THE LEAGUE PARLIAMENT. A thousand delegates attended the open-ing of the National Convention on Thursday. Twenty-one members of Parliament were present. Parnell, amid the greatest enthusiasm, took the chair. Sexton read a number of telegrams, particularly from the American branch of the League, exthe American branch of the League, ex-horting the delegates never to rest until landlordism is abolished, not to pay rent, but to hold back their harvests, etc. Parnell, in his opening speech, referred to the thinning of their ranks by coercion since the last convention. He said for every ten imprisoned a hundred would ion the League. He recapitulated the every ten imprisoned a hundred would join the League. He recapitulated the resolutions, and said the question of self-government was the most important. He had always considered it could never be settled as long as the questions in regard to rent remain in dispute. The Land Act left the rent question a continual source to rent remain in dispute. The Land Act left the rent question a continual source of discontent and strife between the dif-ferent classes of Ireland. He had no doubt this was designedly so arranged by the British Government. He reasserted that fair rent would be the value of land that fair rent would be the value of land in the state of nature before it was im-proved by the tenant or any of his prede-cessors. Irishmen should encourage home manufactures, even if they had to pay dearer than for foreign goods. The things not produceable in Ireland should be bought in America, and English goods should not be bought in any event. Sexton moved collectively the Land League's resolutions, as telegraphed pre-viously, and they were carried by accla-mation.

JOHN DILLON IN THORLES. On Sunday the people of Thurles had an opportunity, of which they took full advantage, of welcoming back to freedom their gallant young representative, Mr. John Dillon. From all parts of the surrounding districts the people flocked into Thurles and formed one of the largest demonstrations that the premier county has known for a long time. The Rev. Jas. His detention in Kil-mainham had at all events, he said, taught him to appreciate what men like Micheal Davitt and John Devoy must have suffered when they endured seven years of a living death in a convict prison. Mr. Dillon then expressed a hope that the Irish people would never forget the men who insulted Father Sheehy and the "suspects" who are now imprisoned in Kil-mainham, Naas, Dundalk, and Limerick jails. He announced that on a future occasion he would speak on the question of the Land Act. A committee has been formed, with Mr. Sexton, M. P., as chair-

A NARK OF ESTEEM.

The sixteenth annual celebration of the Northern Caledonian games was held at the village of Lucknow on Sept. 14th. In the evening a grand concert was held in the Skating Rink, on which ocheid in the Skating Kink, on which de-casion our esteemed fellow-citizen, Mr. John Dromgole, was made the recipient of a handsome present for his, wife, in consideration of his many acts of kindness in assisting at these gatherings. The following address was read by Chief McCrimmer.

McCrimmon: Dear Sir,-The Caledonian Society of

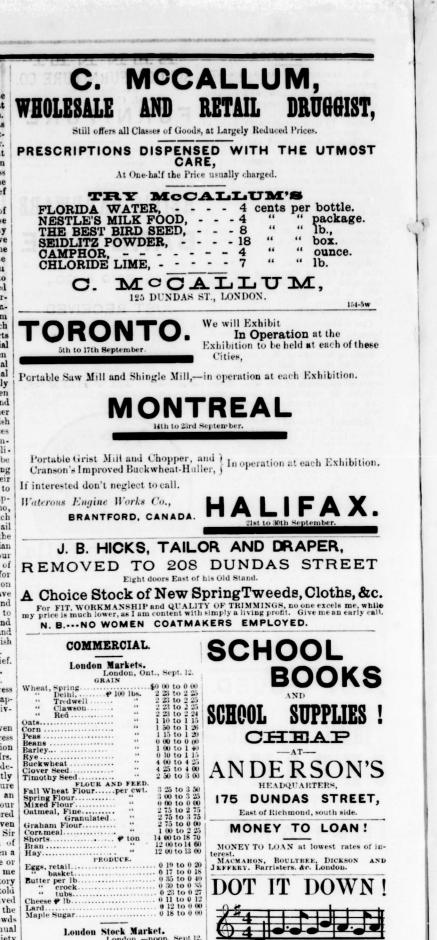

Lucknow, deeply impressed with a sense of their obligation to y cu for the many valuable and varied services you have valuable and varied services you have rendered them year after year, in the management of their public and private entertainments, the unselfish interest you have taken in everything that conduces to their welfare, the valuable and unsolicited assistance you have so kindly and cheer-fully rendered at their various demonstrations and entertainments, the enthusiasm which you infuse in others, and with which you enter yourself, into all their sports and national pastimes, the substantial pecuniary aid which you have been the medium, through your commercial friends of rendering them at their annual tournaments, but above all, the friendly and fraternal feeling which you have been so largely instrumental in establishing and sustaining between them and the other great branch of the Celtic race-the Irish nation; these and many other services which you have so kindly rendered so im-press the society with a sense of their obligations to you, that they feel it would be lacking in that spirit of fraternal feeling that is so essential an element in their organism and constitution did they fail to recognize in some tangible form their ap-preciation of and gratitude to one who, although not of them, has done so much for them. They therefore, gladly avail themselves of this happy occasion-the inauguration of their new Caledonian Park—to present through you, to your esteemed partner in life, these articles of plate, as a slight token of their esteem for you personally and of their appreciation of the more valuable services you have rendered them. Trusting that you and your amiable wife may long be spared to be useful members of society, a credit and honor to your many friends, and a joy and comfort to one another, is the earnest wish of the Caledonian Society of Lucknow. D. A. McCRIMMON, Chief. L. C. MACINTYRE, Secy.

GEO. McHARDY, Treas. Mr. Dromgole, in response to the address made the following reply, and was ap-plauded time and again during its deliv-

The grand reception you have given me this evening in the eloquent address just read, and the beautiful presentation which through me you have given Mrs. Dromgole is so much better than I de-serve, that I cannot find words sufficiently serve, that I cannot find words sufficiently strong to express the deep sense of pleasure I feel at being the recipient of such an honor. You speak of the obligation your Society is under for services rendered at your celebration and assistance given at your games. All I have to say, Sir Chief, on this point is, if I have been of any service to you, the work has been a labor of love without the desire of fee or reward. The motives which actuated me to work for your Society, and the history of the interest taken in your games is told in a few words. Six years ago I arrived in Lucknow on business, and seeing the on the streets, I was told that the annual games of the Lucknow Caledonian Society had been held that day. THE CATHOLIC RECORD reporter takes the liberty of telling the many readers of this week's paper that Hanratty has opened out an immense stock of general dry goods, millinery, mantles, shawls, hosiery, gloves, which are marked in plain figures and at prices which defy competition. His store is certainly one of the best lighted and most attractive in the city : it is centrally situated on the north side of Dundas St. opposite Ferguson & Co's grocery, a large three story building of 1ed brick front and is noticeable inasmuch as it is the only store on the north side of Dundas street with a similar front. We particularize as we know it will repay all visitors to our exhibition to take a look through his mammoth establishment before leaving the City. Mr. Hanratty announces in this issue the opening of his Fall stock which is large and varied. He is noted for his fair and honest dealing with his customers, marking all his goods in plain customers, marking all his goods in plain figures, sells for cash, making only one price, and that the lowest. We bespeak for him a large trade, and we confidently recommend him to all parties requir-ing dry goods of any description.
