

PRESIDENT FORCED INTO COMPROMISE ON PEACE TREATY

But Surrender Comes Too
Late For Advantageous
Bargain.

BY CLINTON W. GILBERT.
Copyright, 1919, by Public Ledger Co.
Washington, Nov. 9.—A settlement of the treaty dispute is now in sight. The president is ready to compromise, the only condition being that the compromise shall not be "destructive" of the treaty.

That is the result reached by Senator Hitchcock at his conference with the president.

The compromise will be somewhere between the lodge reservations and purely interpretative reservations of a very mild sort which in the last analysis will be the basis of the treaty. This is indicated by the program of the Democratic senate leader, who will propose reservations to the treaty such as will be wholly acceptable to the president.

The plan of the Democrats is to go forward to a deadlock and then to seek a compromise out of that deadlock. The deadlock will be reached after the Lodge resolution with reservations is defeated and the two Democratic resolutions, one for the ratification of the treaty without condition and the second for its ratification with such conditions as the president would regard as purely interpretative, also fail.

Republicans Have Advantage.

In the combination that is likely to follow the Republicans will have the advantage of numbers and more compactness. It is almost safe to predict that the final reservations will be much nearer the Lodge reservations than they will be to the Hitchcock reservations to be introduced in final effort to make the Wilson point of view prevail.

The Republicans have gone through the throes of reaching an agreement, and having reached it, they will be more obstinate and more compact than will the Democrats, who represent all shades of opinion about the treaty.

The only weakness of the Republicans is the bitter-ender element in their combination. If these men are earnest about defeating the treaty and sufficient in numbers and if they break away from the Lodge combination when the compromise is in sight, Mr. Hitchcock will be in a very bad position.

But party expediency has come to be the controlling motive among the Republicans and all, with the exception of three or four, will probably be found acting with the chairman of the senate foreign relations committee in all the manoeuvres that lead up to the final compromise, the in the end they may vote against the treaty.

Wilson Forced to Surrender.

From now on a genuine effort to agree upon the treaty will be made. Up to now all of Mr. Lodge's efforts have been directed toward securing together his wild horses and toward forcing what happened today, a surrender on the part of the president.

Vice-President Marshall's ruling yesterday indicated that no parliamentary obstacles would be placed in the way of the treaty. The president's friends are trying to solve whether or not Rowland returned to the stand and made a second trip after driving the women from the stand at 9:20.

The provincial police have offered a reward of $500 to the person who would furnish information that would lead to the arrest of Rowland's assailant.

One of the drivers on the Union Station stand said that he had seen Rowland leave the stand driving a man at 11:20 in the evening. What the detectives are trying to solve is whether or not Rowland returned to the stand and made a second trip after driving the women from the stand at 9:20.

The provincial police have offered a reward of $500 to the person who would furnish information that would lead to the arrest of Rowland's assailant.

One of the drivers on the Union Station stand said that he had seen Rowland leave the stand driving a man at 11:20 in the evening. What the detectives are trying to solve is whether or not Rowland returned to the stand and made a second trip after driving the women from the stand at 9:20.

The provincial police have offered a reward of $500 to the person who would furnish information that would lead to the arrest of Rowland's assailant.

One of the drivers on the Union Station stand said that he had seen Rowland leave the stand driving a man at 11:20 in the evening. What the detectives are trying to solve is whether or not Rowland returned to the stand and made a second trip after driving the women from the stand at 9:20.

The provincial police have offered a reward of $500 to the person who would furnish information that would lead to the arrest of Rowland's assailant.

One of the drivers on the Union Station stand said that he had seen Rowland leave the stand driving a man at 11:20 in the evening. What the detectives are trying to solve is whether or not Rowland returned to the stand and made a second trip after driving the women from the stand at 9:20.

The provincial police have offered a reward of $500 to the person who would furnish information that would lead to the arrest of Rowland's assailant.

One of the drivers on the Union Station stand said that he had seen Rowland leave the stand driving a man at 11:20 in the evening. What the detectives are trying to solve is whether or not Rowland returned to the stand and made a second trip after driving the women from the stand at 9:20.

