

DREADFUL FRIGHTFUL

Awful Game of Baseball Last Night

Teams Play Like a Lot of Kinder- gartens—Costly Errors on Both Sides.

The game last night was putrid. It was so bad that the grand stand ceased to root for either one side or the other. It was a bad evening all around. Even the umpire was quite a bit to the bad, one of his decisions at first with Forrest running being correct. Winters did not drop the ball as could be plainly seen from the grand stand and Forrest was out if ever a man was in the world. The error made in the decision was of the heart and not done intentionally. A better or fairer umpire than the gentleman officiating in that capacity could not be found.

The Amaranths speaking generally played like a lot of farmers. Foichat had a glass arm, gave five men bases on balls and allowed seven safe hits to be made. The only consolation to be had was that he made two home runs. It may also be consoling to him to know that though seven safe hits were made off him, there were twelve made off Brazier. Duncan and Doyle, both clever players and usually safe, made several costly errors and Hickey was with good goods of the same character every time.

"Katz" made his second miff of the season, but it was excusable as a long run was necessary to reach the ball. The last half of the third inning was a veritable charnel house with respect to the errors of the purple chaps and the runs made by the Service fellows. Say it gently, there were nine scores piled up.

In the beginning of the sixth the hitting was unusually heavy, three safe hits and four runs being made off Brazier. The same thing occurred in the first half of the ninth when the Amaranths added four runs more to their score, though they were more the result of errors than heavy pounding of the leather. The Service up to the ninth were charged with but one error, but in the last inning they made three more that cost them three runs. The only safe hit made by the Amaranths in the ninth was the home run of Foichat. Their aggregation of errors in the game amounted to no less than fifteen, a record that would make angels weep.

Both teams took ciphers in the first inning, only three men going to the bat for the Ams in the first half. Walcott went out at first and Doyle and Duncan on a double play, the former at first and the latter on a fly to Delfel. The Service had the bags full when their last man expired. Delfel went out on a fly to catcher and Bennett, Winters and Heath were on the bases when Harrison duplicated Delfel's performance. Culligan hit a liner to second and gave up the ghost at first on the assist of Doyle.

In the second the Amaranths scored first blood. Foichat was the guilty man, he drove the grand stand wild by making a clean home run. Douse hit safe but went out at second on the assist of pitcher. Forrest flew out to Delfel, the latter making a sensational catch, and Hobson retired at first on a single to short. Three men only went up for the Service. McAluff, taking his base on balls and dying at the next bag in the effort to steal it. Brazier and Douse both fanned.

In the third the Ams could not reach first. Steinkamp went out at first on the assist of short, Hickey flew out to pitcher and Walcott drove a fly to near center in the getting of which Douse and Harrison collided, the former holding on to the ball. It was in the latter half the Amaranths went all to pieces. Delfel hit for two bags and scored on a wild throw of Hickey. Bennett singled and was advanced two bags on another wild throw. Winters made a two bagger and brought Bennett in. Heath singled to third and made first the error of Hobson. Harrison fanned out a three bagger and brought both Winters and Heath home, he himself scoring on the hit of McAluff who made first safe on the miff of Duncan. Another over-throw allowed McAluff to score. Douse circled the bases safely and Delfel added his second run in the inning. Bennett did the same and Winters to show he was a good fellow made a three bagger whereas previously in the same inning he had been content with two. Culligan, Brazier and Heath made the outs and the slaughter was over.

The Ams again failed to break the charm in the fourth, receiving but a goose egg for their efforts. The Service added another run in their half. Steinkamp made his first error in missing a long fly by Harrison. He had a hard run and it was impossible to reach it, though his fingers touched the ball and the error scores against him. Culligan made the run. In the fifth each took a single. Forrest hit safe, stole second and made a rattling theft of third scoring on the hit of Hickey who was left at first. Hobson and Steinkamp fanned and Walcott went out on a fly to Douse. Delfel made the run for the Service.

The beginning of the sixth gave the Ams new hope for they succeeded in piling up four runs before they could be headed off. Doyle and Duncan were both credited with safe hits and both scored. Foichat singled to second and went out at first. Douse hit safe and made the home plate on an overthrow of Winters. Forrest followed, fanned and as the last strike was muffed he ran to first. Heath threw to Winters and the latter had to lean in order to reach it falling to his knees and elbows. He emphatically did not drop the ball as could be plainly seen from the grand stand, though the runner was called safe. Forrest scored on Steinkamp's safe hit to center. Hobson flew out, Hickey pounded air and "Katz" was left at first. The Service failed to make good in their half.

