KNOCKED DOWN

Careless Driver Runs Down a Lady on King St.—Badly Bruised.

Mrs. Hyatt, who is at present visiting Mrs. Angus Crow, Emma street, had a very narrow escape from serious injury this morning, which was the result of carelessness on the part of the driver of a local meat delivery wagon. Mrs. Hyatt was walking across King street from the Merchants Bank corner to Northway's store, when the horse and wagon came whirling around the corner from the Fifth street bridge. Mrs. Hyatt had no chance of getting out of the way, and, as a result, the horse knocked her down on the pavement and two wheels of the wagon ran over her body. Joseph Boyes, who was standing near and saw the accident, hurriedly picked the lady up and assisted her to Dr. Fleming's office. Upon examination it was found that none of the bones in her body had been broken, but she was seriously bruised in several places and considerably shaken up. Her right hand was injured badly. She was removed to Mr. Crow's residence. Mr. Boyes, in speaking of the accident, said: "The police ought to read a lesson to some of these delivery wagon drivers for reckless driving. I have noticed on several occasions that they tear around a corner without thinking of who may be crossing the street in front of them, and I often wonder that there are not more accidents. This practice is a very dangerous one, especially on King street."

It is expected that several thousand people will be in attendance at this Saengerfest, including the singing clubs of Rochester, Buffalo, Detroit and many other cities. For tickets and information apply to W. E. Ralpin, City Passenger Office, 115 King street.

OLD LONDON LAST NIGHT A CITY OF GREAT UNREST

Seething Turmoil by the Coronation Crowds—Absence of Blatant Horns—The King's Busy Day—Salvation Army to be Represented at the Ceremony.

London, Aug. 8.—The eve of the coronation of King Edward VII. was marked in London by large crowds, which wandered all the evening somewhat aimlessly through the semi-illuminated streets, down Whitehall, where the Canadian arch was the centre of attraction, around Westminster Abbey and along the Strand, where the sidewalks were blocked with the populace. The people were deterred from any signs of rowdiness by the acute recollection of the rescue of a few exceptions it might well have been said of the metropolis of the Empire that it was living up to the national reputation of taking its pleasures somewhat sadly. The absence of blatant horns and annoying features was pleasantly atoned for by the lighting up of many buildings. The brilliancy of the illumination held the country visitors to the city so spellbound that vehicular traffic became more and more difficult as the night wore on.

Until a very late hour the stand speculators did a thriving business and around those stands occupying good locations there were lines of people anxious to get seats at the last moment. Many of the thousands exhibited unmistakable signs of intention to sit up all night in the hope of securing a free coin of vantage from which to view the coronation procession. Workmen were still busy putting the finishing touches to the Abbey and its approaches, and every detail of this work was watched eagerly by the spectators.

In an undramatic sort of way London has been transformed by the multitudes wishing to see any part of the coronation in a city of great unrest. The idea of sleep or an adequate allowance of time for rest has been quite given up by the people in the streets and underlying this intensity of expectation there is a nervousness among the majority that they should avoid the uniform that shortens slumbers to find the great event once more postponed. Among the many incidents of the night, one of the most curious occurred at Westminster Abbey, where a Scotch magnate, who had received a sudden telegraphic invitation to be present at Westminster Abbey with the proviso that he appear in court dress, appealed to a late hour to the police to help him or borrow the clothes necessary for admittance.

All signs point to an orderly celebration under doubtful weather conditions. The public enthusiasm tempered by heartfelt relief over the passage of the shadow which so recently overcast the Empire. King Edward passed a busy day at Buckingham Palace, and did not appear to the public at all. At a late hour to-night he was reported as feeling quite strong, and as looking forward to tomorrow's ceremonies without the slightest misgivings.

Acting upon medical advice, Lord Salisbury has obtained the King's permission to absent himself from the coronation. The ex-Premier will shortly leave for the continent.

One of the most curious incidents of the coronation will be the appearance of the uniform of the Salvation Army in Westminster Abbey. A representative of the Salvation Army should be invited to the coronation, and Bramwell Booth has been appointed to attend the ceremony. Mr. Booth, thereupon wrote to King Edward requesting permission to wear the uniform of the Army, and His Majesty readily gave consent. Mr. Booth will appear in the uniform of his rank of the Salvation Army.

London, Aug. 8.—Mr. Chamberlain and the Canadian ministers have arranged to meet the tenderers for the fast service at the Colonial Office next week, to discuss the subsidy question. It is authoritatively denied that any tender has yet been accepted.

Surprise is expressed that the Canadian commercial bodies are giving no lead to the Canadian and British ministers here to the urgent necessity for securing a higher grade of service. Well informed people declare Canada never will secure the best, that is to say a 22 or 23-cent rate, unless she makes a push for it now while the influence of the shipping trust is felt, and the question is before the British Cabinet.

A former Canadian Premier, interviewed today, ridiculed the idea that the Canadian statesmen were frightened that the Canadian Pacific would obtain too strong a grip on Canada. He said: "The Canadian Pacific treated us very well, and the result of the Canadian Pacific would meet Canada's fullest requirements if the services were allotted to them."

A BRITISH ATLANTIC SERVICE. London, Aug. 8.—The House of Lords adjourned today to Oct. 10. In response to inquiries just prior to the adjournment as to whether the government was taking steps looking to the establishment of a British Atlantic steamship service, after the absorption of British lines by the American combination, Lord Onslow, Under Colonial Secretary, said the question of a new Canadian service had nothing to do with the American combination. Certain proposals had been submitted to the Canadian Government, but the latter had not informed His Majesty's government of their purpose or asked assistance. The question of the establishment of a British service, however, was receiving the earnest attention of the government. If such a line were established it would be necessary to come to Parliament for money, and then complete details would be given out. It would be unwise at present to communicate the negotiations.