The provincial police have offered a reward of $500 to the person who would furnish information that would lead to the arrest of Rowland's assailant.

One of the drivers on the Union Station stand said that he had seen Rowland leave the stand driving a man at 11:20 in the evening. What the detectives are trying to solve is whether or not Rowland returned to the stand and made a second trip after driving the women from the stand at 9:20.

HAMILTON

Hamilton, Nov. 9.—This city's total in the Victory Loan campaign now stands at $1,109,950, eighty-five per cent. of the original objective, which was $1,300,000. The new goal is $200,000.

Early opening of negotiations by the Hydro Commission with a view to the acquisition for the province of the Hamilton Power and Transmission Company is predicted.

While on her way to the market on Saturday noon Mrs. Mary Alder, 238 North Macdonald street, dropped dead from heart failure.

After living under five British sovereigns, the death has occurred here of Mrs. James Jolly, 499 South Queen street, in her 33rd year.

Among the visiting clergy here today was Rev. T. McConnell of Belfast, Ireland, who delivered both sermons in St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church.

The first anniversary of the armistice was fittingly observed by the twelve Masonic lodges of this city this afternoon.

Col. Barker, V.C., D.S.O., the noted aviator, was the guest of honor of the Women's Canadian Club yesterday afternoon.

Popular With Burglars.

F. E. Robson, president of the Loblaws stores, speaking to The World last night stated that this is the third store of his that has been entered by burglars during the past week. Early last week the branch store at 1221 West Bloor street was entered by burglars who broke in through the rear door and took away a large quantity of goods.

Mr. Robson remarked that there have been a large number of stores entered recently and in his opinion the majority is the work of young boys.

He did not complain of police protection and remarked Toronto had a clever detective force. Considering there is a shortage of policemen in the city, Mr. Robson is thinking very seriously of approaching a number of storekeepers in the vicinity of where Loblaws shops are located and asking them to get together and hire a night watchman to guard their premises.

By each man paying 50 cents a week, 50 stores men could go in together and pay a night watchman $25 a week to keep a close eye on their stores, he said.

CLUE FOUND IN ROWLAND MURDER

(Continued From Page 1.)

them could not be ascertained. After being questioned she was seized with an epileptic fit and was removed to St. Michael's hospital. A nurse who was kept continually at her bedside, the police fearing that the prisoner might feign sickness in an attempt to escape.

A Clue Furnished.

The clue furnished the police was to the effect that the two women were seen driving east on King street with a party in Rowland's car at 9:20 on the night of the murder.

The informant told the police that Rowland's car went east to either Church or Sherbourne street and then turned north.

One of the drivers on the Union Station stand said that he had seen Rowland leave the stand driving a man at 11:20 in the evening. What the detectives are trying to solve is whether or not Rowland returned to the stand and made a second trip after driving the women from the stand at 9:20.

The provincial police have offered a reward of $500 to the person who would furnish information that would lead to the arrest of Rowland's assailant.

One of the drivers on the Union Station stand said that he had seen Rowland leave the stand driving a man at 11:20 in the evening. What the detectives are trying to solve is whether or not Rowland returned to the stand and made a second trip after driving the women from the stand at 9:20.

The provincial police have offered a reward of $500 to the person who would furnish information that would lead to the arrest of Rowland's assailant.

One of the drivers on the Union Station stand said that he had seen Rowland leave the stand driving a man at 11:20 in the evening. What the detectives are trying to solve is whether or not Rowland returned to the stand and made a second trip after driving the women from the stand at 9:20.

The provincial police have offered a reward of $500 to the person who would furnish information that would lead to the arrest of Rowland's assailant.

One of the drivers on the Union Station stand said that he had seen Rowland leave the stand driving a man at 11:20 in the evening. What the detectives are trying to solve is whether or not Rowland returned to the stand and made a second trip after driving the women from the stand at 9:20.

The provincial police have offered a reward of $500 to the person who would furnish information that would lead to the arrest of Rowland's assailant.

