SHOOTING AT WOODSTOCK.

WOODSTOCK, N. B., Sept. 9.—A good deal of interest was taken in the rifle shooting at the rifle range today, the annual county association matches particularly, as shooting at the targets has become a popular pastime since the inauguration of the civilian rifle club. There were some surprises to hold. Robert Jones of Lakeville, who held the cup for two years consecutively and would have owned it had he succeeded this year, was a good bit behind, while G. A. Keith, a comparatively new man, won the cup with a score of 85 and also the first prize in the nursery match, open to anyone who had not won a prize of over $200 in the cup competition. The second prize was won by Mr. Crandemire, 82, with D. Johnson third, score 76. In the nursery the second was Fred Anderson, and John Wallace third. The successful men went out early in the morning and took advantage of the still air. There were about thirty competitors.

BRIDE LOST HER NERVE.

The marriage of Miss Carrie Eaton, of Parrsboro, N. S., and George Wilcox, of this city, was to have taken place in St. George's church, Carleton, on Tuesday evening, but has been temporarily postponed. For some weeks Miss Eaton has been visiting her aunt, Mrs. Wentworth Lewis, and while here became engaged to Wilcox. Arrangements were made for the marriage and Rev. W. H. Sampson was on hand to officiate. But at the last moment the bride's nerve deserted her and she felt unwilling to be married without first consulting her parents. In this resolve she was supported by Mrs. Lewis, who also objected to the marriage. Miss Eaton left for her home by the steamer Brunswick on Tuesday night and it is understood that if her parents are willing the marriage will take place next Tuesday.

The Grand Manan correspondent of the St. Andrew's Beacon says that the dog fish now have complete charge of the bay and the men sit around grawling, discussing them, and waiting, some partners have given it up, some are going into dulsing the coming tides, and others are getting ready for herring fishing. In fact, it is almost unsafe to put a net down for these wild devils of the ocean.

ST. JOHN STAR.

ST. JOHN, N. B., SEPTEMBER 10, 1903.

ENGLAND UNPREPARED.

One good purpose which the war office revelations, otherwise disgraceful, will fulfil, is the proving of the truth of England's assertions that the war in South Africa was forced upon her. Critics in the United States, on the continent and even in England during the war were free in their assertions that the land grabbing English government, hungry for the Transvaal gold mines, had forced the quarrel upon the inoffensive and peace loving Boers. The unsuccessful Jameson raid was pointed out as the beginning of the policy and every move of Rhodes and Chamberlain was distorted to show that England was determined to annex the Dutch republics at any cost. It is not on record that any member of the government took the trouble to deny the charge.

Now comes the disclosure that the war office was totally unprepared of and totally unprepared for any war in South Africa, or anywhere else, for that matter. It had no agents looking for information; it had no maps ready, and it was only by the sheerest luck that some good ones were captured from the Boers; it had no guns or ammunition in readiness; it had no khaki clothing except some that was too thin, and no other clothing designed for actual warfare; it had no boots ready, except some made of brown paper; it had no horse supplies and no information about where they could be got; it had next to no communication with its officers in South Africa looking to an outbreak of hostilities.

If England had long meditated a war of conquest, as her critics contend, surely even the English war office would have made better preparation than that.

A BAD MOVE FOR LABOR.

Labor unions in Upper and Western Canada are blamed for methods which work direct harm to their country and which must eventually arouse sentiment against them to such an extent that their existence will be threatened.

There is no question of Canada's need for more skilled workmen, especially in the growing western cities. This need has been advertised in England and during the last year a considerable influx of artisans of the better class had been the result. But this increased competition is not wanted by the unions which desire to control the labor market, so in many cases a system of petty persecution, of boycotting, and of means taken to prejudice the new comers in the eyes of possible employers has been adopted. The result of this has been the return of many immigrants and the filling of the English papers with letters from others warning English laborers against coming to Canada.

This hindering of the best class of immigrants that could possibly come to this country demands strong action on the part of the government, whose ideas for Canada's development these unions in their selfishness are defeating. Trades unionism has done a good work for the laboring man and for society generally. Its success in its various movements has depended and must depend largely upon the sympathy and support which these movements arouse. Such methods as some unions are following in this matter will alienate all public favor from unionism in this country, and must greatly hinder the work of the labor party.

If Mr. R. L. Borden should be premier of Canada when the next conference of colonial premiers is held the Empire will not witness the spectacle of the prime minister of the Dominion refusing consent to a publication of the proceedings and discussions. Sir Wilfrid Laurier is the only colonial representative who is unwilling to have the addresses of the last conference made public. He has evidently been saying something which he is ashamed to have made known in this country.

The liberal papers which last week were hysterically protesting against "ghoulish calculations" which figured the possibility of Laurier's retirement among the political possibilities, only ceased their speculations as to the prospects of R. L. Borden's demise when that gentleman was reported as on his way back to the house, better than ever.

The proposal of the people of England to send a monster petition to the government asking for the dismissal of Lord Lansdowne, former secretary of war, and now foreign secretary, shows how deeply the feelings of the nation were stirred by the revelations of the appalling neglect and incompetence of the war office during the South African trouble.

The Halifax Evening Mail is a journal which keeps itself well informed regarding the progress of affairs both in and outside of its own province. It refers to the St. John Star as the popular evening newspaper of the sister city. It is seldom that Halifax and St. John opinion so exactly coincide.

Liberal newspapers and liberal speech makers are bitterly assailing the opposition for introducing Senator Cox's name into the G. T. F. discussion.

It was Hon. Mr. Blair, the former holder of the most important cabinet position, who did that, and he ought to know.

It is pleasing to the Star that the British war office is considering its suggestion to recall Kitchener and give him a free hand for the full cleaning of the war office.

No wonder the government is cross about the opposition's refusal to allow the G. T. F. bill to be railroaded through. Cox can't wait much longer.

THE WALK.

(Josephine Preston Peabody in The Reader.)

We left the house—for we were sad—To talk of all the griefs we had.

And little did we talk at first, Leaving to silence all the worst.

The rain it rained, and stars were none, The wet made two lights out of one;

And broken paths of shining yet, Made before us through the wet.

The more we walked, and still would walk, The less did seem the need of talk.

The more we walked from light to light, The wisest grew the troubled night.

The tacit lamps proved something clear As often as you stayed to hear.

And better days and endless clews Darned with the lengthening avenues:

Till where the street-ends met the square, We saw a thousand tulips there,

Sleeping as flowers do, o' nights, Beneath a thousand city-lights.

And then the Bridge, from shore to shore, Solved everything, forevermore.

So clearly one could leave the Why, Contented, for some by-and-by.

And so the hours were worn away
