

13,000 WORD QUERY FOR MEDICAL MEN.

Senator Brown Declared That His Wife Had Been a Curse to Him.

Mrs. Bradley Trusted Brown Just as the People of Utah Had.

Washington, Nov. 22.—The trial of Mrs. Bradley was resumed to-day at 10.10 a. m. Albert A. Barnes, Assistant Attorney-General of Utah, who was on the stand yesterday for the defense, continued his testimony. Judge Powers, counsel for Mrs. Bradley, stated soon after the trial commenced that the expert testimony probably would not be begun until Monday. The hypothetical question that will be propounded to the medical men has been completed. It embraces 13,000 words. It is expected that the examination of all the other witnesses for the defense will be concluded to-day, and that an adjournment will then be taken until Monday. Barnes said he had told Mrs. Bradley, after a conversation with Senator Brown, that it was his opinion that Brown did not intend to marry her. Mrs. Bradley was much agitated and depressed. Judge H. P. Henderson, formerly law partner of Senator Brown, testified to several interviews with Mrs. Bradley in one of which he had warned her to stay away from his office. He also told of an effort by both Mrs. Bradley and Mr. Brown to get the Senator sign a statement in order that a divorce might be procured. Judge Henderson, referring to the relations between Senator Brown and his wife, declared that Brown had said to his wife, in the presence of himself and Mrs. Bradley, that Mrs. Brown had been a curse to him, and that he would not resume relations with her. Judge Henderson also testified that Mrs. Bradley had said to him she would be blamed for everything, and that Brown would escape. She declared that she trusted Brown just as the whole people of Utah had done, while giving him the highest office they had. A recess at 12.30 o'clock was taken, with Lyman H. Shrewsbury, an uncle of Mrs. Bradley, on the stand. His testimony showed insanity in Mrs. Bradley's family.

CONTRACTOR CONTRIBUTED TO BOTH GRIT AND TORY FUNDS.

One Witness Discovers How Electors Voted--- Man Who Helped Both Sides.

Toronto, Ont., Nov. 22.—(Special.)—“Where did the money come from?” was the question which the Crown had to solve in the trial of the alleged London conspirators this morning. It was sworn that Mr. James A. Corry contributed to Reid $300 for use during the London by-election, the money to be used for legitimate expenses. Alex. Milne acted as deputy returning officer in a London election. He was told to see the ballots of the electors and ascertain how they voted. He discovered the way in which about fifty men cast their votes. The Crown prosecutor wanted to know if the witness folded the ballots so that he could see the marks on them. Witness could not say whether that was part of Collins' lesson. Mr. Staunton reminded the witness that he showed the magistrate in the police court how he did his work. Milne replied that if he did so it was true. To the judge, Milne said that he told what he knew about the ballot to either Mr. Sifton or Mr. Ardy. He communicated with them immediately after the election. A contribution of $300 was given toward the Liberal fund in the by-election of 1905 by Mr. Jas. A. Corry, of Ottawa. He had a contract near Port Huron, and passed through London during the election. While there he saw Mr. Reid. “Did you help the election along?” A. —No. “Didn't you offer any assistance?” A. —No. After a little more pressing, Mr. Corry said that he gave $300 to Mr. Reid. He intended the cash to be used for legitimate expenses, and did not know whether the court would look upon that as “helping along” the election. “Did you think the people in London needed charity?” A.—Well, hardly. “Who told you to give it? Mr. Reid?” A.—I do not remember. “What was said when you gave it to him?” A.—Nothing. To Mr. McEvey the witness said that he had also contributed to Conservative funds. He was impartial and supported the government in power. Ernest A. Larmouth, of the Reform Association of Ottawa, was in London during the by-election. He handled no cash, and simply went up for a short holiday. Two Crown witnesses, James White and Chas. Higerty, both of whom were Ottawa Liberals, could not be present, and Judge Winchester allowed Mr. Staunton to put in the evidence given by them at the Police Court. Two other witnesses for whom the Crown had issued subpoenas did not appear, Mr. Staunton said that he knew one of them arrived in the city. “You had better make enquiries of the police,” suggested Judge Winchester. “I believe that several of your witnesses have come before the Magistrate.” “It is fortunate that you have a good police force here or we would have been short of more witnesses who spent the night in the city,” replied Mr. Staunton. “But there seems to be a prejudice against outside drunks.” At the suggestion of the Crown Prosecutor, the court adjourned until eleven o'clock Monday morning.

CLOTHING TALK.

Grafton & Co. Give Advice to Prospective Buyers.

The big stock of men's clothing is now complete at Grafton & Co.'s, and the present time is most opportune to buy a fall suit or overcoat. Grafton & Co.'s unrivalled position challenges competitors to equal the values they give. Buying the materials in large quantities, their garments are constructed by experts at their own factory and handed to the customer direct. The strong argument advanced by Grafton & Co. is that the clothing man who has not these advantages cannot give the people anything like their values. To-morrow this great firm will demonstrate these bargains by placing on sale regular $22 and $25 overcoats for $18; men's fine suits in winter tweeds, serge, etc., for $10; men's trousers, fashionably cut, for $1.95; boys' suits, worth $5, for $3.50; men's underwear, worth $1.25, for 30c. Capt. J. PROCTOR

THE MAURETANIA AND HER CAPTAIN.

MAURETANIA HINDERED BY STORM AND FOG. Nine or Twelve Hours Behind Lusitania's Best Time---But Makes the Best Record For One Day.

