

"For Tea You Can't Beat Lipton's"

It is the Whole Truth Briefly Told. It is the Reason for the Enormous Sales of

LIPTON'S TEA

Over 2 Million Packages Sold Weekly.

PRINCE TO JOIN HUSSARS

TRADITIONS OF THE FAMOUS REGIMENT.

Had Its Origin Under a Warranty Issued on July 29, 1715.

The King has just constituted himself colonel-in-chief of the 10th Hussars, and it is understood that this regiment will have the honor once more of bearing the name of the Prince of Wales on its muster roll, says the London Daily Mail.

The King has just constituted himself colonel-in-chief of the 10th Hussars, and it is understood that this regiment will have the honor once more of bearing the name of the Prince of Wales on its muster roll, says the London Daily Mail.

THE BADGE OF WALES.

The badge is, of course, the ancient badge of Wales, while the three ostrich feathers forming the plumes are traced to Queen Philippa, the mother of the Black Prince, who wore them as an appanage of the House of Hainault.

The appointment of George Prince of Wales to be colonel commandant of the regiment in 1793 was at his own special request, and was wholly agreeable to the wishes of the King and Queen, and three years later, on the promotion of Sir William Pitt to the colonelcy of the 1st Dragoon Guards, the Prince of Wales was appointed colonel of the 10th.

THE ROYAL COLONEL.

Forty-one years were to elapse, and the regiment, which had done noble service in the Peninsula and at Waterloo, was to receive some further hard knocks in the Crimea and India before another Prince of Wales was qualified by age to head the officers' roll. On April 9, 1903, Albert Edward Prince of Wales was gazetted to the command of the 10th Hussars, and until the day of his death took the keenest personal interest in every detail connected with the welfare of the regiment.

On many occasions the august colonel led the regiment past the saluting point at reviews, he subscribed to all its funds, he never neglected an opportunity of visiting it in barracks and of being present at the various sports and festivities which it organized or in which it took part, he always attended the annual dinners when the regiment was at home, and in 1872,

ROYAL CHEFS OF EUROPE

ONE FIELD IN WHICH FRENCH IDEAS ARE DOMINANT.

The German Emperor's About the Only Court Without a French Chef.

King George V., like his father, never allows a royal menu to be published. If one does appear anywhere it is against his wish. The late King Edward thought that the ranking public of royal menus savored of ostentation, and his son shares this prejudice.

King George's new chef is a Frenchman, Henri Codard, who succeeds another Frenchman, M. Menager. The latter had a salary of $10,000 a year, and after twenty-five years in the royal service had become head of the kitchen of the new Royal Automobile Club in Pall Mall.

The most highly reputed royal kitchens in Europe are those at Windsor Castle. They were established there seven centuries ago under the arches of the castle and have been adapted to modern needs. They are very handsome. While those in Buckingham Palace are white tiled, the Windsor kitchens are paneled in black oak, a work carried out by George III. at a cost of $80,000.

For cooking purposes, there are about 200 pans and pans for roasting, and five men are employed to do but keep them in order. These pans and pans always are worth $10,000.

VALUABLE GOLD PLATE.

The gold plate which belongs to the British sovereigns is of immense value. Ordinarily it is kept in a safe set in walls three feet thick and always guarded by police. There are dishes bearing the arms of the Tudor King. Others form part of the treasure of Tipu Sahib, the famous Indian chieftain.

GREAT POWER FROM THE SUN

Enough Energy for World's Work Now Going to Waste. Professor Sir J. J. Thompson delivered the first of a series of addresses on "Radiant Energy and Matter" at the Royal Institution, London, a few days ago.

WORDS OF WISDOM.

More than half the cares of life are of anticipation. We can persuade ourselves of something quicker than we can persuade anybody else. We were not meant to be always happy; and the best thing do not endure. People are apt to despise what they are unable to appreciate. One of the great mistakes of the past has been to suppose that any woman with a little good-will on her part and a deal of good nature on her part of her partner can set up a satisfactory home.

ROYAL CHEFS OF EUROPE

ONE FIELD IN WHICH FRENCH IDEAS ARE DOMINANT.

The German Emperor's About the Only Court Without a French Chef.

King George V., like his father, never allows a royal menu to be published. If one does appear anywhere it is against his wish. The late King Edward thought that the ranking public of royal menus savored of ostentation, and his son shares this prejudice.

King George's new chef is a Frenchman, Henri Codard, who succeeds another Frenchman, M. Menager. The latter had a salary of $10,000 a year, and after twenty-five years in the royal service had become head of the kitchen of the new Royal Automobile Club in Pall Mall.