One of the drivers on the Union Station stand said that he had seen Rowland leave the stand driving a man at 11:20 in the evening. What the detectives are trying to solve is whether or not Rowland returned to the stand and made a second trip after driving the women from the stand at 9:20.

The provincial police have offered a reward of $500 to the person who would furnish information that would lead to the arrest of Rowland's assailant.

One of the drivers on the Union Station stand said that he had seen Rowland leave the stand driving a man at 11:20 in the evening. What the detectives are trying to solve is whether or not Rowland returned to the stand and made a second trip after driving the women from the stand at 9:20.

The provincial police have offered a reward of $500 to the person who would furnish information that would lead to the arrest of Rowland's assailant.

One of the drivers on the Union Station stand said that he had seen Rowland leave the stand driving a man at 11:20 in the evening. What the detectives are trying to solve is whether or not Rowland returned to the stand and made a second trip after driving the women from the stand at 9:20.

The provincial police have offered a reward of $500 to the person who would furnish information that would lead to the arrest of Rowland's assailant.

One of the drivers on the Union Station stand said that he had seen Rowland leave the stand driving a man at 11:20 in the evening. What the detectives are trying to solve is whether or not Rowland returned to the stand and made a second trip after driving the women from the stand at 9:20.

The provincial police have offered a reward of $500 to the person who would furnish information that would lead to the arrest of Rowland's assailant.

One of the drivers on the Union Station stand said that he had seen Rowland leave the stand driving a man at 11:20 in the evening. What the detectives are trying to solve is whether or not Rowland returned to the stand and made a second trip after driving the women from the stand at 9:20.

The provincial police have offered a reward of $500 to the person who would furnish information that would lead to the arrest of Rowland's assailant.

One of the drivers on the Union Station stand said that he had seen Rowland leave the stand driving a man at 11:20 in the evening. What the detectives are trying to solve is whether or not Rowland returned to the stand and made a second trip after driving the women from the stand at 9:20.

The provincial police have offered a reward of $500 to the person who would furnish information that would lead to the arrest of Rowland's assailant.

One of the drivers on the Union Station stand said that he had seen Rowland leave the stand driving a man at 11:20 in the evening. What the detectives are trying to solve is whether or not Rowland returned to the stand and made a second trip after driving the women from the stand at 9:20.

The provincial police have offered a reward of $500 to the person who would furnish information that would lead to the arrest of Rowland's assailant.

One of the drivers on the Union Station stand said that he had seen Rowland leave the stand driving a man at 11:20 in the evening. What the detectives are trying to solve is whether or not Rowland returned to the stand and made a second trip after driving the women from the stand at 9:20.

RAZORS FORMED CHINAMAN'S LOOT

Caught in Barber's Store With Nine Hundred Dollars' Worth.

Just graduating from a course in a Toronto barbering school, Mark Sing Soo, aged 22, of 78 Louise street, broke into Jones Brothers, barbers' supply rooms, 21 West Adelaide street, last night. The window in the rear of the store was broken and the Chinaman climbed thru. He had evidently been in the store for over half an hour as he had removed razors from boxes on the shelves and placed them in one large box. He had over $900 worth of razors, strops and hair clipper blades in his possession.

The watchman saw Soo look out of the front door and running along arrested him just inside of the door and held him until Detective McMahon arrived and placed him under arrest on a charge of shopbreaking.

The carrying carrying fireman Larkin is one of the most widely known English-speaking radicals. He had a stormy career in Ireland and England before he came to New York in November, 1914. He has been in this country ever since that time. Recently he has been seeking to return but the British government declined to receive him, as a consequence of which the Dublin unions threatened a strike in protest. He was arrested here in 1917 after an attack on the draft bill, but was discharged.

Larkin is one of the most widely known English-speaking radicals. He had a stormy career in Ireland and England before he came to New York in November, 1914. He has been in this country ever since that time. Recently he has been seeking to return but the British government declined to receive him, as a consequence of which the Dublin unions threatened a strike in protest. He was arrested here in 1917 after an attack on the draft bill, but was discharged.

