The Aldine Company is the word which fitly characterizes the illustrations for the September issue of this journal. The pictures are charming in design and faultless in execution. A copy of Bertrand's "Little Rose," drawn by John S. Davis, and engraved by O. Maurand, opens the current number with a flash of beauty almost dazzling. "A Storm in Utah," by Thomas Moran, is a faithful transcript of nature showing the war of the elements in that strange land. The two full-page pictures in this number are "Coming from the Forge," by John S. Davis, and "Kingston, New York," by Kruseman van Elton. Mr. J. D. Woodward furnishes a general view of the Palisades, as seen from the Hudson river—a striking picture. The other illustrations in this number are "A Bad Job," showing the interior of an armorer's shop; "The Women of Schorndorf," a historical picture; three views of Lincoln Cathedral, and a pretty picture for fall—"Gems of the Changing Autumn." The Aldine Company has determined to establish an Art Union, similar to the well-known Art Union in England, and distribute its works of art, both sculpture and paintings, which are constantly collecting among its subscribers. Art premiums, valued at $2,500, will be distributed among each series of 5,000 subscribers. Subscription tickets, at $6.00 each, entitle the holder to the Aldine for a year, to the new chromo, and to a ticket in the distribution of art premiums. The literary contents of the September Aldine are varied and interesting. The editorial articles upon music, art, literature, are filled with fresh and valuable matter. The Aldine Company, publishers, 58 Maiden Lane, New York.

THE EDINBURGH REVIEW.—The July number of this sterling old Quarterly has been received from the Leonard Scott Publishing Company, New York. The articles are all replete with interest, information, and valuable criticism. The first article "Ocean Warfare," is a deeply interesting essay, giving an explanation and description free from technicalities of the new conditions under which naval warfare will be waged, and of the various weapons with which modern fleets are armed. Article II. "The Speaker's Bible," now in course of publication in England, will be of much interest to the Hebrew scholar and student. Article III. "Nasmyth's Physical History of the Moon," will be read by all students of astronomy with avidity. Articles IV., V., and VI. are respectively Motley's "Life and Death of Barneveldt," Hall's "Modern English," and "Canon of Beauty in Greek Art." These are all calculated to interest readers of various tastes, and the other articles are hardly less attractive to the student of history. The "Review" may be obtained at any of the bookstores.

Guelph, August 1st, 1874.

To the Public.

I take this opportunity to let my old friends and customers know that early this Fall I intend opening up one of the most extensive and varied stocks of Staple and Fancy Dry Goods to be seen in Ontario. I have had erected for my own special retail business a most complete arranged store, and from my long experience in the mercantile business, I feel and know that I will present for the inspection of my old patrons and others not only the most choice selection of Fancy Goods, but goods that will in reality be of such a character as to give to the purchaser the most entire satisfaction. The value will form one of the most important features of my establishment; the fact of going direct to the fountain head for my whole stock, and buying all for the ready money, and in addition having no old stock to palm off, is of itself a positive guarantee that my establishment will present inducements to the purchaser that none other in Guelph can approach. I earnestly request my old friends and customers to pay a visit to my establishment, when the old motto that I used for so many years to their advantage will again be adopted, viz: the best goods in the trade at the smallest possible profit. Good goods and Cheap goods. One price and no abatement. No misrepresentations, and the interests of the public doing business with me strenuously watched.

Yours truly,
JOHN HOGG.