The most highly reputed royal kitchens in Europe are those at Windsor Castle. They were established there seven centuries ago under the arches of the castle and have been adapted to modern needs. They are very handsome. While those in Buckingham Palace are white tiled, the Windsor kitchens are paneled in black oak, a work carried out by George III. at a cost of $80,000.

For cooking purposes, there are about 200 pans and pans for roasting, and five men are employed to do but keep them in order. These pans and pans always are worth $10,000.

VALUABLE GOLD PLATE.

The gold plate which belongs to the British sovereigns is of immense value. Ordinarily it is kept in a safe set in walls three feet thick and always guarded by police. There are dishes bearing the arms of the Tudor King. Others form part of the treasure of Tipu Sahib, the famous Indian chieftain.

GREAT POWER FROM THE SUN

Enough Energy for World's Work Now Going to Waste. Professor Sir J. J. Thompson delivered the first of a series of addresses on "Radiant Energy and Matter" at the Royal Institution, London, a few days ago.

WORDS OF WISDOM.

More than half the cares of life are of anticipation. We can persuade ourselves of something quicker than we can persuade anybody else. We were not meant to be always happy; and the best thing do not endure. People are apt to despise what they are unable to appreciate. One of the great mistakes of the past has been to suppose that any woman with a little good-will on her part and a deal of good nature on her part of her partner can set up a satisfactory home.

Used in Canadian homes to produce delicious home-made bread, and a supply is always included in Sportsmen's and Campers' Outfits. Decline all imitations. They never give satisfaction and cost just as much.

MADE IN CANADA

ROYAL YEAST CAKES

MOST PERFECT MADE

DEVIL BY CHOICE WAS SHE.

Princess Hashi Made a Good Job of it Many Years Ago. It is not often that a woman elects to become a devil when in the estimation of her friends she is not one by nature, but the Princess Hashi once made this choice with satisfying results.

So long did she feed upon the fruit of these dark humors that at last she determined to beseech the gods to give her the power of a demon so that she might plague the people she disliked. During many days and dark nights she knelt before the shrine at Kibuna, making supplication.

BY THE ROADSIDE.

President Fallieres of the French Republic is all for his own Gascon dishes. He quarrelled with the great Elysee chef, M. Tesson, because the latter would not put garlic into some of the dishes at a state banquet or introduce the President's local viands.

Now a woman cook serves in his place. It is said that when M. Fallieres goes to his vineyards in Lousillon he has one great feast on garlic soup; but it is also said that he is the author of a recipe for a salmi of woodcock which is the joy of his friends.

RE-INTERMENT IN CRETE.

Where People Wash the Bones of Their Ancestors. For the last 3,000 or 4,000 years the practice of re-interment has obtained in Crete, says Professor C. H. Hawes in the Wide World Magazine.

NO RESEMBLANCE.

"Now, Nora," said the departing physician to the Irish girl, who was nursing a bad case of fever, if the patient sees snakes again, give him a dose of this medicine. I shall be in again at six.

CUT RATHER LOW.

"Do you notice how the color of this dress matches my eyes?" "Yes, and I also notice how the out of it matches that sore throat you have."

SPRING SKIN TROUBLES.

Pimples, Eruptions and "Spotty Complexions." At this season, scores of people—girls and young women especially—have their faces disfigured by pimples, dark spots, eruptions, etc. The skin needs attention—needs refreshing after the trying time it has passed through during the winter.

Just think what it has done through! You have been out in rain and sleet and snow. You have been at one moment perspiring from heating, or some other exertion when you have stood to "cool off." You have spent hours of the day in doors at a temperature equal to summer heat. Then you have sewared up your skin—except your face—and gone out into a temperature away below zero! No wonder that, with all these changes, the skin of the face and neck shows signs of needing attention.

ODD FACTS ABOUT DUST.

Four Thousand Million Particles of it in a Puff of Smoke. Dust would not be possible were it not for the fact that matter is almost indefinitely divisible. It has been estimated that an average puff of smoke from a cigarette contains about four thousand millions of particles of dust.

A single grain of indigo will give color to a ton of water; of course, says Popular Mechanics, a drop of this water must contain an immense number of ultra-microscopic particles of indigo. A few grains of fluorescein, a substance derived from coal tar, will produce a distinct fluorescence, shining with a yellowish green light when strongly illuminated, in a hundred tons of water. To produce this result the fluorescein must be divided into countless billions of particles.

* DEBTLESS KING.

King George One of Few Monarchs With That Record. George V. is one of the very few monarchs who have ever ascended a throne without a penny of debt, says Harper's Weekly. He will have, therefore, no need, and will certainly have no inclination, to surround himself with the German Jewish capitalist set with whom King Edward rather too openly mingled.