Larkin is one of the most widely known English-speaking radicals. He had a stormy career in Ireland and England before he came to New York in November, 1914. He has been in this country ever since that time. Recently he has been seeking to return but the British government declined to receive him, as a consequence of which the Dublin unions threatened a strike in protest. He was arrested here in 1917 after an attack on the draft bill, but was discharged.

Larkin is one of the most widely known English-speaking radicals. He had a stormy career in Ireland and England before he came to New York in November, 1914. He has been in this country ever since that time. Recently he has been seeking to return but the British government declined to receive him, as a consequence of which the Dublin unions threatened a strike in protest. He was arrested here in 1917 after an attack on the draft bill, but was discharged.

Larkin is one of the most widely known English-speaking radicals. He had a stormy career in Ireland and England before he came to New York in November, 1914. He has been in this country ever since that time. Recently he has been seeking to return but the British government declined to receive him, as a consequence of which the Dublin unions threatened a strike in protest. He was arrested here in 1917 after an attack on the draft bill, but was discharged.

Larkin is one of the most widely known English-speaking radicals. He had a stormy career in Ireland and England before he came to New York in November, 1914. He has been in this country ever since that time. Recently he has been seeking to return but the British government declined to receive him, as a consequence of which the Dublin unions threatened a strike in protest. He was arrested here in 1917 after an attack on the draft bill, but was discharged.

Larkin is one of the most widely known English-speaking radicals. He had a stormy career in Ireland and England before he came to New York in November, 1914. He has been in this country ever since that time. Recently he has been seeking to return but the British government declined to receive him, as a consequence of which the Dublin unions threatened a strike in protest. He was arrested here in 1917 after an attack on the draft bill, but was discharged.

Larkin is one of the most widely known English-speaking radicals. He had a stormy career in Ireland and England before he came to New York in November, 1914. He has been in this country ever since that time. Recently he has been seeking to return but the British government declined to receive him, as a consequence of which the Dublin unions threatened a strike in protest. He was arrested here in 1917 after an attack on the draft bill, but was discharged.

Larkin is one of the most widely known English-speaking radicals. He had a stormy career in Ireland and England before he came to New York in November, 1914. He has been in this country ever since that time. Recently he has been seeking to return but the British government declined to receive him, as a consequence of which the Dublin unions threatened a strike in protest. He was arrested here in 1917 after an attack on the draft bill, but was discharged.

Larkin is one of the most widely known English-speaking radicals. He had a stormy career in Ireland and England before he came to New York in November, 1914. He has been in this country ever since that time. Recently he has been seeking to return but the British government declined to receive him, as a consequence of which the Dublin unions threatened a strike in protest. He was arrested here in 1917 after an attack on the draft bill, but was discharged.

Larkin is one of the most widely known English-speaking radicals. He had a stormy career in Ireland and England before he came to New York in November, 1914. He has been in this country ever since that time. Recently he has been seeking to return but the British government declined to receive him, as a consequence of which the Dublin unions threatened a strike in protest. He was arrested here in 1917 after an attack on the draft bill, but was discharged.

Larkin is one of the most widely known English-speaking radicals. He had a stormy career in Ireland and England before he came to New York in November, 1914. He has been in this country ever since that time. Recently he has been seeking to return but the British government declined to receive him, as a consequence of which the Dublin unions threatened a strike in protest. He was arrested here in 1917 after an attack on the draft bill, but was discharged.

Larkin is one of the most widely known English-speaking radicals. He had a stormy career in Ireland and England before he came to New York in November, 1914. He has been in this country ever since that time. Recently he has been seeking to return but the British government declined to receive him, as a consequence of which the Dublin unions threatened a strike in protest. He was arrested here in 1917 after an attack on the draft bill, but was discharged.

Larkin is one of the most widely known English-speaking radicals. He had a stormy career in Ireland and England before he came to New York in November, 1914. He has been in this country ever since that time. Recently he has been seeking to return but the British government declined to receive him, as a consequence of which the Dublin unions threatened a strike in protest. He was arrested here in 1917 after an attack on the draft bill, but was discharged.

