MAKING VINEGAR.

Please give directions for making good vinegar on a small scale, say two gallons at a time.

NO NAME.

Ans.—Either of the following receipts should prove satisfactory in making vinegar in small quantities. No. 1.—Pure rain water, 2 1-2 gals; acetic acid, 10 oz; molasses, 1 pint; yeast, 1-4 pint. Stir well and allow to stand from one to three weeks in a fairly warm place. No. 2.—Pure rain water, 2 gals; molasses, 1 quart; yeast, 1 pint. Place in a keg, cover with wire gauze and let stand for three weeks in a warm place.

Can you tell me where to obtain the book, Abbott's "Child at Home?"

G. G. K.

Ans.—The book does not appear to be in the stock of booksellers here, but Russell Lang & Co., Booksellers, Winnipeg, could probably obtain it for you from the publishers.

SUPPOSED KIDNEY TROUBLE.

Mare has not been in very healthy condition for some time, about a month ago got a bad cold and never got right over it and then it seemed to settle in her kidneys; hair seems to be dry and will not lay down although I have them blanketed, has also been lame in one of her front feet for about three months.

F. W. McG.

Ans.—The very few symptoms you have mentioned do not necessarily indicate kidney trouble. If you have noticed anything abnormal in the act of urination or in connection with the urine, you should have mentioned it. You should also have mentioned the approximate age of the mare, and the state of her appetite. If the animal is up in years it is very important to have the teeth thoroughly examined, and, if found to be defective, to have them remedied. Feed exclusively on bran mash for sixteen hours and then give one and a half pints of raw linseed oil and one ounce of turpentine in one dose. After this has operated on the bowels, give morning and evening in food, for ten days, one of the following powders: Sulphate of iron, nitrate of potash, powdered gentian, of each, two ounces. Mix and divide into twenty powders. Give as above directed. Feed moderate rations of good oats and hay, with a bran mash, containing a teacupful of flaxseed, three times a week. Groom well daily. With the very limited information at hand one cannot even make a good guess at the cause of the front foot lameness.

LAME MARE.

Mare ten years old being led behind rig got front foot over rope causing her to hop along on three legs. A few days afterwards saw her lightly kicked by another horse on the thigh. Lameness did not develop until this. Has been lame more or less ever since this occurred about nine months ago. Vet. fleeced fetlock and said it was stifled strained and gave me a strong liniment to apply, which has not done any good. What would you recommend?

Sask.

P. L. R.

Ans.—In all cases of lameness it is very essential to find out the seat and nature of the disease before prescribing a remedy. It is evident, from the length of time your mare has been lame, that the cause is deeply seated and of a serious, if not incurable, nature. An experienced veterinarian by personal examination of the limb, should be able to locate the affected part and to apply the proper treatment. We cannot diagnose the case with any degree of certainty from the information at hand.

INDIGESTION.

A horse of mine is not doing well, is about ten years old, was alright until about six weeks ago. He had colic two or three times. I got some medicine. Seems always belching wind. I fed him good hay all winter and oats, have fed him boiled wheat once a day for the last two weeks, his hide is good but don't seem to put on flesh.

Sedley.

A. H.

Ans.—First of all, irregularities of the teeth, if such exist, should be corrected. Next of importance it is necessary, whatever the diet may have been, that a change should be adopted. Your horse having been fed, chiefly, on dry oats and hay; it will probably be beneficial to change to some soft material, as steamed oats and bran with the addition of a little crushed flaxseed. As medical treatment would advise you to prepare the horse for a mild purgative by feeding exclusively on mash diet for sixteen hours and then administer the following: Barbadoes aloes, 6 drams; calomel 1 dram; ground ginger, 2 drams; soap, sufficient to form a ball. When the physic has ceased to operate, give in food, or by placing well back on tongue with tablespoon, morning and evening for two weeks, one of the following powders: bicarbonate of soda, 6 ounces; nux vomica, 2 ounces. Mix and divide in twenty-four powders. Are you sure that the horse is not a crib-biter or wind-sucker? Get a copy of Veterinary Elements, $1.10 postpaid from this office.

IS THE RAILROAD IN THE RIGHT?

I was driving a herd of horses from one of my farms to the other, about three miles east of —.

I let them out of the gate on the road allowance which runs parallel with the railroad.

They had just got out of the gate when looking up the track I saw a train coming. We had three saddle horses and two men with myself. We endeavored to keep them from the track but the train struck one of them killing it.

This was not at a crossing, being a quarter of a mile from the nearest one. I have been writing to the — about the matter ever since and enclose the letter I last received from their claims agent. It seems peculiar if there is a law which will release a railroad company from paying for an animal killed in such a manner.

I have just been over at a meeting of the council and they advised me to write your paper and find out what this act is, which the — claims agent refers to. They think if it gives them the power this letter intimates, it is about time the municipalities were getting their eyes open to the dangers of such a legislation, that it might be rectified.

I would be pleased to hear from you in this connection, whether I would be safe in entering a suit against the company.

I would be pleased to know also if the municipality has power to force the company to fence their right off way along the road allowance.

W. G.

Ans.—We should think that you have a good action against the railway company. Under the provisions of the Railway Act, where ever the railway passes through a locality which is improved or settled, and enclosed, the company are obliged to fence its right of way.

A rents house to B for $8.50 per month (an agreement) specifying use of house and rent to be paid in advance monthly. But house is only worth $5.50 per month. However B goes behind. His wife owning house effects, what proceedings can A take? Can he seize?

SUBSCRIBER AND READER.

Ans.—1. If B consents to pay $8.50 per month for the house, he would have to carry out his agreement.

2. All that A could seize, would be B's property in the house.

A cuts forty acres of wheat for B at 50 cents per acre and after B sells his wheat, A asks him to pay for the work and he claims, that is B claims, that he has paid out all his money on other debts. What can A do to receive his wages?

Ans.—You may have writ issued against B and collect your money in the ordinary way.

1. What constitutes a legal fence?
2. A neighbors cattle broke through fence and badly damaged a sod stable, also spoil feed, fence posts ten feet apart, four strand wire, have I any claim on him?

Ans.—1. See Farmers' Advocate of March 14 issue.

2. Yes, you would have a claim for damages which you could recover by civil action.
