company retired to the refectory and partook of an excellent luncheon furnished by the President. It was a very pleasant sight in this old room, although the monastic prejudices of some of the old bachelor graduates must have been terribly disturbed by the presence of the muslins and ribbons and the pretty faces, all calculated to disturb genuine scholastic equanimity.

Among the most cheering signs of the occasion, however, was the gathering to gether of a knot of old classmates who had not seen each other for years, at a corner table, where they were renewing old friendships, toasting the College, the Professors and themselves, and infusing, almost un consciously, fresh life into the venerable College. I may mention, in conclusion, that I was somewhat surprised at meeting very few St. John men at Windsor, the more so, as by the system in use there, the holders of nominations, which can easily be obtained by application to the Presi-