Larkin is one of the most widely known English-speaking radicals. He had a stormy career in Ireland and England before he came to New York in November, 1914. He has been in this country ever since that time. Recently he has been seeking to return but the British government declined to receive him, as a consequence of which the Dublin unions threatened a strike in protest. He was arrested here in 1917 after an attack on the draft bill, but was discharged.

Larkin is one of the most widely known English-speaking radicals. He had a stormy career in Ireland and England before he came to New York in November, 1914. He has been in this country ever since that time. Recently he has been seeking to return but the British government declined to receive him, as a consequence of which the Dublin unions threatened a strike in protest. He was arrested here in 1917 after an attack on the draft bill, but was discharged.

Larkin is one of the most widely known English-speaking radicals. He had a stormy career in Ireland and England before he came to New York in November, 1914. He has been in this country ever since that time. Recently he has been seeking to return but the British government declined to receive him, as a consequence of which the Dublin unions threatened a strike in protest. He was arrested here in 1917 after an attack on the draft bill, but was discharged.

Larkin is one of the most widely known English-speaking radicals. He had a stormy career in Ireland and England before he came to New York in November, 1914. He has been in this country ever since that time. Recently he has been seeking to return but the British government declined to receive him, as a consequence of which the Dublin unions threatened a strike in protest. He was arrested here in 1917 after an attack on the draft bill, but was discharged.

Larkin is one of the most widely known English-speaking radicals. He had a stormy career in Ireland and England before he came to New York in November, 1914. He has been in this country ever since that time. Recently he has been seeking to return but the British government declined to receive him, as a consequence of which the Dublin unions threatened a strike in protest. He was arrested here in 1917 after an attack on the draft bill, but was discharged.

Larkin is one of the most widely known English-speaking radicals. He had a stormy career in Ireland and England before he came to New York in November, 1914. He has been in this country ever since that time. Recently he has been seeking to return but the British government declined to receive him, as a consequence of which the Dublin unions threatened a strike in protest. He was arrested here in 1917 after an attack on the draft bill, but was discharged.

Larkin is one of the most widely known English-speaking radicals. He had a stormy career in Ireland and England before he came to New York in November, 1914. He has been in this country ever since that time. Recently he has been seeking to return but the British government declined to receive him, as a consequence of which the Dublin unions threatened a strike in protest. He was arrested here in 1917 after an attack on the draft bill, but was discharged.

Larkin is one of the most widely known English-speaking radicals. He had a stormy career in Ireland and England before he came to New York in November, 1914. He has been in this country ever since that time. Recently he has been seeking to return but the British government declined to receive him, as a consequence of which the Dublin unions threatened a strike in protest. He was arrested here in 1917 after an attack on the draft bill, but was discharged.

Larkin is one of the most widely known English-speaking radicals. He had a stormy career in Ireland and England before he came to New York in November, 1914. He has been in this country ever since that time. Recently he has been seeking to return but the British government declined to receive him, as a consequence of which the Dublin unions threatened a strike in protest. He was arrested here in 1917 after an attack on the draft bill, but was discharged.

Larkin is one of the most widely known English-speaking radicals. He had a stormy career in Ireland and England before he came to New York in November, 1914. He has been in this country ever since that time. Recently he has been seeking to return but the British government declined to receive him, as a consequence of which the Dublin unions threatened a strike in protest. He was arrested here in 1917 after an attack on the draft bill, but was discharged.

Larkin is one of the most widely known English-speaking radicals. He had a stormy career in Ireland and England before he came to New York in November, 1914. He has been in this country ever since that time. Recently he has been seeking to return but the British government declined to receive him, as a consequence of which the Dublin unions threatened a strike in protest. He was arrested here in 1917 after an attack on the draft bill, but was discharged.

Larkin is one of the most widely known English-speaking radicals. He had a stormy career in Ireland and England before he came to New York in November, 1914. He has been in this country ever since that time. Recently he has been seeking to return but the British government declined to receive him, as a consequence of which the Dublin unions threatened a strike in protest. He was arrested here in 1917 after an attack on the draft bill, but was discharged.

