THE WOMAN WITH THE BROOM. (Written after seeing a farmer's wife chidden by the carter of cleaning house, she leans upon her broom and gazes through the dust.)

A wilderness of wrinkles on her face, And on her head a knob of wispy hair, Who made her slave to sweeping and to soap, A thing that smiles not and that never rests.

Who doowered this narrowed chest for blowing up Of slouching men-folks and their morning breezes? Is this the thing you made a bride and brought To have dominion over heart and home, To scotch the stairs and search the bin for flour?

To bear the burden of maternity? Is this the wife that wove our framed our law? And pillared a bright land of smiling homes? Down all the stretch of street to the last house

There were four of them, graduates of the same college, and they were inseparable. They ate lunch together down town, went to the same afternoon teas and theatre parties, and the closest link of all, their clothes were made by the same tailor.

When the war broke out they all wanted to go. Fathers objected and mothers wept, and only one of the four enlisted and marched away with the First Illinois regiment. Through-out the Santiago campaign he fought bravely, and after the city was won, sailed back with fever in his veins. It was a gala day when the regiment paraded through the streets of Chicago to its armory, and at first the fever-stricken soldier stepped briskly forward. But his strength began to fail. Once he fell, but he recovered himself and doggedly stumbled forward.

Suddenly there rang out the sharp yell of his alma mater, coupled with his name. Looking to the sidewalk, he saw his three friends, two firmly braced with their feet apart and the third standing on their shoulders. They were wearing the colors and giving the yell with vigor born of undergraduate days. The soldier paused and took a few wavering steps. Then he drew himself erect, and with set lips sturdily tramped on. What if his temples throbbed and his body ached, and the cry of his alma mater were on him and he would not, could not, falter. With her name ringing in his ears, he would show her that he was still her loyal son.

NO WONDER THEY ARE RICH. (Louisville Times.) That drug firm which has brought suit against several others for injuring its business reminds one of the story of the deaf man who went to a drug store to have a prescription filled. As the pharmacist rolled up the vial he said: "Seventy-five cents, sir." The customer laid a nickel on the counter.

"Seventy-five cents, if you please," repeated the druggist. "Well, there's your five cents," remarked the customer. "But I said 75 cents," howled the druggist.

"And haven't I paid you your five cents?" insisted the other man irritably, as he picked up his parcel. "Oh, go along, you old idiot," muttered the pharmacist, as the man walked away. "Well, I've made a cents profit, anyway," and he slammed the cash drawer.

CATARRH.

TREATMENT AND CURE.

Statistics prove that ninety-seven per cent of Canadian suffer from Catarrh, and that this disease is most dangerous owing to its tendency to extend to the bronchial tubes and lungs, causing consumption. So inadequate is the use of sprays, douches and snuffs proved in the treatment of Catarrh that these methods have not been in use by the regular physicians during the last decade, but it was not until the discovery of Catarrhozone, the medicated air-treatment, that the profession could be persuaded to treat this disease locally.

Catarrhozone treatment, founded upon the knowledge that air, and dry air only, can enter the bronchial tubes and lungs, at once commended itself to scientific and medical men.

They found in Catarrhozone a new germicide of sufficient power to kill the bacilli of Catarrh, Bronchitis and Asthma, and volatile enough to impregnate every particle of air breathed by the patient, yet leaving it free from moisture, thus enabling the cure to reach every part of the passages in the head and throat, and to penetrate the minutest air cells in the lungs.

After the germs have been killed, Catarrhozone at once acts upon the inflamed mucous membranes, soothing and restoring them to their natural and healthy condition. The convenience and value of the Catarrhozone Inhaler is easily recognized. A sudden change in weather, damp wet or sitting in a draught is often the beginning of serious complications, but having the inhaler in your pocket, at the first shiver or sneeze you can apply the remedy and avoid fatal consequences.

BISHOP CASEY

Tendered a Grand Reception Upon His Arrival in Fredericton Presented With a Three Hundred Dollar Purse—The Church Magnificently Decorated in Purple and White.

FREDERICTON, N. B., Feb. 13.—The Right Rev. T. Casey, D. D., Coadjutor Bishop of St. John, was tendered a grand reception upon his arrival from St. John this evening. His lordship was met at the train by a representative committee of the congregation and a number of visiting priests.

The different Catholic societies formed a torch-light procession, and headed by the 1st Batt. band, marched to the palace. The building and the convent were beautifully illuminated with candles and colored lanterns, and many private residences on the line of march presented a very pretty appearance. At the gateway of the palace an evergreen arch was erected, and the pillars at the entrance were draped with the episcopal colors.

Upon entering the house, the bishop donned the cafe maza, and a clerical procession was then formed, headed by Rev. Father Murphy, and marched to the church, amid the cheers of the assembled crowds. In the procession were Rev. Frs. Murphy, Ryan, O'Leary, Farrell, Welsh, McEwen and Carney. As the procession proceeded up the aisle to the sanctuary, the choir sang Ecce Sacerdos Magnus. His lordship took his seat at the right of the altar and addresses were then tendered him from the congregation by J. H. Barry accompanied by a purse containing $300 in gold, from the A. O. H., by F. A. O'Brien, and the C. M. E. A., by President Belliveau. The bishop made a brief reply to the addresses, at the conclusion of which the choir and priests chanted the Te Deum Laudamus.

His lordship then gave his blessing and announced that Pontifical Mass would be celebrated tomorrow morning at ten o'clock. The church was magnificently decorated in purple and white, and was crowded to the doors with members of all denominations. Among those present were Premier Blomerson and members of the government, his worship the mayor and many prominent citizens.

The reception was a magnificent success, despite the fact that rain poured all through the evening. On Friday evening next Bishop Casey will receive in St. Dunstan's hall, and a musical and literary programme is being prepared for the occasion.

THE END IS PARALYSIS. If the Wasted Nerves are not restored and revitalized by Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. "A living mind in a dead body" is the way paralysis is sometimes described. What can be more horrible than to lose all control of the body and feel death gradually claiming you for its own?

Sleeplessness, nervousness, headache, loss of energy and vitality, gloomy forebodings, easy fatigue and weakness of the body are symptoms of the nerve exhaustion which will finally end in paralysis, nervous prostration or insanity. Whether overwork, worry or irregular habits were the cause, restoration can be most effectively brought about by a few months' treatment with Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, the great restorative in pill form.

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, instills vital energy into the body, stops the wasting process and gradually but surely builds up the system, creates new nerve force and permanently cures all nervous disorders and weaknesses of men, women and children. As a restorative its efficacy is unrivalled by any preparation known to science. It restores color to the cheeks, roundness to the form and elasticity to every movement of the body.

DEATH OF LEANDER RAND. Leander Rand, ex-M. P. F. who died at Charlottetown, N. B., on Monday evening, was born at Cornwallis 76 years ago, and married a Miss Borden. He commenced life as a farmer and owned the best farm in Kings county. He was noted as a prominent agriculturist and took a leading part in all the sessions of the Fruit Growers' Association. He began his public career as a member of the municipal council and fourteen years ago he was elected to represent his native county in the house of assembly. He was a staunch liberal till three years ago, when he contested Kings county on the conservative ticket and was defeated. The deceased has been a sufferer from consumption for several years.