The same thing happened the Ams at the beginning of the seventh. Walcott and Doyle had cashed in when Duncan fanned out a beaut of a three bagger. But it did him no good as Foichat drove a fly to center which Harrison nailed to the cross. In the latter half of the seventh as if to add insult to injury the Service piled up another trio, making their score 14 to 6 for the Ams. Douse made good on a little single, Bennett on a two bagger and Winters on a combination of errors in which a half dozen had a hand.

In the eighth Douse hit for two bags and scored on Hobson's single. The latter stole second and made a crackerjack slide to third which was as far as he could get. Forrest and Steinkamp fanned and Hickey went out on the assist of short. A cipher was the best the Service could do in the latter half, and had it not been for the error of short but three balls would have been required to retire the three men. McAluff hit the first ball to cross the plate and flew out to Doyle. Brazier lambasted the next and dropped a fly to Forrest. Douse hit the third ball pitched, putting a single to Doyle which had he not fumbled it would have retired the batter at first. Delfel singled to third and went out at first, leaving Douse on third.

To the beginning of the ninth the Civil Service had but one error scored against them, then they went up in the air, made three more very grievous bluffs as the result of which Doyle, Duncan, Foichat and Douse made the circle of the bases. Foichat making his second home run in the game, a very rare occurrence. The latter half of the ninth was not played.

The following is the lineup and score by innings:

Amaranth—Walcott, right field; Doyle, short; Duncan, first base; Foichat, pitcher; Douse, catcher; Forrest, center field; Hobson, third base; Steinkamp, left field; Hickey, second base.

SARGEANT'S LAUNDRY

Caused Surprise In the Police Court

The Ebony-Hued Gentleman Was Sorry, 'Deed He Was, and Begged Pardon.

There is not in the entire Dominion ordinarily a more dignified tribunal than the Dawson police court. And especially is this the case when it is presided over by Mr. Justice Macaulay who, while he has an acute sense of humor, is very slow to give it recognition in his own court. It was not humor or wit but the ridiculous that appealed to risibilities in the police court this morning.

The patience of his lordship had been sorely tried in hearing a petty case in which venom and spite were the predominant characteristics on both sides and which spirit was only subdued by threats to impose heavy fines for contempt of court. All was still save for the scratching of his honor's pen as he jotted his finding in the court docket. It was a dark cloudy morning but suddenly a wave of more than usual darkness swept over the room. The cause was apparent. Through the open door stepped a man sufficiently black to make a dark night ashamed of itself. The intruder carried a large bundle around which both his arms were affectionately entwined. Without removing his hat he stepped within the outer rail and toward the bench where he stopped and in a voice that was pregnant with sweetness, melody and rhythm, a voice that is out of place when not borne to the ear on zephyrs laden with the perfume of the magnolia, breath of the orange blossom and resonant with the joyful snort of the alligator, said:

"Ah done has er bundle ob laundry heah fo' Sahgeant Smiff."

"What is that you say?" asked his lordship who, having his eyes on the court ledger, had not noticed the intruder's entrance nor been aware of his presence until he spoke.

"I say, sah, dat I done has er bundle ob laundry fo' Sahgeant Smiff."

"Do you know, sir," sternly demanded his lordship, "that you are disturbing the court which is in session?"

"Scuse me, judge! Beg pardon, 'deed I does, but de laundry an' fo' Sahgeant Smiff so I done fetched 'em heah 'spectin' dat—"

The last word was lost to those in the room as the ebony-hued gentleman had been backing toward the door while speaking. He disappeared and a ray of light fell albatross the room.

Forced to Return

Port Townsend, Wash., June 27.—The government's scientific expedition which recently started north on the fish commission steamer Albatross, under the leadership of Dr. David Starr Jordan, president of Stanford university, was forced to return to this port today, after the vessel had reached Fort Rupert on her way to Arctic waters, where conditions of fish and seal life were to have been investigated.

The return of the expedition was occasioned by the discovery of smallpox aboard, the disease having afflicted one of the crew. The vessel reported to United States quarantine officers here, who immediately ordered her into quarantine. The patient was landed for treatment.

The vessel will be thoroughly cleaned and fumigated, and the entire party aboard, including Dr. Jordan, held for observation the necessary nine days. The predicament is most embarrassing at this time, as the delay will greatly interfere with the prosecution of plans drawn for the summer's work in the north. Should further cases develop, which is likely, as the man was in the forecastle when the disease was discovered, the detention of the vessel and her crew will be indefinite.

One of the precious few gifts whose givers will forever remain unknown is the $250,000 which a gentleman handed to the late Mr. Hewitt one day, telling him to give it to the Cooper Union and never reveal the name of the giver. Mr. Hewitt accepted the gift with the conditions attached, and he died without revealing the secret. At the annual meeting of the union the other day it came out that none of the present trustees knows or suspects the name of the donor. And they will not try to find out.

