

THE CHIEF CHARM OF LOVELY WOMAN

Soft, Clear, Smooth Skin Comes With The Use Of "FRUIT-A-TIVES"

NORAH WATSON
86 Drayton Ave., Toronto.
Nov. 10th, 1915.

A beautiful complexion is a handsome woman's chief glory and the envy of her less fortunate rivals. Yet a soft, clear skin—glowing with health—is only the natural result of pure blood.

"I was troubled for a considerable time with a very unpleasant, disgusting rash, which covered my face and for which I used applications and remedies without relief. After using 'Fruit-a-tives' for one week, the rash is completely gone. I am deeply thankful for the relief and in the future, I will not be without 'Fruit-a-tives'."

"WHY CONSCRIPTION?"

The boys in the trenches were a friendly lot. Billy's Platoon came from the same little town in far-away Canada. They had known each other quite well in the homeland, but months of training and fighting together had ripened that neighbourly acquaintanceship into a brotherly affection that only exists between comrades who have side by side withstood the death storm of the battlefield. When a letter came from a mother, sweetheart or friend at home, bringing news of the "doings about the old burg," it was considered, after its perusal by the owner, as the property of the Platoon, and was eagerly read and passed from hand to hand until well-nigh worn out in the process.

Billy had a girl—a dear, good girl—in the far-away home town, whom many of Billy's present pals had, when at home, tried in vain to win, for her affections centred on Billy, and her letters were always considered a special treat by the platoon because of their breezy newsy items and the deep touches of tenderness here and there. Lately for some unexplained reason these longed for letters had ceased to come so often, much to the disappointment of poor fighting Billy and the Platoon as well.

All the boys had enlisted as Privates (it was at the beginning of the war before so many young seventeen-year-olds had come to consider that only an officer's job was good enough) and until yesterday the platoon sergeant had been a well trained old Imperial soldier who had left the English service and was farming in Canada when the war broke out, but who, poor chap, had been picked off early in the morning and buried last night "behind the trench in a shell hole," and Billy had been chosen in his stead. Before he died the old grizzled warrior of many an Indian frontier raid had bequeathed Billy his stripes, saying "take 'em, mate, I'm all in, and the Cap. will pick you, I know, and stripes are scarce 'round Wipers." The "Cap" had made Billy Platoon Sergeant and the boys were delighted. Billy was longing for a few spare minutes so that he might write home to Mabel and tell her all about it.

Since Billy had gone, Mabel had become lonesome and to cheer her up a bit Billy's chum had taken her out now and then in his new car. Charlie had not yet "made up his mind" about enlisting. The car-rides became more frequent, letters to Billy less frequent, and finally Mabel and Charlie decided that "if a chap really loved a girl he would not leave her and go away to fight in a strange country, but would wait until Canada was attacked and fight for her then." She changed her mind, and so it was that the last letter was written to Billy, telling him how sorry she was about it all, but her love for Charlie was so great that she must break off the engagement, and then—"Charlie would never leave me alone and deserted in the world."

The letter came with the rations. 'Twas raining tonight in "No Man's Land" and Billy with a patrol had gone out to find a weak spot in the Boche entanglements. A strong German patrol had ambushed Billy's little force and wiped it out. Billy, with a bullet through the lung, crawled back to safety. Billy's comrades gathered round. They tried to comfort him with words of encouragement—they knew he could not live—they wept and cursed in turns. His rambling thoughts carried him back to Canada. He talked of the sweetheart he would not see again. Why had she not written for so long a time? Had she so soon forgotten—had her love grown cold? Charlie, his chum, could tell him. He called to Charlie over the sea. Mabel would not come. Charlie would not answer. His fast-glazing eyes filled with tears. The Corporal found the letter and pressed it into his hands. He tried to open it, but failed. A comrade offered to help, but Billy said "me first, always," and they did not urge him farther. Billy, his face wreathed in happiness, and forgetting his pain in the wave of youthful love that filled his heart, answered the last call. They buried him beside the English Platoon Sergeant, "back of the trench in a shell hole." They opened the letter to read the news from home—for it was platoon property now. "Charlie would never leave me alone and deserted in the world." They shuddered at the sentiment, and again cursed and wept in turns. But then, Thank God, he had not known. "It ain't a fair deal," said Corporal Brown. "They all should have to fight the same. If Charlie had been doin'

GIVE "SYRUP OF FIGS" TO CONSTIPATED CHILD

Delicious "Fruit Laxative" can't harm tender little Stomach, liver and bowels.

Look at the tongue, mother! If coated, your little one's stomach, liver and bowels need cleansing at once. When peevish, cross, listless, doesn't sleep, eat or act naturally, or is feverish, stomach sour, breath bad; has sore throat, diarrhoea, full of cold, give a teaspoonful of "California Syrup of Figs," and in a few hours all the foul, constipated waste, undigested food and sour bile gently moves out of its little bowels without griping, and you have a well, playful child again. Ask your druggist for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which contains full directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups.

A Job Half Done

A village ratepayer writes: About a month ago a man was ordered to clear the loose rocks off the roads in the neighborhood of the village—a very necessary work. The stones were raked to the sides of the roads. There they remain yet, what have not been scattered again. Why weren't they hauled away at the time? A job done like this is just money wasted.

END STOMACH TROUBLE, GASES OR DYSPEPSIA

"Fape's Diapiesin" makes Sick, Sour, Gassy Stomachs surely feel fine in five minutes.

The Racking Pains of Sciatic Rheumatism

Were Well-nigh Unbearable—After Five Years of Suffering Cure Was Effected by Dr. Chase's Medicines.

For downright excruciating pain few ailments can be compared to sciatic rheumatism. Since this condition of the sciatic nerve denotes exhaustion of the nervous system, the logical cure is found in the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food to nourish the exhausted nerves back to health and vigor.

Reports are continually coming in to us regarding the splendid results obtained in the treatment of sciatic rheumatism by using Dr. Chase's Nerve Food after each meal and Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills occasionally as a means of arousing the action of the liver, kidneys and bowels and thereby keeping the system freed of pain causing poisonous impurities.

Mr. W. J. Talbot, Edenwood, Sask., writes:—"It is a great pleasure for me to recommend Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills and Nerve Food as a cure for Sciatic Rheumatism. The pain I have suffered has been well-nigh unbearable. It would attack the hips and run down the legs to the toes, gradually getting worse. The nerves contract until one is practically useless. My doctor tried many different treatments, but could only afford relief for a time.

"For about five years I was subject to this trouble with severe attacks which would last about two months. The last attack I had was shortened to two weeks by the use of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills and Nerve Food. This treatment was continued until I was satisfied that the cure was lasting."
