for cash. True it may not be very much on any one article, but in the course of a year it amounts to quite a large sum.

We would be much pleased to have your orders. We promise you the best goods at low prices.

We also promise prompt delivery and civil attention.

It will pay you to try us.

Three men the worse of liquor were wandering around over the creek yesterday. They discovered a boat half full of water back of Geo. Taylor's.
One of the trio started for a row. He was hardly out when his whiskey bottle fell overboard. Over he jumped after it. He seemed to enjoy his swim in the water, and on recovering his bottle he took a copious draught. During all this time a plebeian meeting was being held not 200 yards away.

A CHATHAM BOY FIRST.

Two weeks ago the Chicago World published a prize puzzle. In this picture were cunningly secreted among the trees and foliage in the upper right hand corner was a young woman called the "forester's" daughter. The trick was to find this coy maiden; so two prizes were offered—the World for one year and the World for six months to the first two people outside of Chicago who were able to locate her. They received a large number of correct replies, and as the time of discovery was in most instances omitted it bothered them somewhat to tell which two were really first. But, taking distance into the consideration, and the time the quickest ones could have received the prize, they decided that the prize should be awarded as follows: The first to Herbert Mount, Park Hotel, Chatham, Ontario, and the second to Sam. Brown, 304 Twelfth avenue, Adelaide, Wis. Young Mr. Mount is an attendant of the Collegiate Institute.