B RVE ANNIVERSARY A. LEVEN A.M. TUESDAY

Ottawa, Nov. 9.—The following was issued tonight by Sir Geo. Foster, the acting prime minister:

"The government of Canada earnestly requests the people to observe the wishes of His Majesty the King that on the morning of Tuesday, November 11 at the hour of 11 o'clock there be a suspension of normal activities for the space of two minutes and that for this brief space the thoughts of everyone be concentrated in reverent memory upon the deeds and sacrifices of the brave men who fought the long fight for freedom and gained for us and humanity the glorious victory which resulted therefrom. In this way we shall honor our dead and mark our appreciation of the sacrifices of the living."

(Signal) "George E. Foster, Acting Prime Minister."

JELLCOE ARRIVES
LANDS AT VICTORIA

Is Guest in Evening at Official Dinner in His Honor.

Canadian Press Despatch.

Victoria, B. C., Nov. 9.—With uniformed marines drawn up at attention and with the band playing stirring marches, the battle cruiser New Zealand glided into Esquimalt harbor at 2:30 o'clock Saturday afternoon, beginning Admiral Jellicoe's Canadian lap of his empire tour.

Capt. L. H. Martin, head of the navy yard, went to the vessel in a launch. Admiral Jellicoe stood on the deck and received the various official calls. Following Capt. Martin came Major-Gen. R. G. B. Leckie, head of the navy yard, and other officials.

Admiral Jellicoe was the guest in the evening at an official dinner given him on behalf of the Dominion government at the Empress Hotel. Vice Admiral Kingmill, director of federal naval affairs, being the host.

Pays Tribute to Canada.

Viscount Jellicoe paid a high tribute to the part which Canada played in the great war and spoke of the admiration of the navy for the Canadian corps, which he completed, that of Sir Arthur Currie, whose qualities of leadership, he said, had been so ably proved.

Admiral Jellicoe went ashore and met Lady Jellicoe went ashore and met Lieut.-Governor and Lady Barnard, with whom they drove to government house for tea.

Admiral Jellicoe was the guest in the evening at an official dinner given him on behalf of the Dominion government at the Empress Hotel. Vice Admiral Kingmill, director of federal naval affairs, being the host.

Pays Tribute to Canada.

Viscount Jellicoe paid a high tribute to the part which Canada played in the great war and spoke of the admiration of the navy for the Canadian corps, which he completed, that of Sir Arthur Currie, whose qualities of leadership, he said, had been so ably proved.

Admiral Jellicoe went ashore and met Lady Jellicoe went ashore and met Lieut.-Governor and Lady Barnard, with whom they drove to government house for tea.

Admiral Jellicoe was the guest in the evening at an official dinner given him on behalf of the Dominion government at the Empress Hotel. Vice Admiral Kingmill, director of federal naval affairs, being the host.

Pays Tribute to Canada.

Viscount Jellicoe paid a high tribute to the part which Canada played in the great war and spoke of the admiration of the navy for the Canadian corps, which he completed, that of Sir Arthur Currie, whose qualities of leadership, he said, had been so ably proved.

Admiral Jellicoe went ashore and met Lady Jellicoe went ashore and met Lieut.-Governor and Lady Barnard, with whom they drove to government house for tea.

Admiral Jellicoe was the guest in the evening at an official dinner given him on behalf of the Dominion government at the Empress Hotel. Vice Admiral Kingmill, director of federal naval affairs, being the host.

Pays Tribute to Canada.

Viscount Jellicoe paid a high tribute to the part which Canada played in the great war and spoke of the admiration of the navy for the Canadian corps, which he completed, that of Sir Arthur Currie, whose qualities of leadership, he said, had been so ably proved.

Admiral Jellicoe went ashore and met Lady Jellicoe went ashore and met Lieut.-Governor and Lady Barnard, with whom they drove to government house for tea.

Admiral Jellicoe was the guest in the evening at an official dinner given him on behalf of the Dominion government at the Empress Hotel. Vice Admiral Kingmill, director of federal naval affairs, being the host.

Pays Tribute to Canada.

