I was attracted by an advertisement of South American Nervine, and as my 'trouble was of a nervous nature I decided to try it. The first bottle helped me greatly. I persisted in its use and this great remedy has completely built up my system, and I positively declare that it is the only remedy that gave me any relief." Sold by S. N. Weare. They were testing a new armour plate. It had successfully resisted shot after shot. "Here," said a bystander, "try this new projectile," and he tossed a cube of dark brown material to the chief gunner. A moment later and the charge passe squarely through the wrecked armor plate. "Have you any more of those remarkable projectiles?" inquired the astonished ordnance "I'll see if I can get a couple of panfuls tomorrow afternoon," replied the stranger with a grim smile. "Saturday is the day we have 'em to burn." "Then they are-" "My wife's Vassar biscuits." By a common impulse the two men s strangely thrown together, clasped hands in cordial sympathy. "I married a Wellesley girl myself," said the ordnance officer. "Have one with me," feelingly remarked states; "I suffered almost continually for 12 years with rheumatism, the effects of which I will carry to my grave, and while the joints at my elbows and wrists are yet stiff I am entirely freed from pain in the use of South American Rheumatic Cure. It has indeed proved a wonderful cure in my case. I have spent thousands of dollars in doctor's bills and medicines without avail. Five bottles of this wonder worker has cured all pain. I am better in health generally than I have been for ten years." states: "I suffered almost continually for been for ten years.'

Then they turned aside and sampled a small bottle of dyspepsia tonic.

Make all the Land Pay.

It is one of the advantages or disadvantages, as the case may be, of renting land, that the man who rents has fully impressed upon him the need of getting full returns from every acre that he pays rent for. If the farm is owned this point is not often thought of. If the farmer gets a living, and if he can lay by a few dollars in the bank at the end of the year, he thinks he is doing all that can be expected. Quite likely this is 3 00 3 00 true in times of low prices, when it is most difficult to make farming pay. But it is not the result at which a farmer should aim. His attempt should be, even if not realized, to get some profit from every acre, and to make his best land produce as large a profit as it is capable of doing. Whenever farmers aim at these purposes they will be able to withstand competitions unless it comes from those whose natural facilities for cheap production are superior to their own.

THE ETIQUETTH OF TO-DAY AS OBSERVED BY OUR ENGLISH COUSINS. rom across the water, it may be of interest to learn the English etiquette of card leaving, which in point of fact differs almost not at

When a lady who calls without her hus she should, after the call is made, leave on of her husband's cards for the hostess' husband if she is married. These cards must be left on the hall table or handed to the servant who opens the door for the caller's exit.

If her husband calls with her and has seen his host and hostess, no card is left. If the has called with his wife leaves a card for home one of the lady's cards must be left and two of her husband's. Exactly the same rule must be observed when the caller lives with an unmarried brother or with a father who left in exactly the same fashion.

When a friend is staying at a neighborhood and a call is made on her, if the caller is acquainted with the people of the house, she leaves her card upon them at her first visit. It is not correct to do so, however, if there is no acquaintance, unless, indeed, the fact of the mutual friendship induces both sides to wish that an acquaintance may be begun.
Girls with invalid or elderly mothers have requently to make calls for them. When this is done, it is usual to say to the hostess, "I must leave my mother's card for you, as she is unable to do her own calling." In the same way, when there are no grown up daughters, a husband is frequently obliged to call for his wife. He should never omit to nake some little remark of the same sort to

A gentleman's visiting card should be like that of his wife in style and engraving, but smaller. His name should appear in the middle-"Mr. Blank" if he is the head of the family, "Mr. John Blank" if he has a father or elder brother living. The prefix should not be omitted, whether that of rank, of civil or professional life. The address should be engraved in the left hand corner of the card at the bottom, and the club ad-dress in the right hand corner. It is with-out excuse if they do not leave cards after an entertainment. A gentleman may leave cards without asking if his acquaintances are house in, and not her husband, he leaves on of his cards in the hall after calling. If both those who can will find it the best r -Good manners ought to belong to all classes of society, to the child of the peasa as to the child of the peer, and, therefore, let no humble mother think that for her little ones they are of no importance, for they are of the greatest, not only because so much of a girl or boy's success in life depends on good manners, but also because the little acts of courtesy and words of kindness, and the refinement which we class together under this comprehensive title, are all important factors increasing the happiness and peace of the home. Some children are naturally gentler and better mannered than others, but even the roughest diamonds may in time be polished, so if mothers do not succeed for a long time in raising the standard of manner to the desired level they should not be too much discouraged. We are creatures of habit, and the very making ourselves behave with unvarying gentleness and courtesy, in spite of natural irritability, will in time discipline us into being at heart more like the ideal we have set before ourselves as perfection.

UNABLE TO ATTEND TO HER DAILY DUTIES

—AND A GREAT SUFFERER FROM HEABT TROUBLE—INDUCED TO TEY DR. AGNEW'S CURE FOR THE HEART, AND IT PROVED A WONDER WORKER. PROVED A WONDER WORKER.

These are the words of Mrs. W. T. Rundle of Dundalk, Out.: "I was a great sufferer with severe pain in the region of my heart. For a time I was quite unable to attend to my household duties. I was induced to try Dr. Agnew's Cure for the Heart, and I must say the result was wonderful. The pain immediately left me, and after the first day I have had no pain or trouble since." Sold by S. In 1874 I saw my mother kneeling in the snow to pray at a saloon door, and I crept out by a side way, stepping softly in the sawdust-ashamed of her. That day's work cost her her life, but the saloan did not even pause, and her only child sped down to the hell of darkness. But that snowset prayer persisted at God's throne through thirteen awful years, and for her importun-ity He could but always hear. And when I would" He spoke to me, and speaks, -and will, on and on-until on some sweet Christ mas eve I find my mother's arms again, and, leaning on her great heart, celebrate the end of the crusade.—John G. The secret of success is to know how to deny yourself. If you once learn to get the whiphand of yourself, that is the hest educator. Prove to me that you can control yourself, and I'll say you're an educated nan; and without this all other education is next to nothing.
