

NOBILITY.

HE is great who doeth daily
Whatsoe'er his duty be,
He is true who dealeth truly,
Though no mortal eye may see.
He alone is surely noble
Who is pure in life and gains,
Though no blood of lord or lady
Ever flowed within his veins.
He is wise whose mind is duly
With the highest wisdom stored,
He is rich who wins approval,
By his fellow-men adored.
He lives long who liveth wisely,
Though from honour fate debars;
And his standard is too lowly
Who has aimed beneath the stars.