Viscount Jellicoe paid a high tribute to the part which Canada played in the great war and spoke of the admiration of the navy for the Canadian corps, which he completed, that of Sir Arthur Currie, whose qualities of leadership, he said, had been so ably proved.

Admiral Jellicoe went ashore and met Lady Jellicoe went ashore and met Lieut.-Governor and Lady Barnard, with whom they drove to government house for tea.

Admiral Jellicoe was the guest in the evening at an official dinner given him on behalf of the Dominion government at the Empress Hotel. Vice Admiral Kingmill, director of federal naval affairs, being the host.

Pays Tribute to Canada.

Viscount Jellicoe paid a high tribute to the part which Canada played in the great war and spoke of the admiration of the navy for the Canadian corps, which he completed, that of Sir Arthur Currie, whose qualities of leadership, he said, had been so ably proved.

Admiral Jellicoe went ashore and met Lady Jellicoe went ashore and met Lieut.-Governor and Lady Barnard, with whom they drove to government house for tea.

Admiral Jellicoe was the guest in the evening at an official dinner given him on behalf of the Dominion government at the Empress Hotel. Vice Admiral Kingmill, director of federal naval affairs, being the host.

Pays Tribute to Canada.

Viscount Jellicoe paid a high tribute to the part which Canada played in the great war and spoke of the admiration of the navy for the Canadian corps, which he completed, that of Sir Arthur Currie, whose qualities of leadership, he said, had been so ably proved.

Admiral Jellicoe went ashore and met Lady Jellicoe went ashore and met Lieut.-Governor and Lady Barnard, with whom they drove to government house for tea.

"BIG JIM" LARKIN HELD IN NEW YORK

One of Thirty Arrested,
Charged With Ultra-Radical Activities.

New York, Nov. 9.—Thirty men suspected of leadership in ultra-radical activities were held on various charges today after state and city officers had finished questioning the 1000 and more who were bagged last night in the biggest raid New York ever saw.

The three prisoners regarded as most important are:

"Big Jim" Larkin, former head of the Irish Transport Workers' Union, and Irish revolutionist, charged with criminal anarchy, police said he had forged passport in his possession.

Benjamin Kittlow, 35 years of age, reputed to have served a term in the assembly, charged with criminal anarchy.

Henry Pearl, 55, described as leader of the communist party in his assembly district, charged with violation of the law prohibiting carrying firearms.

Larkin is one of the most widely known English-speaking radicals. He had a stormy career in Ireland and England before he came to New York in November, 1914. He has been in this country ever since that time. Recently he has been seeking to return but the British government declined to receive him, as a consequence of which the Dublin unions threatened a strike in protest. He was arrested here in 1917 after an attack on the draft bill, but was discharged.

Larkin is one of the most widely known English-speaking radicals. He had a stormy career in Ireland and England before he came to New York in November, 1914. He has been in this country ever since that time. Recently he has been seeking to return but the British government declined to receive him, as a consequence of which the Dublin unions threatened a strike in protest. He was arrested here in 1917 after an attack on the draft bill, but was discharged.

Larkin is one of the most widely known English-speaking radicals. He had a stormy career in Ireland and England before he came to New York in November, 1914. He has been in this country ever since that time. Recently he has been seeking to return but the British government declined to receive him, as a consequence of which the Dublin unions threatened a strike in protest. He was arrested here in 1917 after an attack on the draft bill, but was discharged.

Larkin is one of the most widely known English-speaking radicals. He had a stormy career in Ireland and England before he came to New York in November, 1914. He has been in this country ever since that time. Recently he has been seeking to return but the British government declined to receive him, as a consequence of which the Dublin unions threatened a strike in protest. He was arrested here in 1917 after an attack on the draft bill, but was discharged.

Larkin is one of the most widely known English-speaking radicals. He had a stormy career in Ireland and England before he came to New York in November, 1914. He has been in this country ever since that time. Recently he has been seeking to return but the British government declined to receive him, as a consequence of which the Dublin unions threatened a strike in protest. He was arrested here in 1917 after an attack on the draft bill, but was discharged.</