LOCAL NEWS.

The street cars will commence running to Spenning park tomorrow morning. The service will be about the same as last year's.

A brass key found on Sydney street and a pair of child's gloves found on Charlotte street, await owners at Central Station.

The funeral of John Lobb who was drowned in the pond off Mill street takes place at 4 o'clock from his late home. Interment is in Cedar Hill.

The funeral of Miss Mary Ann Duncan took place this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock from the residence of her niece, Mrs. Thos. Dean, Garden street. Rev. Mr. Crisp conducted the burial services and interment was in Fernhill.

Yesterday afternoon Thos Hoffman fell in a faint on Dock street and cut his head severely. He was carried to Isaac Williams' store and attended by Dr. Emery and afterwards sent to his home on Mill street.

In the police court this morning John McGill for being drunk on Turnbull's Wharf was fined $4 and Malbourne Spencer for fighting on Haymarket Square was fined $8. Leo Smith who charged with being drunk on Charlotte street Monday and who was sent to jail for calling Policeman Bowes a liar was this morning fined $8.

This morning about 7:30 o'clock the police found a horse and covered carriage at the east end of Princess street and placed the animal and vehicle in John Weatherhead's stable, on Union street, where it was called for later by Thomas Horne. The horse and carriage also found a fur robe on Princess street, and this was called for by Mr. Hayes. There were no explanations but it was quite evident that the horse strayed from place to place in the early morning.

HARRY OGLER HAS GONE FOR A COUNTRY STROLL.

He Was at Grand Bay at Noon on Monday and Said He Was Bound Up the Line

Harry Ogler, the 13-year-old boy who has been missing for several days was alive and well at noon on Monday, for at that time he was enjoying a walk through the woods. It was reported in Monday afternoon's papers that Ogler was thought to have been drowned, but a later report was received by his parents to the effect that he had been seen going up country. In order to obtain further information as to this Ogler's brother, accompanied by a friend, yesterday took a trip up the C. P. R. inquiring at different places for any news of the missing lad, but were unsuccessful in their search. The Star has since learned that at a station about a mile and a half from Grand Bay, Ogler was seen on Monday at noon. He was spoken to by Lloyd Evans, brother of B. Evans, of St. John, who knew him quite well at school, and by a number of other boys who live in that vicinity. They addressed him by the nickname of "Taffy," by which he goes, and he stopped for a moment to chat with them, telling them he was going up the country. He, however, did not say just what place was his destination. A number of other residents in the Grand Bay district also saw young Ogler but paid no attention to him and thus failed to remember having seen him when asked yesterday. But when they saw in this morning's papers that he was still missing and that he was supposed to have gone up river, they remembered the incident. It is likely that another search will be made.

HARGREAVES' CIRCUS IS IN TOWN TODAY

Many Disappointed Over Failure of Street Parade

But This Was Unavoidable—Interest in the Work of Erecting the Tents on the Shamrock Grounds.

This is a holiday in St. John, which is but another way of saying that the Hargreaves railroad circus and menagerie is in the city. The trains conveying this amusement, inasmuch as they arrive over the C. P. R. railway during the early morning, coming from Fredericton, and its event was greeted with a display of people, all anxious to see the unloading. The cars were sidetracked in the C. P. yards and the unloading was eagerly watched by interested spectators. The mammoth elephant, the tall camels, the cages of wild animals; the huge wagons used to transport the tents, heavy poles and paraphernalia, were all unloaded by the veteran employees with apparently no effort whatsoever. There was a system to all the work which was very interesting. Soon after the train arrived in St. John, the big wagons, drawn by two, four, six and eight horses, were rumbling along the streets to the place of exhibition at the Shamrock grounds, North End. The boss canvassman and his lieutenant were the first to arrive on the job. The boss quickly made a mental plan of the "lay-out" and decided just where each tent should be pitched. He then began to direct the men who were to erect the tents, thereby designating where the stakes should be driven. The first few wagons to arrive at the show grounds were those conveying the cooking-outfit and dining tents, which were immediately erected. The cook house was invariably put up first, to enable the chef to give the hard working employees an early breakfast. In the meantime the men were busy erecting the big pole and tent wagons were arriving, and subsequently the menagerie top was erected. This is always done at an early stage to provide shelter for the animals, many of which are very delicate and susceptible to climatic changes. Almost before the onlookers were aware of the fact, a city of white tents loomed up into the mushroom-like existence on what at sunrise was a bare lot. The spread of canvas is in splendid condition. Country folks began to pour into the city early in the day, and the morning trains brought many people bent on seeing the circus and enjoying a good holiday. The agents of the show had advertised a street parade to start at ten o'clock. However, the train was placed in such a position that the unloading was delayed and it was impossible to get the wagons ready in time. The failure of the parade was very disappointing. Crowds of people lined the streets during the forenoon, and their windows were also filled. Many children who had been permitted to remain away from school were badly disappointed, and their elders too, expressed unkind opinions concerning things in general. The doors opened at 1 o'clock to afford patrons ample time to inspect the menagerie. This department is, worth the admission fee. While it contains more animals than are to be seen in many of the best known zoos, interest is centered about "Jumbo," the "Second" of the world's biggest elephants. This pachyderm is a mountain of flesh, bone and ivory, his weight being twelve thousand, five hundred pounds, and height twelve feet, two inches. The afternoon performance was attended by a large crowd. One of the best acts in the whole show, is that of France Reed, called the world's champion equestrian. Other acts worthy of special mention are: William Tessler, head balancer on swinging trapeze; the great Canadian trio, acrobats; Dorothea de Holmen, in sensational casting acts; Blanch Reed, equestrienne. Perhaps the most satisfactory feature of the Hargreaves shows, is the absence of the fair with its shell games and other games. The Hargreaves circus is said to be one of the cleanest shows on the road, and it is safe to predict that the huge waterproof tent will be well filled at tonight's performance. The circus will also give afternoon and evening performances in the following towns throughout the Province.

AN IMMIGRANT ROBBED OF HIS WATCH AND MONEY

Montreal Sharpers Relieved the Stranger of All That He Owned.

MONTREAL, June 5.—Hans Felde arrived at the Canadian Pacific Windsor Station, yesterday. He was on his way to the Canadian Northwest, but unfortunately he fell in with a number of men who were not his friends. They enticed him to a C.-O.-G. street saloon, and he had several drinks, most of which he paid for. After knocking around town for a few hours, he went back to the station, and upon looking for his pocketbook he found that he had been robbed of all that he owned, his ticket and $15. His friends gave him sufficient money to buy a ticket as far as he was going, and last night he left the city fairly happy, and decidedly wiser.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., June 5. — A street car ran into a train loaded with pots of molten metal at 1:30 o'clock this morning, which set the car on fire and consumed it. Several persons are said to be burned to death.
