the wane the last few days, and this morning's offerings on the local market were certainly meagre. The price is showing an upward tendency, and 20c to 22c was asked wholesale. The retail price was 23c a box.

The demand for cherries was not very strong today, and neither was the quality of the onerings up to average. With these two facts a drop in price was expected and realized. Smal. baskets were selling at 40c to 50c, while the 11-quart size could be purchased anywhere from 80c to $1.

Tomatoes were prominent on the square today, and in the majority of cases the quality was excellent. Buyers for this variety of vegetable have increased in the last day or two. The price ranges from 65c to 90c for the 11-quart basket

More or less of a depression is still noticeable in the grain market.

No oats have been offered all week, although the market is fair at the present time.

New wheat is bringing $1.25 a bushel, with the demand fairly strong.
