

HON. MR. CROTHERS FLAYS THE GRIT DIRT BRIGADE

Before the orders of the Commons today, H. R. Emmerson said there was complaint because mails, especially newspapers, had recently been arriving late in some parts of the Maritime Provinces. For instance, Toronto morning and Montreal evening papers formerly reached such points as Moncton on the afternoon of the day following publication. Since the Ocean Limited train has been withdrawn from the Intercolonial these papers did not reach places like Moncton until the morning of the second day after publication, coming via the Maritime Express, which leaves Montreal about noon. The Canadian Pacific had a train which left Montreal in the evening for the Maritime Provinces, there seemed to be no good reason for this delay.

Postmaster-General Pelletier agreed that there seemed to be no good reason for this delay. He would call the attention of the Commons to the fact that he has the papers hereafter forwarded by the C. P. R. evening train.

Mr. Emmerson said there was trouble over the delay of the mails in former years it reached Moncton on Friday or Saturday each week. Now it did not arrive until the following Monday or Tuesday.

F. B. Carvell complained that the management had recently taken off a great many local trains to the inconvenience of people in the Maritime Provinces.

Hon. Mr. Crothers said it cost a dollar a mile to haul local trains, and it had been found that these trains paid off about thirty cents a mile. For special occasions such as hockey games where a considerable number of people wanted trains, the trains would be restored on twenty-four hours notice.

Ross to be a better rifle than the Lee Enfield.

In reply, Col. Hughes pointed out that the war office evidently admitted it was their declaration that the Lee Enfield was an obsolete arm.

Mr. E. M. MacDonald, of Pictou, again rose to compliment Col. Hughes, of the robust Canadianism he had displayed.

Vancouver Labor Troubles.

When the house was moved into committee on the estimates of the labor department, the minister gave particulars of the labor troubles on Vancouver Island. Mr. Crothers said the first indication of difficulties came in the form of a press despatch on September 18, 1912, stating that on the 16th 1,500 men had gone on strike at the Cumberland mine.

A telegram sent to the secretary of the miners' union pointed out the law against a strike without applying for a board of conciliation. To this there came the reply that there was no verdict, that the men had laid off work for a holiday and had been locked out.

About May 1, 1913, word came that the United Mine Workers all over Vancouver Island had been called out on strike. A fair wage officer was dispatched to secure application for a board of conciliation, but was unsuccessful. Then the government appointed a commissioner, Mr. Samuel Price, who with the Minister of Labor went to the scene of the trouble in the United Mine Workers' Union, that being the point at issue. They were not said the minister, apparently opposed to unions generally. Another effort was made by Deputy Minister Acland in November, 1913, but he also found it impossible to bring the warring parties together.

Mr. F. B. Carvell contended that save for the sending of a telegram from Ottawa there had been no action until the whole island was aflame with the dispute.

had read it before he left for England. "I want to resent the statement that Mr. Price would send in a report under a false date. There is no report in Ottawa," who would believe that about Mr. Price."

Four P. C. Bond Issue.

A proposal for a Canadian issue of four per cent bonds of ten dollars and multiples thereof, is contained in a notice of resolution of which Mr. E. N. Lewis, member for West Hill, has given notice. He says that he believes that Canadians with small amounts to invest in safe propositions should be given a chance to lend to the government at four per cent interest.

LONGSHOREMEN'S HALL CENTRE OF FIRE—TWO ALARMS—DAMAGE ESTIMATED AT $200—LOOKED BAD.

Fire discovered early this morning in the building situated at the corner of Peter's Wharf and Water street caused damage to the building of about two hundred dollars. The building is owned by William E. Baxter and is fully insured.

Seeing smoke issue from the windows of the building shortly after two o'clock, Officer Rankine pulled in an alarm from box 3. The fire, at first, gave the appearance of one which had gained considerable headway, and when the department responded a second alarm was rung in bringing additional apparatus to the scene.

The blaze had evidently started in the quarters of the International Longshoremen's Union, which are on the second floor, and a portion of the ground floor. William E. Baxter is the only other tenant.

Clods of smoke prevented the firemen from working effectively and it was not until they had been fighting for some time that the seat of the fire was found to be near the roof over the International Longshoremen's rooms. The fire is supposed to have started from a stove in the International Longshoremen's Union.

WOODSTOCK INSTITUTION WILL BE BEST OF KIND—DIRECTOR FROM OTTAWA TAKES CHARGE.

Woodstock, N. B., Feb. 5.—R. Newton, director of agricultural schools for New Brunswick, has arrived from Ottawa, and is engaged in ordering furniture and equipment for the L. P. Fisher Vocational School to be used by the Government as an agricultural college.

Mr. Newton announced tonight that the first short courses for farmers would begin the second week in March and one week each will be devoted to horticulture, field crops and live stock. Mr. Newton and staff will assist this year with the better farming special which will go over the I. C. R. and all its branches.