PRELIMINARY MEETING

Another to be Held on Saturday Evening

Horticulture Society and Flora- Culture Society Will be Organized

An informal meeting was held yesterday evening in the office of Mr. N. F. Hagel, K.C., by a number of gentlemen interested in floriculture and horticulture which may ere long be far reaching in its effect. The purpose of the assemblage, among whom were Mr. Hagel, Mr. P. R. Ritchie, Mr. C. C. Chattaway, Mr. H. A. Stewart, Mr. Lee, Mr. Jas. Gibbon, Mr. McCurdy, Mr. Haddock, Mr. C. M. Woodworth, Mr. Horikani, Mr. Ed. Schott and several others, was to discuss the advisability of organizing a society which shall have for its object the awakening of an interest in matters pertaining to botany, floriculture and horticulture, a society similar to those which will be found in almost every city of consequence in eastern Canada. As was aptly pointed out by one of the speakers the flora of the Yukon is but little understood here and practically not at all on the outside and it would be an interesting matter to collect the collection and classification of the plant life of the territory which in time would be complete.

Aside from the technical knowledge that would be obtained such a society would be of vast interest not to say importance to those who are interested in the products of the territory from a pecuniary standpoint. There are now many gardeners here to say nothing of the ranches that are being established on a more pretentious scale and all would benefit from the monthly or bi-monthly meetings that would take place at which matters of interest could be brought up and discussed. It is also proposed, though reference to the idea may seem somewhat premature at this time, to have a horticultural exhibition this fall at which products would be exhibited and prizes awarded for excellence and upon other points.

It is said that Commissioner Congdon is deeply interested in the scheme and is more than anxious to do anything that will help toward bringing the resources of the territory more prominently to the front. It is not at all improbable that the success of the society might result in the establishment here at some time in the near future of a government experimental station which would be of immense benefit to the country at large. With the possibility clearly demonstrated that the territory can grow its own vegetables, hay and grain, and possibly the harder fruits and berries, the importation of hundreds of thousands of dollars worth of such articles every year could be saved.

At the meeting held the matter was discussed in all its phases and from every standpoint and at the conclusion it was the consensus of opinion that it would be well to call a public meeting for the purpose of talking the proposition over more in detail and effect the formation of a society. To that end a meeting will be held Saturday evening next at 8.30 in the public school building where the preliminary steps will be taken. Ladies are specially invited and it is hoped they will take an active part in the organization and the maintenance of the interest in the affair; afterward.

Lost a Brother

Editor Nugget:
Dear Sir,—Last fall my brother left his home and went up into Alaska and his family have heard nothing from him. Would you be so kind as to put this notice in your paper. Any one knowing the whereabouts of George Robertson of Allegheny, Pa., notify him that his sister, Belle Minard is in Seattle and wishes to hear from him. She wishes to come north.

MRS. BELLE MINARD.

Seattle, June 29, 1903.
Burke Cockran, evidently reader of tongue than, nimble of wit, declares that only one thing is necessary to make Grover Cleveland again president of the United States. This is to give him the nomination, for election is inevitable. Mr. Cockran should have reversed his proposition and made it logically invincible. The only thing that can save Cleveland, or any other Democrat, from disastrous defeat at the polls is to refuse him the nomination.

SMART TRAVELING

Olds Mobile Ran to Forks in One Hour.

Sunday evening at 8 o'clock G. P. Wells, and F. H. Medart of the N. C. Company left Dawson for Grand Forks in the "Olds" automobile. The "Olds" is called the "Olds Mobile" and is manufactured at Detroit, Mich. Mr. Wells owned one like it on the outside and is an expert driver. He made curves so lively coming back from the Forks that the back of the seat is all clawed up through the frantic efforts of Medart to keep from being spilled. With an open course Mr. Wells thinks he can run the machine from Dawson to the Forks in 30 minutes or less.

Mining Resumed

Halifax, June 18.—All places temporarily vacated in reserve pit at Glace Bay on account of fear of water in Dominion No. 1, breaking the barrier are now being worked. The water has now receded over 350 feet down the slope in Dominion No. 1 pit. Twelve pumps are working and water is coming out of the pit at the rate of five thousand gallons per minute. Everything is proceeding even better than first expected.

Returned From Inspection

Washington, June 22.—Rear Admiral Bradford, chief of the bureau of equipment, has returned from an extended inspection tour to the Pacific coast, and reports conditions at Mare Island and Bremerton as most satisfactory.

While in San Francisco Admiral Bradford arranged for the purchase of about 500 acres of land adjoining the government's naval station at Honolulu.
