Temperance.

The London Temperance League.

The Second Monthly meeting of this recently formed Association was held in Exeter Hall on Monday evening, Nov. 17th. The attendance was large and respectable. The chair was taken at seven o'clock by J. SILK BUCKINGHAM, Esq., President of the League. Prayer for the Divine blessing having been offered by the Rev. W. W. Robinson, A.M., Incumbent of Christchurch, Chelsea.

Among the speakers who addressed the meet ing, was our friend and brother, F. W. KELLOGG, whose speech is thus reported in the London Patriot, of Nov. 20th :--

Mr. F. Kellogg, from the United States, ob-served, that many persons in the present day were professing great sympathy for the working classes. He believed that the working classes did not look up to such persons with gratitude, as might be expected, and the reason was, that all they asked for was their rights, which they athought they had reason to believe had long been withheld from them. (Hear.) He believed that the interests of employers and employed were reciprocal, and that the doctrine of universal brotherhood was no fable. Vice and immorality to a vast extent prevailed, and hence many were afraid of "the people." And why? Had they not been accustomed to look upon them as beasts of burden, and were they not now reaping the reward of their own folly? Was not prevention better than cure? In England seven millions and a half sterling was paid for the support of paupers; seventy per cent. of that was caused by crime, and who had to pay for it? Of course, those who had the property. Such persons, then, were deeply interested in the Temperance Reform, and ought zealously to promote it. (llear.) He had lately seen a large gin-perate, but don't become tectotalers." (Hear.) He might as well have said, "Put your fingers in the fire, but don't burn yourselves." (Hear.) By the temperance movement thousands had been reclaimed from intemperance, and thousands more had been preserved from becoming intemperate ; and thousands who were once irreligious, had now altars in their families and worshipped God; and yet men who were looked up to as authorities by large congregations said, Oh pray don't become teetotalers !" (Hear, hear.) "Be temperate, but don't be teetotalers." He would like to see the drunkards who had been made sober by such doctrines. (Hear, hear.) Let editors who sneered at Tectotalism look through their offices, and see how many had fallen by attending to that advice, " Take a little, but be temperate." Dr. Johnson, that strong-minded man. once said to a lady who pressed him to take a little, "Madam, I can't take a little !" (Cheers.) That was the case with thousands, and yet it was seid, " Take a little, be temperate, but don't be teetotalers.' This advice was given to please deacons and rich members, and thus the Church seemed to be built on barrels and bottles. Mr. Kellogg then referred to a lecture delivered by the Rev. Thomas Binney, in Exeter-hall, entitled " Sir Thomas Fowell Buxton, a study for young men," and to Mr. Binney's remarks upon teetotalism in that lecture. He "did not," he said, "consider the teetotal theory true, nor its practices binding, though he acknowledged and rejoiced in the good it had wrought." Strange, to rejoice that good was done by a practice which was neither good nor binding! Mr. Binney admitted that the maintenance of such large public-house property could hardly be a happy subject of contemplation—that it might operate as encourage-ments to a bad state of society—and that, in short, nothing like such establishments would ex-ist in the millennium. Why, after all these admissions, did he undertake to defend Buxton's brewery? The terms in which he had done that ought to be written in the blackest cha-racters. (Hear.) Where did the rev. gentle-man get his authority for such a line of defence? Master. Why had he not imitated the candour and fidelity of the sacred writers, and told faults and inconsistencies as well as virtues? What was the effect produced on the minds of the hundreds of young men who heard that lecture ? They treated tectotalism with contempt and ridicule. (Hear.) Had not ministers been deposed from the pulpit in consequence of their use of strong drink? And as to learning, where did intemperance prevail to a greater extent than in learned Scotland? And why? Because that doctrine had been so extensively preached, "Be temperate, but don't be teetotalers" The mi-nister says so from his deck and the offen temperate, but don't be tectotalers. The mi-nister says so from his desk, and the editor says so from his stool, because he would not be wiser there the single and the si so from his stool, because he would not be wiser than the minister. (Hear.) And the mother says to her child, "Take a little, my dear, be itemperate, but don't be a tectotaler. Dr. Cum-ming and Mr. Binney say you should not." (Cheers.) The great cause of misery and ruin was spreading in the land, and how was it to go on? In the name of poor drunkards, in the EI-E Albro & Co and others; Adah, Laybold, Boston mane of wives, in the name of children, he be-mane of wives, in the name of children, he be-mane of wives. sought them, he demanded of them, to do all Avery & Co and others. they could to remove that great curse from the how was a reform to be effected ? Not by Acts of Parliament, but each must reform himself : and if men would not do their duty, they must pay the penalty. If men of power and influence would promote the Temperance cause, they must be consistent. It would not do for them to ask men to give up beer and gin, while they continued to use their wine. (Hear.) If they would but help on the temperance reform, it would proceed most rapidly, and they would be among the first to reap the benefit. We (said Mr. Kellogg) are ready to undertake the work, and then these men say, "Oh, what a folly ! it is impossible for you to put an end to drunkenness." To believe that there must be drunkenness in the community was nothing short of a libel on Divine government, and a libel, also, on human nature. It was not necessary. If we were to have drunkards thirty years hence, that would only be by making the children of the present generation drunkards: and how was that to be done ? Why, by cheating them into drunk enness; by persuad them to take " just a little, and then to leave it ;" by persuading them that it is pecessary. Now those who wished for a sober population, should be careful not to place temptation in the way .-And as they had got cheap bread by getting the tax taken off, so they should unite to get their great men to take off the tax on tea and coffee. Dr. Cumming, he understood, bewailed the