Much has been said in praise of the excellent service given patrons of the Grand Trunk by the many cafe and dining cars, which are now run on all principal day trains serving meals. "A la carte" at any hour during the day. The best of everything at reasonable rates. Tickets, parlor car reservations, etc., at city office.

SATCHEL

OF THE SATELLITE

I declare that I wish the summer would come.

I think somebody has let a rain maker loose around here.

The roads in the country are better than the roads in the city.

Dead men can't shoot and run. Therefore American deputy sheriff's caught Tracy.

The "local showmen" still continue to find Chatham the most attractive place on earth.

Tracy had his good points after all. He preferred to save the State the cost of a trial.

If that dentist man Russell for fish stories, he may catch Vitel Goudreau yet.

He who has seen a woman throw a stone will marvel how a woman can play baseball.

Mayor Sulman says his $20 panama was made under water and he doesn't care if it does swim.

"As good as the wheat" in Blue Ruin John Lee's constituency is not as good as it might be.

If you find a button in the Bank of Montreal, you may be pretty sure it is a bachelor button.

Said a visitor at Erieau—I can't understand what makes the front end of the row boats stand so far out of the water these starry nights.

The Bank of Montreal evidently doesn't believe in life contracts. Sixty days at seven per cent. is their size.

The assessors are now instructed to ask "Are you a married man or a Bank of Montreal clerk?"—Hamilton Spectator.

I don't think the man had much of a "head on" who used a cut showing boats in a "head on" collision both going the same way.

That girl in the Planet story is our own. She is a "Girl of the People." We are the people, therefore, but you can see it quite plainly.

If Chatham had indulged in an Old Boys Reunion this summer business would have been stopped in the majority of the larger cities in America.

The earthquakes in California are making the people shake. That's nothing, they used to shake here too in early days before the time of drains.

John Lee, M. P., P., says that The Planet is the "Lion" sheet. We knew it all the time. We are glad, however, that Blue Ruin John has made the discovery.

The Banner's special artist must be cross-eyed. His picture of the two boats in a "head on" collision off Rond Eau, showed both boats going the same way.

The Banner has a patent ever-ready cut. It has ready made clothing pocketed. This valuable cut may be used to show a coal hoist, a regatta or a head on collision.

No, Dear Cousin, "I am wired," was not an expression used by a house newly fitted with electric lights but it was the plaintive wail of a youth inveigled into a game of croquet.

I move that Mr. Brackin's friends wait on him and induce the Principal of McKintosh school not to retire at the end of the year. He is too good a Principal to lose and he cannot be replaced.

If those bank clerks who footed it in from Blenheim last Friday night had only belonged to the Bank of Montreal one would be sure that their walk wasn't a wedding march. They were Standa's herd, that's why they walked so well.

The tenants in the Eberts block expect to get their sidewalk about the year 1905. Strange to say, they are already tired of the temporary affair laid to carry them through last winter and spring. The Board of Works will no doubt lay the walk as soon as summer comes. The summer has been long expected, but hasn't arrived yet.

There is a little change in the Satellite column, but there is none in the repertoire of the phonograph that annoys this office from the regions across the street. I wish they would turn the muzzle of their machine the other way and annihilate the people over the river. They must have learned by this time that we are in the market. Had we not been we would have been dead long ago.

The Thirteenth Band doesn't attend tournaments. There is no other band in Canada in its class.—Hamilton Spectator. The eye glass man have added to that "or wants to be." Any village band, if it desired, could quit practice and in about a year would be in fit form to compete in a tournament with the Thirteenth Band. Now, if the Hamilton Spec. man wants to hear real music from a good band, he should come to Chatham and listen to the 24th Regiment. On second thoughts, he hadn't better. He would go home so disgusted with his own unlucky-numbered aggregation of alleged

Everything for Summer Wear

From crown to toe—everything a civilized man wears is here except shoes.

Most garments sold in the store are made in our own factory. Well made they must be, or the factory would not have grown so steadily from a small beginning—would not be able to pay the best wages, and provide spacious, airy workrooms for its employees—but these things go with good work as naturally as growth goes with sunshine.

Other lines of garments and furnishings we buy, but our own ideas—and yours—are often worked into them. When you think of it, it takes about as much technical knowledge to buy right as to make the article yourself.

Between making and buying this store has gathered for you the finest all-round collection of summer wear that Chatham men have ever been invited to choose from. If a thing is seasonable, sensible and stylish we're showing it. Test us.

musicians that he wouldn't henceforth give them the slight encouragement of an audience of one.

Bowling beneath the dazzle of electric lights always had its charm for some people.

It's a wonder the Banner readers don't feel cut up over that ready-made cut. It looks decidedly homemade.

Miss Nellie Bear married Arthur Blaine in Toronto on Thursday. This is evidently a case of Blaine taking to Bear.

The bowlers are putting up electric lights so they can bowl at night. They will not be the first by any means who have tried that.

The only admirable quality I can see in Tracy is that he kept his word and died with his boots on, only he didn't do so soon enough.

If this coal strike keeps on it will be cheaper to buy the diamonds that glitter than to purchase coal. There are one or two diamonds in Chatham that ought to keep their owners warm in an emergency.

If the reception committee—self appointed to meet the boat—gets much larger special arrangements will have to be made for disembarking the passengers on the opposite side of the river.

THOSE RAINS AGAIN. It will be horrible if the sewers should go on strike for working overtime without extra pay.
