Facts alleged in pleadings and not denied, &c. deemed admitted costs. LXXXVII. And be it enacted, That in any pleading in any contested civil case, every 2 allegation of fact, the truth of which the opposite party shall not expressly deny or de-4 clare to be unknown to him, shall be held to be admitted by him: and the costs of 6 proving any such allegation of fact or any document proved in evidence shall always 8 be in the discretion of the Court, so that the whole or any part of such costs may 10 be awarded against a party denying or not admitting any fact or document which in the 12 opinion of the Court he must have known to be true or genuine, whatever be the 14 event of the case.

Rules of constructions as to pleadings

LXXXVIII. And be it enacted, That to all 16 allegations of fact in any pleading, the ordinary rules of legal construction shall apply, 18 so that it shall be sufficient to support any pleading that the facts alleged in it agree 20 sufficiently with those proved to maintain the conclusions of such pleading or some of 22 them, and that the Court shall be of opinion that the opposite party could not have 24 been misled by such pleading as to the real nature and effect of the facts intended 26 to be therein alleged and to be proved under such pleading: and the Court may in its 28 discretion, at any time before judgment, and on such conditions as it shall deem just, 30 allow any pleading to be amended so as to agree with the facts proved, if the Court 32 shall be of opinion that the ends of justice will be promoted by allowing such amend-34 ment.