A school similar to that in Woodstock is likely to be opened at Sussex, and in addition to these main schools Mr. Newton forecasts the establishment of district courses which will entail the setting up of equipment in various centres and the training of farmers for two or three days. During the short courses the regular staff of the department of agriculture is to be assisted by experts from Macdonald College and Central Experimental Farm, Ottawa.

A director of animal husbandry is soon to be permanently employed by the Provincial Government.

Mr. Newton's own specialty is field crops, and along with his work here he is to conduct tests of varieties of clovers and grasses, in times demonstrating from experimental plots to be secured in the vicinity of Woodstock.

SYDNEY LEADS HOCKEY LEAGUE

Defeated Halifax Crescents in Fast Game—Fighting Marks New Glasgow Contest—Gets Black Eye.

New Glasgow, N. S., Feb. 6.—By the cricket score of 20 to 6, the New Glasgow Black Foxes found easy marks in the Halifax Socials in the arena here tonight. To the defeat could be added a skillfully directed and apparently needlessly applied punch in the eye, which Mag McGregor gave Lowther. For the astic knockout McGregor was given five minutes in the penalty box, while Lowther was carried from the ice to recover where his optic swelled and his countenance suggested that he had been a participant in a scheduled ring encounter.

Beyond the very one-sided score this was the outstanding feature of the game, and so provoked the right thinking fans that their sympathies for the Halifax fall-enders were loudly expressed. The ice was a splendid sheet, and the game fast.

At Halifax.

Halifax, Feb. 6.—Five thousand enthusiastic hockey fans saw the Millionaires of Sydney defeat the Halifax Crescents by a score of four to one at the arena tonight. Sydney now leads the league.

It was one of the best games of hockey seen in Halifax this season, and the excitement at times was intense. The Crescents were hot favorites, but before the game was half over the Millionaires had demonstrated that they could play hockey, and from then until the end of the contest there was not much doubt as to the result.

LIFE THREATENED BY KIDNEY DISEASE

His Health in a Terrible State Until He Took "Fruit-a-tives"

B. A. KELLY, ESQ.

Hagersville, Ont., Aug. 26th, 1913.

"About two years ago, I found my health in a very bad state, my kidneys were not doing their work, and I was all run down in condition. I felt the need of some good remedy, and having seen 'Fruit-a-tives' advertised, I decided to try them. Their effect I found more than satisfactory. Their action was mild and the result all that could be expected.

"My kidneys resumed their normal action after I had taken upwards of a dozen boxes and I regained my old-time vitality. Today, I am as well as ever, the best health I have ever had."

B. A. KELLY.

NEW BISLEY REGULATIONS

Before going into supply Mr. E. M. MacDonald, of Pictou, introduced the question of the Canadian Bisley team and the new regulations of the National Rifle Association governing the annual shooting at Bisley. Some three years ago conditions had been imposed at Bisley tending to interfere with the use of the Ross rifle, but action taken by the British and Canadian governments had since resulted in its recognition, while a Canadian small arm commission had decided for the aperture sight, and in England it had also been decided that the new regulations fixed by the war office would exclude the use of the aperture sight in such competitions as that for the King's rifle. During the important event at Bisley, although Canadian soldiers had been trained in the use of the aperture sight during the past few years, Mr. MacDonald wished to know what the view of the minister of militia, was in regard to the matter.

"The matter has been receiving the attention of the government for some weeks," said Colonel Hughes. The National Rifle Association, of Great Britain, he said, had been formed at the request of the Queen Victoria, to encourage rifle shooting throughout the Dominion. For a number of years, he continued, the progress had been made in the way of obtaining an improved rifle for the whole Empire. It had only been when Canada had come to the front with the improved Ross rifle that there had been objections on account of its difference from the arm used by the English soldier.

"We comply with what is recognized all over the world as the obsolete cartridge used by Great Britain," said the minister. "Our cartridge fits their rifle and their cartridge fits ours, but we will not use their rifle. The Lee Enfield is no longer a first class rifle to place in the hands of a soldier." The Ross, he continued, was generally recognized as the best in time of war.

As regards rifle shooting, too, Canada had made progress in this connection. Col. Hughes read a letter from a Canadian marksman, Major Hart-Millars of Vancouver, in favor of the aperture sight, the one used in Canada. He also read a letter from Major Richardson, captain of the British Olympic team, in a Olympic match in Sweden, to prove that with the aperture sight it was possible to shoot twice as fast.

