PLUCKY WOMAN SAVED SISTER.

Attacked With Hatchet Bludge Who Assaulted Her.

The Assaulter Arrested and Brought Before Magistrate Masson in Fairville Today.

John Campbell, of Lower Cove, formerly of Loch Lomond, was brought before Magistrate Masson of Fairville, this morning on the charge of assaulting Nellie Maxwell, the sixteen year old daughter of George Maxwell, caretaker of Cedar Hill cemetery. Campbell was remanded until Friday at two o'clock. The meantime he will be kept in the city jail.

But for the courage of an elder sister of the assaulted girl, the charge against Campbell might have been far worse than it is.

Campbell appeared at the Maxwell home at Lancaster yesterday morning ostensibly in search of employment. Caretaker Maxwell being in need of help hired him, and instructed him in his work, which was to stay round the house and do chores.

Campbell was given his dinner. While eating it he was left alone in the house with Mr. Maxwell's daughter, Nellie, and also an elder daughter, Mrs. Retta Daley, of Boston, who was ill in an upper portion of the house.

Quickly finishing his meal Campbell took hold of Nellie Maxwell, who was in the same room with him. The girl fought and screamed, the noise attracting the attention of Mrs. Daley, who, despite her feeble condition, hastened down and seizing a hatchet, struck the assailant on the head, inflicting a severe blow on the head. He reeled back, but recovering himself ran out of the house, bleeding from a two inch cut on his forehead and closely followed by a coolie dog.

In the meantime Mr. Maxwell came up and hearing what had taken place gave chase to the retreating man. After a long, round-about chase Mr. Maxwell brought his man to earth, not far from his asylum, and with the assistance of a resident took him to the Fairville lock-up.

Mr. Campbell pleaded drunkenness as an excuse for his act, but it is said there was no sign of intoxication about him. Mrs. Daley's husband is Walter S. Daley, of Cambridge, Mass.

ST. JOHN AT WINNIPEG.

W. W. Hubbard, managing director of the Exhibition Association, returned today from Winnipeg, where he inspected the mid-summer fair. Mr. Hubbard says that the exhibits of Messrs. Emerson & Fisher and Theo. H. Estabrooks are most creditable and are attracting considerable attention. The views of St. John sent by the Tourist Association have been well placed, and there is a considerable demand for the provincial and city booklets.

Mr. Hubbard is well pleased with the arrangements made with upper Canadian firms for entries in the horse show in connection with the exhibition. Messrs. Learmont and Pearson, who made such a fine display here at the horse show last fall, have promised two carloads of horses. There will be several other large entries.

A class of young ladies gave an excellent performance of a military character, which was greatly admired. Good music added much to the interest of the occasion. Ice cream was served at the close.