New York, Nov. 22.—Another obstacle in the shape of a dense fog is delaying the new Cunard liner Mauretania, thus farther marring what was confidently expected to be a most successful maiden voyage. Soon after leaving Queenstown last Sunday morning the big steamer ran into a severe storm, which lasted the better part of three days. Terrific head seas and high gales retarded the splendid speed of the vessel, and by the time these conditions changed it was known, by means of the wireless telegraph, that the westward record of the sister ship, the Lusitania, could not be eclipsed on this trip. However, the steamer was put to top speed, and soon balm was offered to those on board when the steamer's run for the fourth day showed 234 knots, thus topping the Lusitania, which took the blue ribbon for the best day's run on the last voyage, by six knots. It was believed that the Mauretania would reach Sandy Hook by daylight on Friday, but this hope was shattered when the Mauretania ran into a dense fog off the New England coast late last night, and speed necessarily had to be materially reduced. The Marine Observer at Sandy Hook reported this morning that the thickest fog in many a day hung over the ocean all along the coast, and that he had looked into a blank wall of white throughout the night. Steamers can only crawl in such weather, so that it will probably be well into the forenoon, at the earliest, before the Mauretania can reach the Sandy Hook light. Thus she will be from nine to a dozen hours behind the best record of the Lusitania. At Sandy Hook. New York, Nov. 22.—The Mauretania was off Sandy Hook at 9.55 a. m. to-day, and was in communication with the shore stations by wireless. It is believed that the Mauretania reached the lightship by 9.30 a. m., as she was in communication with Signalpost, L. I., in passing that station at 8.30 a. m. A message received from the Mauretania stated that the ship might not reach her dock to-day. High tide is making it absolutely safe to bring the big ship up the bay, but the Mauretania was still fogbound at 9 a. m. when the tide reached its maximum. Prospects were that the ship would have to wait until the next high tide at 9.30 p. m., in which event she may not reach her dock until to-morrow morning.

THE FURLINE

Investigation to be Made into the Cause of the Wreck.

Toronto, Nov. 22.—(Special.)—An official investigation into the loss of the Provincial fisheries protection cruiser Furline will be commenced before Commander Spain, Dominion Wreck Commissioner, on Tuesday morning at the Parliament building. The vessel, which was purchased by the Ontario Government for $10,000, was totally wrecked about a month ago on its first trip. It struck a sunken crib at the entrance to Goderich harbor.

WAS NOT THERE.

Louis Levi States His Connection With the Case.

Louis Levi, iron and metal dealer, who is out on bail on a charge of complicity in the theft of copper wire from Woodman Bros., denies that he was with the four men on the morning of the robbery or at any time prior to the arrest of the quartette at his father's place of business. He says he was in the office at the shop, when the wagon load of stuff was brought in. He stepped out to weigh the load, when the constables felled him with their batons. He said he was rendered unconscious, and will see if the courts will uphold such treatment by the police.

Messrs. McClelland & Bicknell, acting on behalf of E. R. Clark and others, have issued a writ against H. J. Crawford, T. B. Gregory and P. J. The action arises over the organization of a stock company and the sale of certain lands in the city of Hamilton to the new company, of which the defendants were to be stockholders. The same firm has also issued a writ in the County Court on behalf of Ernest Wayley, of Glanford, against R. S. Lang & Co. and William Collins & Son, Toronto, for recovery of $134,000 for apples sold and delivered to the defendants. On behalf of Richard Taafe, Martin Malone has issued a writ in the County Court for $250 damages against the Hamilton Street Railway Company, for injuries received. When Barrow stiffens his backbone there is no backdown, and little back talk either. He takes nothing back. Nor is his backward in backing up against his backbones.

Now let us all help along the mountain park scheme, and help save its face.

I am sorry to see by the London conspiracy trial that some alleged Grits have been learning Tory tricks.

The ad. writers occupy considerable space in the paper to-day. Something for everybody.

The aldermen talk about money by-laws just as if they had the Bank of England at their back.

Yes. There was quite a string to Whitney's promise.

Lest we forget it might be mentioned that quarrying is still going on in the face of the mountain.

The York Loan money would come in handy for Christmas. A small dividend would be acceptable.

Then there is another question that might be asked, has the sanducker the union label?

Have you had your snow shovel's teeth sharpened?

Score one for Chief Smith. He made the two arrests without using his baton.

Wouldn't it be great if they could muzzle the Times? Great for the grafters.

Will somebody please read the riot act or the power act or something to Adam Beck.

Talking of the ballot, Pritchett knew how to switch it.

But I haven't heard of anybody getting up a petition for Sunfield's release.

Some prominent Tories say Mr. Barker is not as strong a man as he was four years ago. Getting weaker all the time.

As a supporter of the Whitney Government, the Herald lays it all over the Spec. It's quite an "organ" now.

So Adam Beck, after all, didn't know what he was talking about. We thought as much.

THE SHRIEKING SISTERHOOD.

WOMEN SUFFRAGISTS PLAN TO SPOIL LIBERAL MEETINGS.

Cabinet Ministers Their Special Victims—Rowdiness at Meetings—Numbers of the Women Ejected From Meetings at Leeds and Glasgow.

London, Nov. 21.—With the resumption of the political campaign which is now in full swing, "The Shrieking Sisterhood," as the women suffragists have commonly come to be known, are actively pursuing their threatened plan of upsetting all Liberal meetings. Gatherings at which members of the Cabinet are to speak are especially selected by them. The victims last week were Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman, the Premier, and Herbert H. Asquith, Chancellor of the Exchequer. Both these speakers have difficulty in getting a hearing, their meeting being attended by serious disorders. Last night Herbert Gladstone, Secretary of State for Home Affairs, and David Lloyd George, President of the Board of Trade, speaking respectively at Leeds and Glasgow, were similarly treated, and a number of the suffragists had to be ejected from the meetings. It is estimated that there are 81,000 brownies in the world and half