"The gentlemen who are enforcing this rule must know that we must abandon our rifle for the Lee Enfield, or abandon our chance to compete at all," said the Minister of Militia. "I do not propose to interfere with the Dominion Rifle Association, which controlled the Bisley team, but the militia department had control of the funds and the volunteer should not leave Canadian shores bearing any such handicap as was proposed to be placed on him by the National Rifle Association in violation of its own character. For the past few years the British war office had been trying to obtain a new rifle. Colonel Hughes some years ago had heard of this new arm in Washington, and he had heard of it in Germany, but when he had gone to the British war office, he had been unable to learn anything about it. He had been told to go down to the Lee Enfield manufactory and get his information, but he had not proposed to hang around any back doors to do so. As regards what the war office itself thought about the aperture sight, Col. Hughes read an extract from its opinion on the same, which was to the effect that it was superior to the open sight. The rifleman of Great Britain were today a unit at our backs for the aperture sight. The Canadian authorities had talked the matter over and Canada was a result prepared to loan sufficient rifles to Britain to meet the same by next year. In English soldiers would be so practiced in their use so as not to be taken at any disadvantage by the Canadian team with the same arm. However, if the war office wished to use this sight, they had every opportunity of obtaining it in England. It was quite evident that, in considering the new regulations, there had only one object, and that, to force the Canadian team to use the obsolete arm.

"My intention is to stand by the rifle of Canada, and I do not propose to change it," concluded Col. Hughes.

Mr. F. B. Carvell, of Carleton, N. B., loudly congratulated the minister on his mainly Canadian standpoint in this matter.

Mr. Clarke, of Red Deer, asked whether the war office admitted the

HAVE BEEN AN UNTOLD BENEFIT

New Brunswick Woman Praised for Dodging Kidney Pills.

She Suffered for Four Years, and the Doctor Could Not Help Her, but Dodd's Kidney Pills Gave Her a New Lease of Life.

Porton, Carleton Co., N. B., Feb. 6.—(Special.)—"I find Dodd's Kidney Pills the best kidney medicine I have ever used. They have been of untold benefit to me."

The speaker is Mrs. John S. Dickson of this place. She is enthusiastic in her praises of the great Canadian kidney remedy, and not without reason.

"I suffered from kidney trouble that started in a cold," she continues, "and for four years I was never free of it. I was treated by a doctor, but he did not seem to be able to do much good. I had rheumatism and neuralgia, and my joints were stiff; my muscles cramped, and I was always tired and nervous. I perspired freely with the slightest exertion. I was depressed and low spirited, my limbs swelled, and I had a dragging sensation across the loins."

"Nine boxes of Dodd's Kidney Pills were a new woman of me."

Are not Mrs. Dickson's symptoms those of any run-down, overworked woman? There are also the symptoms of kidney disease. Dodd's Kidney Pills give new life to run-down women by curing their kidneys.

STEPHEN S. HALL DIED EARLY LAST EVENING

Mr. Hall was a native of Nova Scotia but had lived in St. John for 71 years. He was born in Annapolis on July 27, 1842, the son of James I. Hall, (Thorne) Hall. His ancestors on his father's side were Loyalists, who removed to Nova Scotia immediately after the Revolution, the American revolution, the Hall family from Massachusetts and the Thornes from New York.

When a boy of seventeen Mr. Hall came to St. John and began his business career as a dry-goods clerk with the firm of Charles Ketchum. Later he joined the employ of R. P. McCreary, who conducted a grocery business on Dock street. Subsequently he worked with his uncle, R. W. Thorne on the South Wharf, and went from there to the employ of J. V. Cross. When Mr. Thorne went into the shipping business Mr. Hall engaged in the grocery trade on his own account. He was in 1881, and after conducting the business for some years formed a co-partnership with the late Charles H. Fairweather. The firm has been known under its present title of Hall & Fairweather, Ltd. The concern is still transacting a large wholesale business, and is under the management of W. C. Cross.

Mr. Hall also was engaged in the insurance business and had been for some time agent of the Phoenix Fire Insurance Company of London, England.

In 1851 Mr. Hall was married to Miss Havilah Shaw Fellows, a daughter of James I. Fellows, who was formerly lived in St. John. Her ancestors were Loyalists. Mr. Hall had four children, namely, Florence, now deceased, who married F. B. Fairweather; Mabel, wife of Dr. C. D. Murdoch, a United States army officer stationed at Hushuica in Arizona; Herbert B. of Lyndonville, Saskatchewan; and Manetta, who was accidentally burned to death in childhood; Ethel, who is living at home, and Stephen J., who died some time ago, and whose widow has been living at home. His wife passed away a few years ago.

Although Mr. Hall never entered public life he took a keen interest in public affairs, and was always ready to give his services to the advancement of the business or social welfare of the city. He served as a president of the Board of Trade, and also as president of the Board of Fire Underwriters of New Brunswick. He was president of the Relief and Aid Society at the time of his death, and contributed greatly to the success of the work of that organization. He was a member of the Church of England and took a deep interest in religious affairs. He was prominently identified with the Stone Church of which he had been a vestryman, and also was much interested in St. Paul's Church, Rothesay, of which he had for a long time been church warden.

The funeral will take place on Monday afternoon from the Stone Church at 2.30 o'clock.
