McCARTHY

THE MURDER OF THE O'HARA'S.

Och, sure Major, returned Larry, drawing himself up, 'any one who knows: Larry Calligan wouldn't believe that he had anything to do with such a wicked action. I'm as tond o' fun and fightin' as any o' the boys. I can crack a head wid all the pleasure in life at a fair or a pattern, where tare is nothing, but humor going, but when it's murther, or a rostin' the boys would be afther, sure they know better than to ask Larry Calligan to join them. Ye may take me to Limerick wid ye if ye like, Major, but it will just give me the trouble o' walkin, back again.

The look, the tone, and the air of the speaker had such an appearance of truthfulness that the Major at once believed him. In fact he did not think that Larry could have had connection with the crime at Glencomber. For Adolphus had not seen him at Dan O'Hoolau's, neither had they tracked him up the mountains.

You know nothing of this wholesale murder then,' said Major Yokes, addressing Larry in a less atern tone.

"Merer styn dhramed ov it, and it's mesself that's acry the bould boys have been guilty of such a black action."

Yet you enable their leader to escape from us, remarked the Major.

They not it,' was Larry's candid 'reply,' I did change clothes with Pat, but lie didn't tell me anything about Glencomber. But we needn't speak about that now, it's been ordained that you wasn't to take Pat, and that I was to help him to escape.'

They were now slowly retracing their steps, Larry considering within himself that he need not now hurry, for the cauldron of shoddy would be destroyed. So he ke pt company with the Major and his men. When they came near to the cleft in the rock which formed an entrance to his singular habitation, he hospitably invited them to enter, and partake of the liquor he was fameled for manufacturing.

which formed an entrance to his singular habitation, he hospitably invited them to enter, and partake of the liquor he was famed for manufacturing.

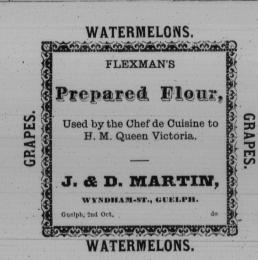

As the men had had a long exhausting chase, as it was extremely cold, and as the evening threatened tybe snowy, the Major accepted the invitation, and they followed Larry one by one into his rocky chamber.

Let us go back for art hour and see what has occurred there since he left it.

No sooner was Larry gone than Pat Kelly adopted his advice and look a long draught at a jug of shoddy which he found in Larry's press. Being also hungry with his long light, he pocketed a quantity of bread and cheese which he likewise found there, and was proceeding cautiously to the entrance to watch the result of Larry's diversion in his
