The Maritime Medical News.

The conductors of this Journal have met with every encouragement from the Profession of the three Provinces. As was to be expected the great body of the medical men in these districts appreciated fully the advantage to them personally that must accrue from the liberal and energetic devotion of the Journal to its legitimate sphere of usefulness. We do not now refer so much to the pleasure and profit of reading in our own Journal the writings of our local confreres, and of learning somewhat of the medical "doings" in the different parts of the Provinces; this function of the Journal is valued highly enough by many. But we refer particularly to the improvement in the relations between the medical men on the one hand and

(a) the government (by efficient legislation to suppress unqualified practice and quackery);

(b) the Court of Law (by proper remuneration being given for the skilled professional services rendered the courts by medical men);

(c) the people (by promoting everything that will tend to elevate the status of the Profession and increase the respect in which it is held by the public).

The MARITIME MEDICAL NEWS will not and cannot accomplish these things, but it can render their accomplishment by the Profession possible and early.

The News has already material results wherewith to justify to the Profession its existence; or wherewith to convince the Profession that it is to the interest of the latter that the Journal should exist. It has every promise of a permanent and healthy life.

Some have not realized the value to them of the News, and some have not apparently been appealed to try its peculiar local interest. To such we would respectfully commend our claims.

Of our expressed supporters we would ask that they may see that their friends understood the worth of the News as well and clearly as they themselves.
