

who is always watching with his bead-like eye and sinister countenance to get an opportunity to create strife and discord between peaceable people.

A full and clear ventilation of his character is not yet accomplished, and I warn him to lay low. His record in Port Hope is before my earnest gaze, and may yet come to the gaze of an admiring public.

There are other parties who are playing the sneak thief to James Fahey, and I warn them also to lay low, if they want to escape the benefit of some free advertising.

I say that if the mean and disreputable, but still more cowardly "ring," got up with a view of destroying my character, do not cease their expressions concerning me, both private and public, I am determined to make them howl with agony, and in view of which I promise the public some interesting information, when I will show to Town and County the past and present record of the "ring," whose object seems to be the destruction of those who are courageous enough to oppose them.

I am, Mr. Editor, yours very truly,
JOHN FRANCIS MURPHY.
