The Spring, was now fo far advanced, that March: the Swamps had now in many Places Water on them. Upon the Bank-fides, upon the Shores, and alfo in the Woods, there were many Plats clear of Snow, the Snow was of a greyifh Colour, crifp on the Top, but upon walking on it, funk in with you. The Snow thawing firft next the Earth, occafioned by the Earths natural Warmth, and the Suns Heat which penetrates the Snow, being refracted. If you ftruck the Ice with the But-end of a Gun, or laid a Piece of Iron on the Ice, it would caufe a Hole which would be immediately full of Water.

Upon the twenty-third, we faw feveral darkifh Clouds appearing like rainy Clouds, fuch as we had not feen fince the beginning of Winter. We faw also more of them on the twenty-fourth, which was a fine, pleafant, Sun-fhiny Day, a little-Chill, it thawing all that Day, and having but a fmall Froft at Night. The Morning of the twenty-fifth was fine pleafant Weather; when Captain Smith, with fome of his Officers and Men went Aboard his Ship to remain there. Upon going to the Factory, it appeared that the River was broke up, for twenty Yards under the Factory Shore. In the Afternoon of the twentyfifth there was a thin Fall of Snow or rather Sleet, which felt to the Hands and Face, much like to fmall Drops of Rain.
