He has one little fault that makes me fret. He has always less money, by far, than debt Moreover, he wallops me, now and then— But, excepting that, he's the best of men!

I own he is dreadfully given to drink; And besides he is rather too fond, I think, Of playing at eards and dice, but then, Excepting that, he's the best of men!

He loves to chat with the girls, I know, Tis the way with men—they're always so But what care I for his flirting, when, Excepting that he's the best of men?

I can't but say I think he is rash To pawn my pewter, and spend the cash But how can I scold my darling, when, Excepting that, he's the best of men? When soaked with tipple, he's hardly polite

But knocks the crockery, left and right, And pulls my hair, and growls again,— But, excepting that, he's the best of men

M'es-such is the loyality I have shown; But I have a spouse who is all my own; As good, indeed, as a man can be, And who could ask for a better than he?
